MURPHY OPENS A WAY TO SWING OVER TO HEARST

Declares Loyalty to Hylan, but Adds: "Without Prejudice" to Editor's Candidacy.

MOVED BY WIGWAM REVOLT

Tammany Leaders More Than Content to See Brooklyn Judge Beaten in Primaries.

SULLIVAN CLAN FOR FUSION

Word that William R. Hearst intended to contest for the Mayoralty nomination against County Judge John F. Hylan of Brooklyn in the Democratic primary next month was circulated about Tammany Hall yesterday. While no definite information was forthcoming either from Mr. Hearst or his political lieutenants, the news was conveyed through Hearst channels that he was not at all satisfied with the Hylan ticket, and that he considered it his duty to take upon himself the task of defeating the Mitchel administration, to which he was opposed. Likewise it was said that Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, was convinced that Hylan was too weak a candidate to put up against Mitchel and that he was ready to swing the organization support to Hearst.

The revolt in Tammany that has been growing for several weeks, principally because of the Hylan selection, has thoroughly alarmed Murphy, it is said, and he is willing to help Hearst win in the primary. The rebellion took an alarming turn last night when the Sullivan clan, which for many years has been one of the main props of Tammany, went over to the support of Mayor Mitchel and the Fusion ticket in a body. When Tammany was in the height of its power the Sullivans, which included "Big Tim" and "Little Tim," were undisputed rulers of the lower part of the city. Since the death of Big Tim and Little Tim the Sullivan organization has not maintained its political strength, but in a sentimental way its influence is still large.

Murphy for Primary Winner.

Leader Murphy paved the way yesterday for a swing to Hearst by consenting to be interviewed and announcing that the organization would support Hearst if he won in the primary. It is the first time that Murphy has discussed the present political situation openly, and his action in breaking his long-established rule of silence was taken to mean that he had finally decided to desert Judge Hylan, who was the selection of the Democratic Fusion Committee and the Business Men's League, plus Leader John H. McCooey of Brooklyn.

"Where does Tammany stand as between Hylan and Hearst?" was the first question asked Mr. Murphy yesterday, when he let it be known that he was willing to talk.

"With Judge Hylan, of course," said Murphy. "There is only one candidate. Hearst isn't a candidate."

"Well, if he is a candidate, where do you and the organization stand?"

"With Judge Hylan, of course. He is the organization candidate."

"If Hearst wins in the primary, who will you support?"

"Hearst, of course," promptly replied the Tammany leader. "He will be the Democratic candidate if he wins in the primaries, and the organization always supports the party's nominees."

"Do you expect Judge Hylan to withdraw from the race?"

"That's a question that should be put to Judge Hylan. I don't think he is likely to do any such thing."

"Have you had any communication with Mr. Hearst in regard to the situation?"

"Absolutely none."

"Do you expect Judge Hylan to win in the primary?"

"I do," said Mr. Murphy, without a smile.

No Prejudice Against Hearst.

The Tammany boss then said he wanted it understood that while Judge Hylan was the organization candidate and would receive the support of the organization in the primaries all he had said was "without prejudice" to Mr. Hearst.

It was said at Tammany Hall that if Hearst won in the primaries and decided to run against Mitchel, it would not mean a split in the Tammany organization as the majority of the leaders were in favor of accepting him in preference to the present candidate. Murphy, they said, would be able to swing into line all the opposition to Hearst on the argument that he would be a much stronger candidate than any other that Tammany could put forward. Mr. Hearst has a week from today in which to file his declination. It was said last night that a statement from him might be forthcoming within a few days.

Judge Hylan gave out a statement yesterday deploring the fact that efforts were being made to introduce the war issue into the campaign.

"Twice during the last few days," he said, "representatives of newspapers that are supporting Mayor Mitchel have attempted, in interviewing me, to bring up the war as an issue in the municipal campaign. Now it is raised again. I do not know whether the attempt to make this an issue is inspired by Mr. Mitchel. But, from his plea for re-election on the ground that 'we are now engaged in a vital war,' it would seem that Mr. Mitchel is anxious to fight out the municipal campaign on the battlefields of Europe. I am frank to admit that I was surprised to find such an issue raised in this campaign. But, as long as there is an apparent dis-

Germany Refuses to Concede Demands Made by Argentina

ZURICH, Aug. 23, (by Wireless to London.)—Germany has replied to the Argentine note, which demanded compensation for the torpedoed Argentine ships and a pledge from Germany that she would abstain from torpedoing Argentine vessels in the future. It is officially announced from Berlin that Germany has not conceded these demands, but the possibility of an amicable settlement is not excluded.

The Argentine Government on Aug. 5 sent a note to Berlin requesting a clear reply to the Argentinian demands within a reasonable time. It has been the general belief in Argentina that diplomatic relations with Germany would be broken if the response of Berlin was a negative one.

PERKINS WINS IN ASSEMBLY VOTE

Amendment Barring Him from Food Control Commission Beaten 84 to 41.

BILL EXPECTED TO PASS

Whitman Supporters Gain First Victory Early This Morning After Protracted Session.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Friday, Aug. 24.—The Assembly was still in session early this morning discussing amendments to the Food Control bill.

For nearly nine hours the Republican Assemblymen were deadlocked in conference over the bill. The conference began at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. George W. Perkins was the stumbling block.

The Assembly, at 2 A. M., by a vote of 84 to 41, defeated an amendment to the Food Control bill which would have made the appointment of Mr. Perkins as a Food Control Commissioner impossible. This vote indicates that the passage of the bill in the Assembly is assured.

Republican lawmakers from up-State in both branches of the Legislature returned to the Capitol with ironclad instructions from their constituents to obstruct the passage of the bill as long as the appointment of Mr. Perkins as head of the Food Control Commission created through it remained a corollary to its enactment.

There is no doubt here that Governor Whitman, were he so disposed, could raise the legislative siege against the food bill by giving assurances that Mr. Perkins would not be named, but so far no word to that effect has come from the Executive Chamber and there is every reason to believe that none will come, for the Governor is said to be determined not only that the Food Control bill shall become a law, but that Mr. Perkins shall be one of the men to administer it.

The conference of the Republican Assemblymen broke up shortly before midnight. At that time Speaker Sweet said: "We have the votes to pass the bill, if they will stand."

The Assembly immediately went into session to consider a number of amendments to the bill proposed in conference. According to one of the Republican members, it is planned to debate the amendments in order to obtain a test vote, and, if the supporters of the bill succeed in defeating them, to go back into caucus and have the bill declared a Republican party measure.

Assemblyman Joseph M. Callahan of New York, minority leader, attempted to brig before the House the original food bill drafted by Governor Whitman and submitted to the Legislative War Committee at Syracuse as embodying the Executive's idea of food control legislation, but failed by a vote of 40 to 83. In speaking on the original Whitman bill, Mr. Callahan said that while it was not perfect it was infinitely better than the compromise measure on which the Republican leaders and the Governor agree.

"This bilil has some live things in it," Mr. Callahan said. "There is little red tape in it. The people are crying for red meat and the compromise bill gives them red tape."

At 8 o'clock in the evening, when the conference of the Republican Assemblymen came to a temporary close to give the fatigued and famished conferees an opportunity to snatch a hurried meal and rest a little from their labors, it was learned that Speaker Sweet had been able to muster only sixty-six Republican votes for the bill—ten less than the number necessary to pass it.

During the recess Assemblyman Alfred D. Bell of New York and Assemblymen George R. Brennan and August C. Flamman of Kings reached the Capitol, having passed on the way the Sergeant at Arms, who had been hurriedly dispatched to New York to bring the absent members before the bar of the House. They are all friendly to the bill and swelled the number of votes for the measure in the conference to sixty-nine.

Want the Bill Amended.

But there was a condition attached to their support and that of other Republican members from New York City. They declared before entering the conference that they would bolt unless the bill was amended by eliminating the clause providing for the establishment of terminal markets in cities, with half of the expense borne by the State and half by the municipalities. Mayor Mitchel and Controller Prendergast have objected to this provision on the ground that the taxpayers in New York City, who provide in round numbers 70 per cent. of the State revenues, would be compelled to shoulder more than their just share of the big burden.

With the Republican members from New York City assuming this attitude Speaker Sweet found himself between the devil and the deep sea, for it was with the subsidy to up-State municipalities as bait that the Speaker expected to placate the Republican members from rural districts who last week

PRESIDENT FIXES ANTHRACITE PRICE; NAMES CONTROLLER

Figures F. O. B. Mine Range from $4 to $5.30 a Ton—Jobbers' Fees Limited.

GARFIELD TO HAVE CHARGE

Accepts Appointment as Coal Administrator and Will Regulate Retailers' Profits.

FINAL EFFECT IN DOUBT

Washington Believes but Operators Deny That Prices to Consumers Will Be Lowered.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—By an executive order President Wilson today named Dr. Harry A. Garfield, President of Williams College, Coal Administrator, fixed the prices of anthracite coal at the mine—ranging from $4 to $5.30 a ton, according to the grade—and named the conditions under which jobbers would be permitted to operate.

The regulation of the retailer was left in the hands of Dr. Garfield, with authority to use drastic power, and with instructions to exert every effort to bring relief throughout the country. It was generally considered here that the President's action would mean a decided drop in anthracite coal prices.

Dr. Garfield, already at the head of the commission to determine a price for the 1917 wheat crop, accepted the new commission, and immediately took up his work. He told a NEW YORK TIMES reporter that three cardinal principles would be observed. They are:

1. Fair treatment of operators under conditions which would stimulate production.

2. Fair treatment of the jobbers, with restrictions which would prevent this branch of the trade taking advantage of the retailer.

3. Fair treatment of the retailer, with restrictions, if necessary, which would prevent exorbitant profits.

It can be stated that Dr. Garfield is determined to end, so far as lies within his power, waste and profiteering in coal.

Cut Into Jobbers' Profits.

The prices fixed by the President for coal at the mine are approximately those which the operators agreed upon voluntarily in conference with the Federal Trade Commission some months ago. The President, however, in naming 20 cents a ton for shipments east of Buffalo and 30 cents a ton west of Buffalo as the fee of the jobber, lopped off much of the profits these men had been accustomed to make in many instances. The soft coal jobbers' fee was limited to 15 cents a ton.

President Wilson also ruled that only a single jobber's fee should be charged, and that if the coal passed through several agencies in shipment from producer to retailer these agencies must be satisfied to apportion it among themselves. Dr. Garfield said that he was in full accord with this principle enunciated by the President.

"We will try," he said, "to obtain coal for the consuming public without working undue hardship to any department of the trade, and we believe that much can be accomplished in this direction. Just what reductions are possible is a matter of conjecture; we must first get our organization into operation.

"It is possible that a system of licensing will be adopted in order to obtain complete control of the situation in the interests of all, and this may be done largely on the plan worked out for the control of the wheat supply. In this way we could compel the jobbers to accept the ruling of the President as to the profits they shall make, as the license could be rescinded if conditions were not met."

The problem of controlling the retailer, Dr. Garfield admitted, was complicated, because of the many companies and individuals involved, but it can be stated that if necessary to prevent abuses a licensing system will be inaugurated also for that branch of the industry. One theory, however, is that a universal price for anthracite to the consumer—with perhaps slight variations because of locality and business conditions—can be established, which retailers will find it inexpedient to violate, regardless of lack of drastic action.

With the price at the mine and the jobber's fee fixed by the President, the price at which retailers obtain coal can be pretty closely ascertained by the public, as the freight rates will be made known. The coal administrator

SENATE DEFEATS LA FOLLETTE MOVE

REBUKED AS HINDERING WAR

White House Denial That President Is Seeking Higher Levies on Incomes and Profits.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The bipartisan majority in the Senate, which has put through all of the Administration's war measures, threw its force today against the La Follette amendment to augment appreciably the income tax in the War Revenue bill, defeating it by a vote of 58 to 21. This vote disposed of the income tax feature, and it will be passed in the bill as voted upon yesterday, with the original House amendments and the one offered by Senator Gerry of Rhode Island.

Defeat of Senator La Follette's scheme was inevitable, after the coup of yesterday, by which most of the advances in the income tax advocated by the Wisconsin Senator were worked into the bill. Senator La Follette's anxiety to get his amendment through did not strike a responsive chord with the bipartisan combination, which has been out of sympathy with what it regards as Mr. La Follette's obstructive tactics on nearly all war measures.

The abrupt rejection of Mr. La Follette's amendment was interpreted in the Senate lobby as a rebuke to the Wisconsin Senator for his attitude on the war and a distinct victory for Administration supporters on both side of the Senate. It was also taken as an augury that Senator La Follette's contemplated move to put a heavy increase on excess corporation war profits was certain to cause a sharp struggle that in the end might result in defeat.

While many Senators on both sides of the chamber believes that the tax on excess war profits ought to be raised, there was talk tonight that this would be done through another measure next Winter and that, if any further advance was put into the War Revenue bill it would be comparatively slight.

Senator Simmons, Chairman of the Finance Committee, who has handled the War Revenue bill in its career in the Senate, said tonight that the majority of the Senate appeared to be satisfied to let the excess profits section stand for the time. The Senator expressed satisfaction with the increase of $75,000,000 put upon incomes beyond the levy already provided for in the bill. He regarded the advance as fair, without imposing any serious burden, as the increase in every instance affected the higher incomes.

Talk that has gone the rounds at the Capitol during the last few days that President Wilson was in sympathy with the effort for fixing much higher taxes on incomes and excess war profits was repudiated by the Executive today in a statement given out at the White House. This statement read:

"The Secretary to the President announces this afternoon on the authority of the President that the statement that the President had been supporting the attacks on the Revenue bill was absolutely unfounded and that the President had been taking no part in the controversy at all."

La Follette Makes Hard Fight.

The vote on the La Follette amendment, to apply graduated taxes running from 1 per cent. on incomes from $5,000 to $6,000, up to 45 per cent. on incomes over $2,000,000, came after a long argument by the Wisconsin Senator. In his speech Senator La Follette pointed out that under his tax scheme, the yield would be $306,512,463, while under the plan voted upon by the Senate yesterday, the aggregate tax would be $523,244,750.

Here is the vote by which the La Follette amendment was defeated:

Republicans voting for the amendment:

Democrats voting for the amendment:

Gore, Hardwick, Hollis, Husting, Kirby, McKellar, Owen, Reed, Trammel, Vardaman—10. Total 21.

Democrats voting against the amendment:

Negro Regulars Riot near Houston, Texas; Twelve Whites Killed, a Score Wounded

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 24.—Twelve white men, civilians, police officers, and National Guardsmen were killed and more than a score of persons, men, women, and children, were wounded in an outbreak here tonight of negro soldiers of the Twenty-fourth United States Infantry, stationed here to act as guards during the construction of the camp where the Illinois troops will train. It is not known how many negroes are dead.

The known dead are:

MATTES, Captain J. W., Battely A, Second Illinois Field Artillery.
RAINEY, IRA D., mounted policeman.
DANIELS, RUFE, mounted policeman.
HATTON, S., a barber.
FINLEY, EARL.
CARSTEN, A. R.
WINKLER, FRED E.
UNIDENTIFIED MEXICAN.
MEINKE, Henry J., policeman.
THREE UNIDENTIFIED MEN.

Captain Mattes was killed when he tried to remonstrate with the negro soldiers.

The outbreak is supposed to have originated in a difficulty which two negro soldiers had with police officers, who arrested them for disturbing the peace and sent them to the police station early in the afternoon.

The firing began when an ambulance started through the section occupied by the negro soldiers. They stopped the ambulance and fired a volley, riddling it with bullets.

Civilians went to the assistance of the police officers and firing continued an hour and a half.

There were several hundred Texas guardsmen here ready to entrain for a training camp, but they had no guns. A battery of the Coast Artillery was rushed to Houston in motor trucks.

The city was placed under martial law late tonight by proclamation of Governor Ferguson.

RUSSIAN TROOPS EVACUATING RIGA; KERENSKY FACES A CABINET CRISIS; NEW GERMAN STORM OVER MICHAELIS

Majority Did Not Like Minister's Caution in Discussing Peace.

ROW SAID TO BE SETTLED

Explanation by the Chancellor Satisfies the Coalition Leaders, Berlin Reports.

BUT PRESS IS VERY CRITICAL

Michaelis Charged an Entente Plot to Divide Turkey—Wants Compromise Peace.

BERLIN, Aug. 23, (via London, Friday, Aug. 24.)—Berlin was surprised to learn on awaking this morning that the Reichstag building yesterday afternoon had been the scene of a political flurry, which assumed varying proportions as seen through editorial eyeglasses.

The incident which brought about the temporary disagreement between the majority coalition and the Chancellor was the Chancellor's somewhat indefinite phrasing of his attitude toward the Reichstag peace proposal. The impression crated was that Dr. Michaelis was circumscribing his indorsement of that action.

During Wednesday's intermission for luncheon the majority parties drew up a statement to the effect that there could be no doubt respecting the Chancellor's acquiescence in the coalition peace views. The presentation of this declaration at the afternoon session drew forth a second statement from the Chancellor, in which he definitely corrected any false impression that might have been created by his utterances at the morning session.

Under stress of this tension the main committee adjourned its sitting. The Chancellor received the party leaders late Wednesday night for the purpose of holding a confidential conference.

The unexpected episode, which became known despite the alleged confidential nature of the main committee's deliberations, gives a section of the press today occasion to dilate upon the incident in columns of plain-spoken comment in which the Chancellor fares rather badly.

When the committee resumed its session this morning a member of the Progressive People's Party, speaking for the majority coalition, explained that the Chancellor's supplementary statement had cleared up the misunderstandings and that the joint declaration of the majority parties would have been modified or entirely dispensed with if the correcting explanation, offered by Dr. Michaelis, could have been anticipated.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 23. — Theodor Wolff, editor of the Berlin Tageblatt, discusses the incident which brought about a temporary disagreement between the majority coalition and the Chancellor, and says:

"It is no longer possible that a nation of 70,000,000 who have to pay for every fault with blood and gold should be given a Government without its representatives being consulted. It is the Reichstag's duty to end this most absolute bureaucratic system."

An Outburst of Press Criticism.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 23.—A critical situation has been produced in Berlin by the chorus of criticism of Chancellor Michaelis's speech to the Reichstag Main Committee on Tuesday and other developments since. Much mystery surrounds reports of the proceedings, and apparently there has been an attempt to suppress some of the facts.

The Deutsche Kriegszeitung says the Chancellor openly stated that he did not accept the majority's peace resolution of July 19. The Berliner Neueste Nachrichten refers to a sensational speech by Herr Matthias Erzberger, which is nowhere reported.

The Lokal-Anzeiger says Dr. Michaelis has plainly shown that he is not afraid of fighting the Reichstag and that the sitting left a painful impression.

The Morgen-Zeitung says that Michaelis's first appearance before the Main Committee was a failure and that there can be no longer any talk of the Chancellor's honesty. Another paper asserts that this Chancellor is impossible.

Suggestion of New Crisis.

These sentences are sufficient to show that the situation is once more confused, though in view of the sharp censorship it's impossible to say whether another Chancellorship crisis is pending.

The Berliner Tageblatt says the Chancellor's speech made an impression of negative surprise in Parliamentary circles and lacked any originality. "If the moment for discussion of the Pope's note had not arrived," the paper says, "it was a mistake for the semi-official Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung to announce that the Chancellor would speak about the note." The paper continues that silence on the subject would have been better, and remarks:

"It is clear that Germany will not definitely refuse a peace offer as a basis for negotiation. If the Government wished to do this it would immediately have the Reichstag majority against it. It is to be hoped that the majority will make use of the opportunity that is presented."

The Tägliche Rundschau, annexation-

Russian Capital Must Be Shifted from Petrograd, Says Alexieff, But Calls Situation "Not Hopeless"

PETROGRAD, Aug. 23.—General Alexieff, former Commander in Chief of the Russian forces, in an interview today at Moscow asserted that Germany's strategy aimed at driving the Rumanian Army from all its positions, in order to compel Rumania to conclude a separate peace or to enter into an alliance with the Teutonic allies.

The seat of the Russian Government, General Alexieff continued, must be transferred to Moscow, although Petrograd at the present is not really threatened. The situation on the Russian front, he added, though serious, is not hopeless.

CANADIANS TAKE NEW GRIP ON LENS

Seize a Strategic Slag Heap South of Town Which Germans Held Firmly.

HARD FIGHTING FOLLOWS

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Heavy fighting is proceeding south and southwest of Lens, where the Canadians have taken a grip on a highly important position, which lies only 300 yards south of the main railway station of the town. This is a huge pile of slag from the mine pits which has been burrowed by the Germans, who are clinging tenaciously to it.

Tonight's report from British Headquarters in France says:

Heavy local fighting has taken place all day for the possession of an important enemy stronghold immediately south of Lens, known as the Green Crassier. Our troops gained a foothold on the spoil heap early this morning and have since beaten off several counterattacks, in which the enemy suffered heavy losses both from our artillery and in hand-to-hand fighting. Possession of the position is still being fiercely disputed.

A hostile attack upon one of the fortified farms captured by us yesterday north of the Ypres-Roulers railway was repulsed by our machine-gun fire.

We have advanced slightly to the northeast of Langemarck.

During the last week the fighting in the air has been incessant and more severe than at any other similar period since the beginning of the war. Yesterday the activity of the enemy's aircraft was less marked, and his pilots appeared disinclined to engage when close up to the lines.

None the less, a great number of fights again took place, in which our machines were favored by a change in wind. As a result of the fighting twelve German airplanes were brought down and six others were driven down out of control. Two of ours are missing, one of which was seen to effect a landing on the beach at Ostend.

Throughout yesterday's attacks our airplanes successfully co-operated with our artillery and infantry. The usual bombing and reconnoissance work was also carried out. In the course of the day and night five tons of explosives were dropped on various objectives behind the enemy's lines.

The day report said British ports near Lombaertzyde, Belgium, had been raided by the Germans.

Assaults Begin Before Dawn.

The Associated Press correspondent at the British front in France and Belgium tells this story of the fighting:

"An advance by the Canadians in the neighborhood of the green crassier on the southern edge of Lens this morning has added greatly to the strength of the British line, which has continued to tighten steadily about the heart of the city. The crassier is really a great slag heap, which has been accumulating for years over a considerable area between three groups of railway yards from which coal trains were sent south and west. It lies only about 300 yards south of the Central Railway Station of Lens and overlooks it.

"The crassier is an important buffer between the Canadians and the defenses of the city proper. And the Germans reach it through tunnels, connected with the network of passages and dugouts beneath Lens. Part of the ground about the crassier is inundated, due to the waterway near by having broken its banks, and this in conjunction with the great number of machine-gun emplacements on the elevation has made it a particularly difficult position for attack.

"The Canadians made their assault before dawn this time, and the attack was preceded by a protracted and exceedingly intense bombardment of the German positions. The Germans, exhausted by the long strain of constant counterattacks which they have been delivering, found the Canadians in their midst with little warning. But the defenders did not give up without a struggle, and there was considerable bayonet fighting.

"An advance upon two German colliery positions adjoining the crassier to

AIRMEN KILLED 30 IN HOSPITAL RAID

Ten Wounded Men, a Woman Nurse, and 19 Men Nurses Slain by German Fliers.

ATTACK WAS DELIBERATE

Machine Gunfire Was Peured Upon Helpless Hospital Staff by Light of Burning Sheds.

By G. H. PERRIS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Wednesday Night, Aug. 22, (delayed.)—In order to correct or verify a brief report transmitted this morning of a deliberate German attack on the hospital at Vadelaincourt, I have been there and examined the buildings and responsible members of the staff. There are two large groups of wooden sheds, divided by a high road—the hospital proper, with a remarkable surgical installation, and the evacuation hospital, with its railway sidings.

At 10:30 Monday night enemy aviators appeared over the village and began to bombard some buildings on the other side of it. Twenty minutes later one or more of them came over the hospital, where the lights had been extinguished, and dropped five bombs in quick succession. Only two of these did more than material damage, of which one, an ordinary bomb, fell on a shed occupied by wounded soldiers, and the other, an incendiary shell, fell on a dressing station. This blazed up immediately, and, if there had been any wind, the whole camp might have taken fire.

One man nurse, one woman nurse, and ten wounded men were killed in the hospital proper. At the same time four bombs were dropped on the evacuation hospital, all falling on a shed where there were a large number of male nurses.

Seeing by the light of the burning dressing station uninjured members of the camp staff gathered in an effort to rescue their patients and fellows, a German aviator came down to a height estimated by one of the doctors at a little over 200 yards and opened fire upon them with a machine gun.

Eighteen men nurses were killed and forty-nine wounded in the evacuation hospital, three being killed by machine gunfire.

The two doctors in chief were sure the attack was deliberate. There had, indeed, been two previous visits of the kind, in one of which a doctor and two nurses were wounded. The hospital has occupied this site for a year and must have been well known to the enemy airmen. Photographs taken by French aviators show red crosses on the roof and other signs plainly visible, and the fire so lit up the scene that at least from that point on there could be no mistake.

It was not a sudden affair, for the raiders were not interrupted. The one who is thought to have dropped most or all of the bombs flew around the buildings for half an hour, and the others were about for an hour or more.

In a separate part of the evacuation hospital 180 wounded German prisoners were being cared for. None of them was hurt. Among them was a German officer. At the beginning he angrily refused to believe his fellow-countrymen guilty of such an outrage, but before it was over he recognized the truth and remarked: "It is infamous."

By The Associated Press.

ON THE FRENCH FRONT, Aug. 23.—The incendiary bombs which were dropped by two German aviators on two hospitals behind Verdun on Sunday evening killed ten wounded men, one woman nurse, and nineteen trained male nurses. They wounded forty-nine male nurses and inflicted further injuries on patients suffering from wounds received in battle, many of whom rushed naked into nearby fields in an attempt to find shelter from the bombs which were being rained down.

The correspondent, after inspecting the hospital, visited a camp at which German prisoners are assembled. It contained considerably more than 6,000 officers and men. The correspondent was permitted to interrogate a large

RUSSIAN FORCES REBELLING

Offer Practically No Resistance to German Advance in North.

HINDENBURG LEADS DRIVE

POLITICAL REVOLT BREWING

Bourgeoisie and Ex-Army Chiefs May Present Ultimatum to Cabinet at Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Riga, one of the most important ports of Russia, seems to be lost to the Germans. All the facts in the matter are not known here, but enough has been received in the way of official advices to justify the statement that the Russian troops which have been defending the port and city are withdrawing, leaving the Germans an easy task.

The seriousness of the situation is emphasized by the fact that Riga is the principal key to Petrograd, and it is feared that the victorious Germans will march on the Russian capital. Without any definite statement at hand to that effect, all the circumstances tend to sho what there will be little resistance to the German advance.

With Petrograd threatened, the Provisional Government, on which Kerensky is the head, will be obliged to move elsewhere, and it is supposed in Washington that should this course become necessary the seat of government will be established in Moscow, the ancient capital, which has a sentimental place in the hearts of the Russian people.

Information that the Russians were withdrawing from Riga has been known to officials and others here since Tuesday. While it was felt that there was no military advantage in concealing this condition, no statement on the subject was forthcoming for the reason that those having knowledge of what was taking place took the position that it was for the Russian Government to let the Allied world have the bad news. For their own reasons the Germans have not made any announcement, and the official statements from Petrograd have merely indicated that an offensive against Riga had been begun by the German forces and that the Russians had been obliged to retire several versts.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg, Chief of the German General Staff, is supposed to be in personal command of the Kaiser's troops that are participating in the Riga campaign. It is expected here that within a short time, perhaps a matter of hours, announcement will be made from Petrograd or Berlin that the German troops are entering Riga. The character of the advices received here would indicate that this has already been accomplished.

The news about Riga came as a surprise even to those who have been following closely the situation on the Russian fronts. There had not been enough fighting there to justify any uneasiness on the part of the allied Governments when the news came that the Russians were evacuating the city. All this appears to show that the Russian troops refused to fight and gave up the port to the Germans with practically no resistance. The fall of Riga is expected to have an important political bearing on the Russian situation.

Disclosures today emphasized the seriousness of a three-sided crisis in Russia, military, economic, and political, which, it is feared, may even threaten the stability of the Kerensky government and involve the very vital question of Russia's defense. Little hope was held out anywhere that Rusisa would be able to recover her military power sufficiently to be able to conduct a successful defensive against the Central Powers before next Spring. "The Winter will be Russia's principal ally in the coming months," one authority asserted.

Among the facts forthcoming today are that Russia will lose the use of the Archangel railroad at the end of September because of ice in the harbor and its approaches, that the trans-Siberian railroad from Vladivostok is inefficient and inadequate to meet the needs of the nation, either civil or military, and that fresh and stronger measures have been taken by the Provisional Government to restore discipline in the army, tribunals having been organized for their enforcement. Inadequacy of the food supply and its transportation form the most serious economic problems, according to the Russian Embassy, where it is declared Russia is suffering from no shortage of ammunition.

"One of the chief tasks of the Government is to establish transport for food and supplies," said an official at the embassy. "There is no lack of munitions."

This official declined to make predictions concerning the time when Russia's armies may "come back." It was admitted that the Russian troops on the Riga, Galician, and Rumania fronts were being driven back by the Germans, but there was no detailed information available concerning the retreats. On the Galician and Rumanian fronts they were characterized as "strategic" retreats.

Embassy officials stated that no information had been received relating to the advance toward Riga except that announced by the embassy some ten days ago, when the presence of German war craft in the Gulf of Riga and German airplanes over Riga itself was reported. The Russian Government at that time, according to advices to the embassy, expected a German offensive against Riga.

Deny Loss Would Be Vital.

There was a decided disinclination at the embassy to admit, however, that the capture of Riga by the Germans would vitally affect Russia's participation in the war, although it was admitted the loss of Riga would be a serious blow.

Whether Russia will be in a position to conduct an offensive next Spring is declared to depend upon materials. Embassy officials decline to make any prediction. They refrain from divulging further information on that point, as not being in the military interest. It is declared to be the Russian view that any discussion of military possibilities in Russia would be unwise and wholly unreliable.

The embassy had been in communication with the State Department. Newspaper accounts of military disasters actual or impending in Russia were said to be "fantasies in the minds of the newspaper men." At the same time an embassy official admitted that the embassy had no new reports on the military situation in Russia.

"It is possible," he said, "that the Germans will make a drive on the northern front in the direction of Riga or of Dvinsk, because in that region they can use their naval forces. Activity has been manifested on that front for the last ten days."

It was insisted at the embassy that the German drive had nothing to do with the possible cutting off of the railroad from Archangel. It was explained that that port would be closed anyway by ice at the end of September, when Russia would be thrown back upon the Vladivostok line for transport from the outside world.

Embassy officials avoid saying anything that would have the appearance of criticising this Government for alleged delay in furnishing supplies to Russia. Discussions satisfactory to Russia are going forward, and Russia is said to expect no difficulty in obtaining what she needs in this country. Considerable quantities of supplies have already gone forward. The Root Mission fully appreciated the greatest need in Russia—transport—and what the Root Mission has recommended, locomotives and cars being two large items, indicates that Russia will be served in her sorest need.

The Petrograd Government has created Commissioners to be stationed near the armies to inform the soldiers regarding the political situation and developments. These Commissioners will co-operate with committees representing the troops and with the army commanders.

There were conferences today between Secretary Lansing, Secretary McAdoo, and Secretary Baker regarding Russia. These officials declined to discuss the conference. Secretary Lansing, after he had seen Mr. Baker, and when asked if the Russian situation was considered, answered: "Only in a general way."

There continues to be uneasiness here over the power of the Kerensky Government, the principal hope of the allied nations in Russia, to continue in control of the Government. There is known to be very strong opposition to him, and it is believed that German propaganda in Russia is aiming at his overthrow, so as to increase the confusion, and in an effort to undermine the recuperating power of the Russian Army. The opposition to Kerensky is not confined to the extreme Socialists, although they appear to be his main enemies, but also involves the Constitutional Democrats, who are dissatisfied with the Socialist character of the Government as now constituted. The Maximalists, or extreme Socialists, approach close to anarchy. It is feared by some that they will gain control of the situation.

Forces Falling Back on Riga Front—Berlin Claims Gains Without Fighting.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 23.—The Russian forces on the northern end of the Russian front, where the Germans have begun an offensive, retired yesterday under pressure from the region of Ragedzem and Kemmern to the Lake Schloyira and Frankendorf region. The official statement issued today by the Russian War Department, announcing this withdrawal, says that the German artillery conducted an intense fire in this sector. The text of the Russian statement follows:

Western (Russian) Front: In the direction of Tukkum, under pressure of the enemy, we retired from the region of Raggedzem and Kemmern to the Lake Schloyira (Schlob) and Frankendorf region. The enemy artillery conducted an intense fire in this region.

Southwest of Lake Babit, after a hand-to-hand encounter, a strong German scouting party was dispersed, leaving some prisoners in our hands. The enemy artillery here also displayed more vigorous activity in shelling our trenches. While inspecting his position, Major Gen. Kruglevsky, the gallant commander of a division, was injured.

In Volhynia, in the direction of Sokal, yesterday, an enemy battalion strongly supported by artillery, conducted an offensive in the region of Zborysh and Wydutka, and succeeded in penetrating our trenches at Zborysh. Our counterattack drove him out.

Rumanian Front: Last night the enemy attacked our positions northwest of Jazlovetz and occupied one height, but a counterattack restored the position.

In the direction of Ocna the fighting continues.

Yesterday the enemy conducted attacks north of Grozechti, near the factory of Staklerie, and in the region of Soveia. They were all repulsed by the Rumanians.

In the direction of Fokshani the Germans last night attacked on the Monasthrora-Maranechti front without success.

Aviation: On the Riga coast one of our airplanes brought down a German hydroairplane, which fell into the sea.

BERLIN, Aug. 23, (via London.)—German forces yesterday occupied without fighting the Russian positions west of the River Aa to the Oding-Bigaun line, on the Riga front, according to the official announcement made today by the German War Department. The statement reads:

Eastern Theatre—Army Group of Prince Leopold of Bavaria: The Russians, after destroying villages by fire, have evacuated their positions to the west of the River Aa to the line of Oding-Bigaun. The region thus given up has been occupied by us without a fight.

Army Group of Archduke Joseph: Between the Rivers Pruth and Moldava fighting activity was more lively at places. North of Grosechti, in the Suchava Valley, and near the Soveja, fresh enemy partial attacks which commenced after strong artillery preparation were without result.

Group of Field Marshal von Mackensen: There was no change.

RUSSIAN CABINET FACES A REVOLT

Conservative Opponents Discuss Reconstruction and Possibility of Military Dictatorship.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 23.—As the day approaches for the opening of the "extraordinary National Council" at Moscow the newspapers are full of speculation concerning expected dramatic announcements of events. Judging from present indication, the Congress is likely to take the form of a struggle of the Cabinet backed by the Socialist Left against the bourgeoisie consisting of Constitutional Democrats, discontenteu Moscow business men under their President, M. Riabushinsky, and dismissed Generals, who all agree in severely criticising the present course and policy and in demanding radical changes.

This view is taken by the Petrograd and Moscow press, which declare that if no agreement is reached between the contending groups open conflict must follow. First steps already have been taken toward vigorous and aggressive action by the malcontents. Among those who have arrived at Moscow are President Rodzianko of the Duma, A. J. Gushkoff, ex-President of the Duma; Professor Paul Milukoff, ex-Foreign Minister; A. I. Shingaroff, V. A. Maklakoff, also ex-Ministers, Commanders in Chief of the Russian armies, Generals Alexieff and Brusiloff, who yesterday conferred with the leaders of the Moscow movement; M. Riabushinsky, ex-Mayor Tchelkokoff, ex-Minister of Trade A. I. Konovaloff, and Prince S. Troubetskoi. General Baratoff, conqueror of Erzerum, and Ataman of the Cossacks arrived later.

Conferences were held under the Chairmanship of M. Rodzianko, at which the differences between the Government and the bourgeoisie were sharply emphasized, the only exception being made for Premier Kerensky, whom some of the speakers acclaim as capable of saving the country on the condition that he liberates himself from the Socialist and Council of Delegates control.

The press was excluded from the preliminary discussion and precautions were taken to prevent speeches being recorded, but it was stated these concerned the reconstruction of the Cabinet on the principle of strong power, the possibility of a military dictatorship, and the necessity of presenting the Cabinet with an ultimatum.

Prince Troubetskoi, in a sharp speech, attacked the Government, declaring the sacred revolution had fallen under the "coarse claws" of men who think only of plundering the national riches and of their own interests. The Government, the speaker complained, was entirely in the hands of Petrograd. That was the chief evil, Petrograd being the centre of rottenness. Therefore, he said, it was imperatively necessary to transfer the capital to healthy Moscow. Prince Troubetskoi excepted only Premier Kerensky from general condemnation, but M. Ilin, a Moscow speaker, declared Premier Kerensky culpable owing to his association with those responsible for the present anarchy.

General Alexieff fiercely denounced the Socialist "Order No. 1," giving soldiers full liberty and abolishing saluting. The General also denounced Petrograd. General Baratoff followed, declaring that he agreed with everything that General Alexieff had said.

Premier Kerensky will preside over the National Council. The list of the delegates has not yet been completed, but it is announced that there will be 100 representatives present from the Councils of Workmen's and Soldiers' and Peasants' Delegates, five from each of the nationalities, ten from the Cossack Council, fifteen from the Petrograd Municipality, fourteen from the Universities, and in addition delegates from Zemstvos, labor unions, Academies of Science and Arts, the Women's Unions, and the Orthodox Church.

The army will be represented by delegates from committees at the front and from other army committees. Lieut. Gen. Korniloff, Comander in Chief of the Russian Army, will attend the council and deliver an address.

On behalf of the Government Premier Kerensky, Vice Premier Nekrasoff, Minister of the Interior Avskentieff, and Minister of Trade and Industry Prokopovitch will speak. No resolutions will be submitted to the conference for voting.

The Government has postponed until Nov. 25 the elections to the Constituent Assembly. The first meeting of the Assembly will not be held until Dec. 11.

ADELE PANKHURST SENT TO MELBOURNE JAIL

Suffragette Sentenced to One Month for an Anti-Conscription Demonstration.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Melbourne says Adele Pankhurst, daughter of the English suffragette leader, was sentenced to a month's imprisonment today for a demonstration she started outside Parliament Building yesterday.

Adele Pankhurst for some time has figured in the "no conscription" propaganda in Australia. Several times meetings at which she was to speak have been broken up by soldiers, and at one or them Miss Pankhurst and other women engaged in the anti-conscription movement were struck in the face by stones thrown by soldiers and other persons.

REPORT LINER DESNA HAS BEEN TORPEDOED

Royal Mail Company's Vessel Last Reported as Leaving Bahia on July 2.

A SOUTH AMERICAN PORT, Aug. 23.—A dispatch received from Rio Janeiro says that there is persistent but unconfirmed rumors in circulation that the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company's steamer Desna has been torpedoed.

The liner Desna of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company was last reported as having sailed from Bahia, Brazil, on July 2. She was 500 feet long and of 11,483 gross tons burden, and was built in 1912 at Belfast.

10,000-TON VESSEL IS SUNK.

Leyland Liner Devonian Destroyed in the War Zone by a U-Boat.

BOSTON, Aug. 23.—The Leyland liner Devonian, which left an Atlantic port on July 28, has been sunk, presumably by a German submarine. Officers of the line today confirmed the report that the vessel was lost, but said they had received no word as to the safety of the crew.

The Devonian carried a crew of sixty, and on her last trip out there were sixty-five American horse tenders aboard. Records at the British Consulate here showed that there were no Americans in the crew.

The Devonian, long in the Boston-Liverpool service, was the first armed ship to leave this port. Cable advices from England to the company here did not indicate whether the Devonian had departed for this side, although it was assumed that she was on a westbound voyage when sunk.

The Devonian, a vessel of 10,435 tons, was built at Belfast in 1900.

16,350 AUSTRIANS IN ITALIAN HANDS

Rome Reports Further Advances on Both Wings in Great Drive at Trieste.

ALL COUNTERATTACKS FAIL

London Hears That Everything of Value Is Being Removed from the Menaced City.

ROME, Aug. 23.—Furious fighting continues on the Isonzo front. The War Office announces further gains for the Italians on both the northern and southern wings. Austrian counterattacks of redoubted intensity are being beaten back by the Italians.

Following is the official announcement:

On the fourth dav of the battle on the Julian front we again made considerable progress on the northern wing, of the line and obtained new successes on the southern wing. The enemy is reacting strongly against our pressure and redoubling his counteroffensives. Our troops are repulsing his counterattacks from the positions captured and are gallantly proceeding toward realization of their objectives.

On the Carso the Pallanza Brigade has covered itself with glory. After having carried a strong position southwest of Dosso Faiti, this brigade has held it with heroic tenacity in three days of most bitter fighting.

The aerial arm co-operated in our success. Our airplanes and airships bombarded the enemy, dropping more than twelve tons of bombs.

Prisoners captured up to yesterday morning amount to about 350 officers and more than 16,000 men.

On the Trentino and Carnia fronts there was a recurrence of small local actions of limited importance.

A dispatch from Udine says that enemy losses during the first two days in the advance are calculated at 30,000 in killed, wounded, and prisoners.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The Austrians are removing everything of value from Trieste to Vienna and other inland places, according to a Rome dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

BRITISH DEMAND BETTER AIR SERVICE

Newspapers Assert Germans May Get Upper Hand if Dual Management Continues.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Renewed newspaper attempts to stir the Government to greater air activity have followed yesterday's air raid on the southeast coast of England. There also may be more demands for reprisals against the Germans since the bombing of pleasure resorts like Margate and Southend, which have no military or industrial establishments, arouses indignation even greater than was caused by the attacks on London.

The gist of the complaints is that although the fourth year of the war is beginning, the British Government has not awakened as much as has Germany to the importance of aerial warfare, nor kept abreast of the German designers in improved and powerful types of machines.

The Pall Mall Gazette says the British airmen are fighting superbly, but it notes with anxiety that their success seems to be achieved at a steadily growing cost, and that German airmen are fighting better than formerly and are showing an improvement in morale in every respect. The newspaper concludes:

"Unless there is speedily an official awakening to the reality of the position our future may be jeopardized."

One of the chief handicaps to the air service, according to many experts, is that it remains under a dual management, being a subordinate department of both the army and the navy. Even the defenses of England are under the divided control of these two services, and some critics allege the co-operation is not what it might be.

The Town Council of Southend has petitioned the Government for reprisals, and asks it "to give an assurance that the engineering of the scheme of reprisals will leave little doubt that the German civilians shall suffer to as great an extent as the civilians in England have suffered."

The Manchester Guardian expresses great dissatisfaction over what it terms British weakness in the air, and says that Great Britain's position should be such that an invasion of the United Kingdom by air would be as impossible as on the surface or by water.

"The air service," the newspaper continues, "comes into conflict with two great vested interests, that of the army and of the navy, who are both concerned to push their own claims of our military difficulties, and regard the newcomer—air power—with a certain degree of jealousy. It must be put at the service of the nation and above any mere detrimental subordinations.

"Until the Air Ministry becomes a separate department of State, equal to the War Office and the Admiralty, we shall never realize all the value that is to be got out of it."

The newspaper concludes that if the Germans take the lead in the air Great Britain will be less well off than she was a year ago.

BERLIN, Aug. 23, (via London.)—In an aerial attack yesterday on the British coast military establishments at Margate, Ramsgate, and Dover were bombarded successfully, the War Office announces. In numerous aerial engagements the German shot down three airplanes. Two German machines have not returned.

Official announcement was made in London yesterday that ten German airplanes had dropped bombs on Dover, Margate, and Ramsgate. Eleven persons were killed and thirteen were injured.

TURKS FOR 3 MONTHS FOOLED BRITAIN

Asserted Their Neutrality, Although They Had Contracted War Alliance With Kaiser.

TREATY MADE AUG. 4, 1914

Sublime Porte's Duplicity Revealed by the Greek White Book Just Made Public.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 24.—Copies of the White Book laid before the Greek Chamber on Aug. 18 have not yet reached this country, but The Times points out that an Athens telegram to the Temps of Aug. 21 cites some interesting extracts which were not published in England and reveal the date, hitherto unknown, of the Turco-German Alliance.

On Aug. 4, 1914, Theotokis, the Greek Minister at Berlin, telegraphed Athens that the German Emperor had summoned him to an audience, read to him a telegram just received from King Constantine, and instructed him to reply as follows:

"The Emperor informs me that an alliance has this day been concluded between Germany and Turkey. Bulgaria and Rumania also are taking their stand alongside Germany. German warships in the Mediterranean are to join the Turkish fleet and act with it. By this action the King of the Hellenes will see that all the Balkan States have joined Germany in the struggle against Slavism."

Theotokis added:

"The Kaiser asks you to mobilize your army, place yourself at his side, and march with him hand-in-hand against Slavism and the common enemy. If Greece does not side with Germany there will be a complete breach between Greece and the empire. The Emperor added: 'What I ask today is the execution of what the two sovereigns have often discussed.'"

The next day Theotokis again telegraphed Constantine, saying Jagow had confirmed under seal of absolute secrecy the conclusion of an alliance between Germany and Turkey. Theotokis added that his impression was that the Emperor would not object to seeing Greece extend her territory at the cost of Serbia.

The Times, commenting on this "mortifying disclosure," says:

"King Constantine and his Ministers knew of the German-Turkish alliance before we began the war. The diplomacy of the Allies, with all its official sources, existed until the end of October. The Turks had actually to attack them before they would awaken to it. Our Ambassador at Constantinople was himself in England when the alliance was made, and seems to have returned to Constantinople with general instructions to work with the Turkish 'moderates,' though the Turkish Government, as we now know, was already committed against us.

"So late as Oct. 12 his anxiety was lest we should do anything which the Turks might interpret as aggressive, and thus weaken the resistance which these moderates were offering to Enver."

After detailing occasions after the date of the signature of the treaty on which the Grand Vizier assured the Ambassador of Turkey's decision to observe strict neutrality, The Times concludes:

"We negotiated for three months with Turkey while Turkey was already a sworn ally of Germany."

Confirms Revelations by Gerard.

PARIS, Aug. 22, (Delayed.)—Jules Cambon, General Secretary to the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs, in an interview today with The Associated Press took up the question of the White Book just published by the Greek Government regarding the relations between Germany and Greece at the outbreak of the war while the former King Constantine was on the Hellenic throne. The documents contained in the White Book, M. Cambon said, confirmed the revelations made by James W. Gerard, former American Ambassador at Berlin, in his memoirs, recently made public. M. Cambon continued:

"The conversations of officials in Willhelmstrasse with Mr. Theotokis (former Greek Minister to Germany) and the messages from Emperor William to King Constantine proved in an undeniable way the premeditation of war from the beginning of July, 1914. Whether the famous Government Council was held on the 5th or 6th of July, it is certain the German authorities were agreed to go to war and cannot escape the responsibility which rests upon them. The White Book is one of the most historical documents on the question of responsibility for the war."

ZEEBRUGGE ATTACKED FROM SEA AND AIR

British Warships and Airplanes Make Raid on German Submarine Base.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 23.—British warships last evening bombarded the German submarine base at the Belgian port of Zeebrugge, according to the frontier correspondent of the Telegraaf.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The important submarine base of Zeebrugge and other military objectives in Belgium were attacked yesterday by British airmen, the Admiralty announces.

"A bombing raid was made by naval aircraft Wednesday morning on the Zeebrugge mole, shipping, and batteries," the statement says. "Some hits were obtained. The Ghistelles airdrome also was bombed. There were explosions near the western shed and a fire was started. All the machines returned."

9 FRENCH STEAMERS SUNK.

Five Were of Over 1,600 Tons—3 Others Unsuccessfully Attacked.

PARIS, Wednesday, Aug. 22.—In the week ended Aug. 19 five French steamships of 1,600 tons or more were sunk by mines or submarines, according to the weekly official report. Four vessels under 1,600 tons were sunk.

No fishing ships were destroyed. Three attacks by submarines failed.

HARRY KURZ IS MISSING.

New Yorker, Since Imprisonment, Has Not Shown Up in France.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—American Aviation Headquarters had heard nothing of Harry Kurz of New York, who recently was sentenced to a month's imprisonment by the Correctional Court on a charge of being in France, although he had previously been expelled from the country because his parents were Austrians.

Since the expiration of his term of detention on Aug. 18, Kurz has not been on duty as Medical Examiner for Candidates for the Flying Corps.

Kurz, a graduate of Columbia University, New York, was expelled from France in June, 1916, but later returned there with a number of American Army aviators.

DON'T TRUST GERMANS, GERARD TELLS IRISH

He Wishes They Could Have Seen How Irish Prisoners Were Maltreated.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—James W. Gerard left Chicago tonight for Minneapolis, having canceled his Milwaukee engagement. The former Ambassador felt better this evening and continued his journey westward.

Before going Mr. Gerard took occasion to say that murder and organized starvation were features of the welcome that the Germans gave Irish prisoners.

"If the Irish people of Chicago could see, as I saw, the way the Irish prisoners were treated, if they could talk with the prisoners, if they could see the way they were dying in prison camps from starvation and tuberculosis, they would lose all sympathy for the Germans," said Mr. Gerard. "American prisoners probably will be treated the same way. The Germans care no more about the Irish than they do about the English. The Irish prisoners were collected in one camp at Limburg, about 2,500 of them. The Germans sent Sir Roger Casement to the camp to enlist for his Irish rebellion. He got about thirty men to go with him. When he went back to the camp for more volunteers the Irishmen chased him away and there was a near riot for a time.

"I got secret information from Germans that the guards were shooting and killing Irish prisoners. One prisoner was killed while I was trying to investigate the reported murder of another Irishman. The killing of one man was concealed from me, and there is no telling how many other Irishmen were shot down by their German guards.

"When I tried to get information I was informed that an investigation was under way, and I never was able to get any satisfactory explanation of the shootings. In one case the guard was exonerated and had the charming taste to attend the funeral of his victim. I made repeated demands to see the prisoners who were present when the men were killed, but was never able to make any headway."

Two Chicago detectives have been with Mr. Gerard almost constantly since he arrived here yesterday morning. Mr. Gerard says that he is not worried about threats of Germans.

KING GEORGE SENDS MESSAGE TO RUMANIA

Expresses Admiration for Deeds of Ferdinand's Troops and Encourages Them to Fight On.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—King George has sent a telegram to King Ferdinand of Rumania expressing admiration for the resistance the Rumanians and Russians are offering to the enemy and expressing confidence that their efforts will not go unrewarded. The telegram says:

"At this time when your Majesty is engaged in a bitter struggle in defense of your country, I desire to convey to you the admiration of the British people for the magnificent way in which the allied armies under your command have fought and for the very gallant resistance they are making to the assault of the enemy.

"The British peoples are closely following the course of the great battle now raging and trust in the valor of the Rumanian and Russian troops under the leadership of your Majesty to bring the enemy's efforts to naught.

"British forces in the west, in cooperation with their gallant French comrades, are striking hard at the common enemy and will continue by all means in their power to render by possible assistance to your Majesty's forces, their allies."

FOE'S FRONT SHAKY, GEN. MAURICE SAYS

Comments on "Painful Lack of Veracity" of Recent German Official Statements.

MEANT TO DECEIVE PEOPLE

Allies on Western Front Have Taken 32,500 Prisoners Since the End of July.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—In an interview today Major Gen. Frederick B. Maurice, Chief Director of the War Intelligence Office, commented on "the painful lack of veracity" of recent German War Office bulletins and said that the tone of these statements "shows that the high command feels strongly the necessity of coloring all recent operations with a brush that will buck up and encourage the faltering German people." In the same connection he spoke of "the wabbling military situation" which the Teutons faced.

General Maurice, discussing with The Associated Press the fields of operations, remarked that the German offensive on the Riga front had "only just started and thus far has accomplished nothing," and "there are no indications at present of big adverse developments," in Russia. He said the French and British were proceeding on methodical lines as before on the west front, while the Italian offensive bade fair to result in "a victory of the first magnitude."

"In the last three days the Entente Allies on the western front have taken 25,000 prisoners and since July 31 they have taken 32,500 prisoners," said General Maurice. "I am confident that before the end of August we will have topped the figure of 40,000 which the Germans claim to have taken in a month on the Russian front, although their total undoubtedly is composed, by at least half, of mere stragglers from the mutinous and disorganized Russian units."

"The temporary disorganization on the Russian front has not been as serious in effect as the Entente Allies had feared and as the Germans had hoped. A German break through in Moldavia and in South Galicia would have had serious results, for it would have involved certain strategic retirements on other parts of the line, but the Germans made no progress here, and the Russians are fighting well.

"The Germans now have begun offensives on the Riga front, but the operation has only just started and thus far has accomplished nothing.

"Summing up the whole operations on the Russian front since the Russian retirement began, it may be said that the Germans achieved only local successes, and there are no indications at present of big adverse developments."

Discussing the situation on the British front in France and Belgium, General Maurice said:

"We still are in the midst of a battle. Battles nowadays last two or three months instead of a day or two, as in the old times. Trying to predict the result from the achievements thus far is like judging the battle of Waterloo from the situation in the morning. When we get to 4 o'clock in Flanders we can probably say whether we are likely to obtain a decisive victory.

"We are carrying out our campaign in France and Flanders on the same careful, methodical plan which I have often explained to you. Each move is made against strictly limited objectives, beyond which we do not attempt to go. In the case of the fighting which began Aug. 16 the objective was even more limited than usual, owing to the unfavorable condition of the ground. But we got what we wanted and settled ourselves there for the next move.

"At Lens we are now right into the town on the southwest and northwest boundaries.

"The Germans are fighting very hard and very well. This is particularly true of their troops on the British front, where they have brought up reserves from the French front. How hard they are pushed is shown by the fact that they have had to employ many more divisions than we, and that they have been compelled to withdraw more than twice as many divisions as we on account of exhaustion or losses.

"The Germans have not only brought up plentiful reserves against the British thrust, but also great quantities of artillery. When signs of our Flanders offensive first appeared on the horizon they transferred all the good airplanes they had on the Russian front to Flanders, but without helping the air situation much.

"The withdrawal of German reserves from the French front undoubtedly made the French Verdun push easier, and this was naturally one of the things taken into account by the Allies. The French attack at Verdun, I may say, is being carried out according to the same methodical plans as ours in the north. In their first attack they gained about three-fourths of their objectives, leaving the other one-fourth to be cleaned up later by localized operations.

"On the Italian front also we have had a notable success this week. The battle there is still in progress and little need be said until it develops further. From the professional point of view I may say, however, that the Italians have already gained an important victory, which gives promise of developing presently into a victory of the first magnitude.

"In conclusion I might say a word about the German communiques of the last fortnight. It is unnecessary to draw any further attention to their painful lack of veracity, which is so completely demonstrated by the Langemarck fiasco. But for us all there is a note of encouragement in the tone of these daily statements. Their tone shows that the high command feels strongly the necessity of coloring all recent operations with a brush which will buck up and encourage the faltering German people. It is necessary to use any means to assure the Germans that everything that happens is a victory. Von Ludendorff claims a victory every day, whichever way his army is moving or is being moved.

"The German people are not starving, but are in a sad state of discomfort—food none to plentiful, soaps and fats lacking, the coal supply short and railway traffic breaking down. The people need every word of encouragement that Von Ludendorff and Michaelis can extract from the wabbling military situation."

TO AID ITALY'S WOUNDED.

Red Cross Commission Will Operate with Government's Approval.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—The American Red Cross Commission to Italy, headed by Lieut. Col. George Baker, Jr., of New York, will leave Paris for Rome in a few days. In Rome it will study the feasibility of the establishment of base hospitals and ambulance units for the prompt collection and treatment of the ill and wounded.

The commission also plans to establish relief stations at several seaports for the care of those suffering from injuries sustained in naval warfare on the Adriatic and Mediterranean. The commission will operate with the assistance and approval of the Italian Government.

number of the prisoners, many of whom are 18 or 19 years of age. They all declared themselves most contented at being out of the war.

NEW YORK NURSE INJURED.

Believed Here Miss MacDonald Was Hurt by German Airmen.

A private cable message received in this city yesterday stated that Miss Beatrice Mary MacDonald, one of the New York nurses in the Presbyterian Hospital unit that sailed for France last Spring, had been wounded near Verdun. The message failed to give full details, but her friends believe that she was one of those injured when German aviators dropped bombs on two hospitals at Verdun last Sunday evening.

Miss MacDonald was struck on the head by flying pieces of shell and it was thought for a time she would die. After being removed to the hospital at Boulogne, however, her condition was found less serious than had been feared, the message said. She had been badly cut about the head and would be confined to her bed for several weeks, but there was no doubt of her recovery. At the worst, the message said, the sight of one of her eyes might be impaired, but the physicians hoped to be able to save her from this.

Miss MacDonald is the sister of Major Ronald MacDonald, a physician of Summerside, Prince Edward Island, Canada, who enlisted in the Medical Reserve Corps early in the war. She is well known here and has two sisters in the city who are also nurses.

At the time she enlisted in the Presbyterian Hospital unit, which was organized at Columbia University, she was secretary to Dr. George Emerson Brewer, later appointed director of the unit. She was living at 776 Lexington Avenue, and was one of twenty-three nurses chosen to accompany Dr. Brewer to France. She was selected partly because she had seen service in France after the beginning of the war, having been a nurse for several months at Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's Hospital near Paris.

The message received yesterday came from a friend who did not want his name made public, and was addressed to a person who had known Miss MacDonald for many years. This person at been told," said Miss Claire MacDonald one of the sisters of the injured girl, who is a trained nurse at Roosevelt Hospital.

"All I know about it is what I've been told," said Miss Claire MasDonald last night. "The message did not come to me, and all I know is that Beatrice was hurt, I understand, however, that she will recover."

The sister said that her other sisters had recently gone to visit her parents at Summerside. She and her father and mother were at once notified.

VERDUN BATTLE ENDING, FRENCH AIMS ARE WON

More Than 7,600 Prisoners Have Been Taken by Petain's Forces in Present Drive.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—The French objectives north of Verdun appear to have been attained and tonight's official report states that calm prevailed on that front outside of some artillery fire. The number of prisoners taken since the present offensive began is 7,639, according to the War Office. The French last night captured a fortified German position north of Mortmont Farm.

The day bulletin says:

The German artillery was very active north of the Aisne, especially in the sector between Braye-en-Laonnois and Hurtebise. Several enemy attacks in the regions of Laffaux Mill, Ailles and Cerny were repulsed.

On the left bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) our artillery, which had the upper hand, was very active during the night. On the right bank of the river a detail operation enabled us to reduce a small point of resistance of the enemy north of Mortmont Farm. We took seventeen prisoners.

The number of prisoners taken since Aug. 20 has reached 7,639, including 185 officers and 600 wounded. The captured material listed includes twenty-four cannon of all calibres and more than 200 machine guns, in addition to nine cannon which were destroyed.

There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front.

The night bulletin says:

Calm prevailed along the whole front.

There was reciprocal artillery activity on both sides of the Meuse.

In the region east of Altkirch our artillery caught under its fire a German Drachen, which was brought down in flames.

An Associated Press dispatch from the grand headquarters of the French Army, sent last night, says:

"The testimony of prisoners shows that the Germans intended to hold the left bank of the Meuse at all costs. The regiments stationed there were ordered to die at their posts, if necessary. Many did so, while a remained in the line were captured. Over two-thirds of the prisoners were taken there.

"Of one German division at least three regiments exist no more, and those remaining alive are prisoners. One of the captured men told how a French shell fell into a depot of poisonous gas shells near Berbeolds, the fumes of which killed the supplements of three entire German batteries, composing a group which had been sending hundreds of these projectiles over the French lines."

Major Gen. John J. Pershing had a splendid view of the first day's operations from a position near Le Mort Homme. There was an interesting meeting there between the American commander and the French General Corvisart, who was a fellow Military Attaché of Pershing in the Manchurian war. The German Commander, facing this part of the line, was General Hetzel, who also was a Military Attaché, and met General Pershing during the Russo-Japanese war.

"General Pershing was able to witness the wonderful handling of the French troops which conquered Dead Man's Hill, Goose Hill, and the adjacent woods and captured about 4,000 prisoners, besids taking a number of big guns and destroying many others.

"The Germans had built into the twin summits of Le Mort Homme two tunnels, which they named Crown Prince and Bismarck. The French bombardment smashed them, killing hundreds of occupants, but leaving many still alive to be captured later. In the first named tunnel 600 prisoners were taken."

BERLIN, Aug. 23, (via London.)—In the fighting yesterday in the region of Verdun the German General Headquarters Staff today reports the French gained a footing only in a German foremost trench on a small front to the west of the Vacheraulville-Beaumont road.

Today's bulletin reads:

Lively shelling of the inner portion of the city of St. Quentin continues.

Army Group of the German Crown Prince.—A pause supervened yesterday in the bitter struggle near Verdun. It was only toward evening that the artillery activity on both banks of the Meuse was resumed in considerable intensity. On both sides of the Vacheraville-Beaumont road attacks followed fierce preparatory fire. During the heavy struggle the French only succeeded in gaining a footing in our foremost trench over a small front west of the road.

Otherwise they were everywhere repulsed with sanguinary losses. On several occasions under our annihilating fire the French thrusts failed to develop.

AMERICAN FLIERS SHINE AT VERDUN

Lafayette Squadron Performing Daring Feats to Help French Advance; New Pilot Wins Cross.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—Glorious "airplane weather" has given a tremendous impetus to the activity of aviators on the western front. The Lafayette Squadron, composed of Americans, has been up incessantly, participating in the recent offensive at Verdun and vying with French aviators in the exciting, though dangerous, new game of accompanying the infantry at extremely low altitudes, and engaging enemy squadrilles in machine gun duels.

The work of this kind has not only been effective, but it has been without casualties, except for the injury to Stephen Bigelow of Boston, who had a narrow escape when a German bullet crashed through his windshield, splintering glass which grazed him on both cheeks.

Another squadron composed of Didier Masson of Los Angeles, Cal.; Dudley L. Hill of Peekskill, N. Y.; Robert Soubirran of New York, Ray Claflin Bridgman of Lake Forrest, Ill., and Douglas MacMonagle of San Francisco, yesterday executed a movement over the new French trenches to protect the infantry, the "liaison" machines flying so low that the aviators could hear the guns and the explosions of the big shells leaving the French lines.

On returning the Americans described the flight as a marvelous one, since they could plainly see each detail of the raging battle, but also an uncomfortable one, since they were constantly passing through the trajectory of big shells which made the air "shaky" and which could be felt continuously. Weather prospects are good for the next few days, so the members of the Lafayette Squadron expect a continuation of the exciting work.

An expedition with bombing machines led by Adjutant Willis B. Haviland of Minneapolis last night was attacked unsuccessfully by a German squadron.

Walter S. Rheno of Martha's Vineyard, Mass., who yesterday single handed shot down a German two-seated Albatross, is one of the newest men to join the Lafayette Flying Corps. He thus earned his Sergeant's stripes and a War Cross at the outset of his career. It is considered a remarkable performance for so young a pilot to get the better of a two-manned machine without help.

Dr. Edmond Gros of Paris, who was instrumental in organizing the successful Lafayette Flying Corps with American volunteers, has been appointed a Major of the American Army in the Aviation Signal Corps. He will give up his practice for the duration of the war.

the northwest earlier in the night also involved stiff hand-to-hand fighting. About the crassier are numerous shell-shattered buildings, many of which have been strongly fortified by the Germans. The Canadians this morning bombed their way systematically through these defenses, silencing the machine guns and clearing out the defenders.

"The Canadians thus far have not attempted to advance into the heart of Lens, but today's fighting was on the edge of the city proper, rather than in the suburbs. There seems to be no diminution in the strength of the Canadian attacks, despite the tremendous labor they have performed in the last few days. They have worked steadily and methodically, gradually weaving a net about the Germans, who live miserably in their underground positions within the city, which is rapidly approaching the point where it will furnish most inhospitable quarters for the enemy."

BERLIN, Aug. 23 (via London).—With the exception of two places east of St. Julien and on the Ypres-Lenin road, on the Belgian front, says the War Office, the German foremost trenches on a nine-mile fighting front near Ypres were completely maintained yesterday against British attacks. The day's bulletin says:

Army Group of Crown Prince Rupprecht.—After fruitless partial thrusts made in the past few days the English yesterday again proceeded to make great attacks between Langemarck and Hollebeke. The attacks continued throughout the day and far into the night and led to heavy fighting. At many places

RED CARDS TO CALL DRAFT ARMY TO DUTY

These Will Be Mailed to First Third of New York's Quota Before Sept. 5.

GIVE FINAL INSTRUCTIONS

Selectives Who Fail to Respond Will Automatically Become Army Deserters.

The "red cards" which will be used to order the men selected for the National Army to report for military duty and to make all necessary preparations to depart for their designated cantonments were mailed to the Chairmen of the 189 New York City local district boards last night. The cards were received from the War Department late yesterday afternoon and the work of preparing for the mobilization of the first third of New York City's quota of about 29,000 men will begin today. About 40,000 cards were sent to the various boards last night, and the boards are under orders to be ready to have the cards properly filled out the moment the word "mobilize" is flashed from the office of Provost Marshal General Enoch H. Crowder in Washington.

Deputy Attorney General Roscoe S. Conkling, in charge of the draft examinations in New York City, conferred with General Crowder in Washington, yesterday morning, and returned to New York last night. He said Sept. 5, which is the date when the first third of the National Army is expected to be called for service, is only a tentative date, and that if the War Department so desires it could order the first third of the army mobilized as far ahead of that date as it sees fit. However, he added that in his opinion Sept. 5 would be the date of the mobilization.

The cards will name the dates on which the men are to report for service, and on that date the recipients will automatically pass from civil to military life and will be subject only to the orders of their military superiors.

To Send 13,000 Cards First.

About 13,000 New Yorkers will be called to the colors with the first third of the National Army. With only a few exceptions every board in the city has obtained more than two-thirds of its required total and the city's first quota can be called to service at any time the Government desires. As fast as the men selected for service are certified by the District Board, which is a formality requiring very little time, these men are subject to call. The cards for the first third of the quotas will be immediately made out and held ready for mailing whenever General Crowder gives the word.

The "red cards" read:

By direction of the Secretary of War, you are hereby ordered to report to the office of this Local Board at .... m. on the .... day of ....., 191.., for military duty and for transportation to the Army mobilization camp at .....

From the date herein specified for you to report, you will be in the military service of the United States and subject to military law. Failure to report or unpunctuality are grave military offenses punishable by court martial. Willful failure to report with intention to evade military service constitutes desertion, which is a capital offense in time of war. Present yourself at the precise hour specified in order that you may not begin your military record in the service of your country with a delinquency.

You will be held under the orders of this board until the hour of departure of your train. During this period the Local Board will furnish you food and lodging. If you live within one hour's travel of the office of the Local Board, you may obtain permission to sleep and eat at home, but only if you fill out and forward to the office of the Local Board at once the printed application for this permission at the end of this sheet.

You will not be permitted to take with you on the train anything but hand baggage. You do not need bedding or changes of clothing except as specified below. You may take with you only the following articles: Soap, shaving accessories, comb and brush, toothbrush and toothpowder, towels, underclothing and socks, and, if you desire, changes of collars and shirts, but you will have no use for these after arrival at the mobilization camp.

Since you will not be permitted to retain any trunks after your arrival at the railroad station, the articles listed above should be brought in a hand bundle.

If you desire to do so, you may return the civilian clothes you are wearing when you arrive at the mobilization camp to your home by express or otherwise, but if you desire to make no such arrangement it will be better to appear in civilian clothes that you do not care to keep.

With the official notification the men will also receive a return postcard which they will fill out and return to their boards. On these cards they will notify the boards whether they wish to remain at their home "during the period I will be under the orders of the Local Board prior to entrainment." The selected man will also inform his board how he can be reached by telephone, and will certify that at no time will he be "more than an hour's journey from the office of the Local Board."

Failure to Respond Is Desertion.

The names of the men who have failed to report for examination, or who have appeared and refused to be examined, are now being placed on what is known as the "red slips, or lists." Every board is compiling three of these lists, one for the District Board, another for the Department of Justice, and a third for the Adjutant General of the State. On receipt of the list the Adjutant General will notify every man whose name appears on the list to appear for examination at a certain designated place and time. The address will in every instance be that which appears on the registration card of the delinquent.

These lists will be brought up to date every week, and will be certified to Adjt. Gen. McCain, in Washington, every Monday morning. The men will be officially listed as "persons called for examination, who did not appear, and have not been exempted or discharged." These men who ignore the country's call, in the event they fail to respond when given a last chance by the Adjutant General of the State, will automatically become deserters from the army, and will be subject to arrest on sight and prosecution before a military court-martial. Any civilian who brings about the arrest of a deserter will receive a reward of $50 for each man whose apprehension he obtains.

With a view to assisting the District Board in its work of passing upon exemption claims where persons drafted appeal from the decision of the local boards, Roger B. Wood, who is directing the work of the lawyers assigned to the 189 local boards in this city, telegraphed each of them yesterday to state their own opinion as to whether exemption should be granted in forwarding the appeal to the District Board. He also asked them to state their reasons for believing the local board should be reversed when they are of that opinion.

In addition Mr. Wood asked that when an appeal is sent the time be marked upon it and that they be forwarded in their proper order, so as to be taken up in consecutive order and passed upon by the District Board.

Dr. Henry Seligman of 740 Driggs Avenue, and Lazarus Jacobson of 170 South Third Street, who are charged with having trafficked in exemptions from the new National Army, were released from Raymond Street Jail in Brooklyn yesterday upon bail of $5,000 each. The men pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Commissioner McGoldrick, and a hearing was set for Sept. 10.

66 DISTRICTS COMPLETE.

9,205 Men Required to Fill the Full Quotas.

With only two districts missing, 54 in Brooklyn and 162 in Manhattan, reports from 187 of the 189 local exemption boards indicate that New York City has obtained more than 29,000 of its quota of 38,572 men for the national army. Reports from 167 districts were printed in yesterday's TIMES. Twenty of the twenty-two missing districts are accounted for in the table printed below. These reports indicate that the 187 districts need about 9,205 men to complete their quotas. The two missing districts will probably increase this number by about 100. This makes with yesterday's report sixty-six districts which have obtainer their full quotas for the national army.

The reports received yesterday are as follows:

7TH REGIMENT WINS PRAISE OF BELGIANS

Baron Moncheur and His Associates Enthusiastic After Review in Central Park.

5,000 WELCOME VISITORS

Mission Guests at Informal Luncheon at Claremont Inn and Dinner at Ritz-Carlton.

More than 5,000 persons gave an enthusiastic greeting to the members of the Belgian Mission yesterday morning when Baron Moncheur, head of the mission, and his associates reviewed the Seventh Regiment on South Field, just west of the Mall in Central Park. The scene was typically suggestive of America's co-operation in the world war and the entire regiment in its olive drab uniform looked fit for any service to which it might be called. Lord Aberdeen, in the full uniform of a British officer, accompanied the reviewing party.

After the staff of the regiment, headed by Colonel Fisk, with Major Gen. Daniel Appleton, had been presented to the Belgians, Colonel Fisk saluted the national and regimental colors in the centre of the field while the regiment stood at attention. The soldiers marched around the field, passing the reviewing stand on the lawn at the eastern end of the field. Baron Moncheur, in civilian garb, returned the salute as each Captain with his well-equipped company marched by. The members of the commission paid a high tribute to the soldierly appearance of the men.

At the close of the review the Belgian Mission, with other invited guests, motored to the Metropolitan Club, and from there they went to the Claremont Inn, where they were the guests at luncheon of George T. Wilson of the Mayor's Reception Committee. Besides Baron Moncheur, the other members of the mission were Count d'Ursel, Lieut. Gen. Leclercq of the Belgian Army, and Major Ostervieth.

The luncheon was informal, with no set speeches. George T. Wilson presided. Baron Moncheur proposed a toast to President Wilson, referring to him as the greatest friend in the United States to the Belgian people. Mr. Wilson responded with a toast to the King of Belgium. Colonel Fisk proposed a toast to the Belgian Mission and Lord Aberdeen toasted the Seventh Regiment. After the luncheon Lieut. Gen. Leclercq praised the personnel of the Seventh Regiment.

"I was particularly interested to note," said he, "that, while the Seventh Regiment men marched with the precision of well-trained soldiers, they seemed to have a suppleness and ease that is lacking in European troops on parade."

"They have everything but the goose-step," laughingly replied Colonel Fisk. The ranks of the Seventh were reduced by 360 men, who were sent several days ago to the Sixty-ninth Regiment, as part of its war strength quota.

Others present at the luncheon were Major Gen. Appleton, Major Falls, U. S. A.; Lieutenant Burleigh, U. S. A.; Pay Director Littlefield, U. S. N.; Lieutenant Fancher, U. S. A.; Captain Cook, U. S. A.; Lieut. Col. McLean of the Seventh Regiment, Thomas L. Chadbourne, Jr., and Philip J. McCook, Chairman, and Vice Chairman, respectively, of the Mayor's Committee on National Defense; Colonel Sternberger, and Park Commissioner Cabot Ward.

The members of the Belgian Mission closed their day's activities by a dinner at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel last night tendered by a number of their fellow-countrymen who are residents of New York. Pierre Mali, the Belgian Consul in New York, head of the Committee of Arrangements, acted as toastmaster. Short addresses were made by Baron Moncheur, Louis de Sadeleer, Minister of State of Belgium; M. de Cartier de Marchienne, Belgian Minister at Washington; Lieut. Gen. Leclercq, and Senator Lafontaine of Liége.

At the request of the commission no reporters were admitted, as it was explained that the members wished their reception in this country to be as unostentatious as possible. It was explained by Consul Mali that the speeches could not in fact be called such, but that they took more the form of ordinary after-dinner conversations. Ninety-five guests were present.

At the Van Cortlandt Park camp yesterday representatives of the Daughters of the American Revolution presented a motor ambulance to the Second Brigade Headquarters. The Seventy-first Regiment's quota for the Sixty-ninth, 250 men, chosen from the various companies, left Van Cortlandt Park yesterday for Camp Mills, at Mineola, L. I.

The men of the 165th Regiment drilled and "hiked" yesterday. In addition to the daily military work, some of the men are continuing athletic training. The men, too, have started classes for the study of French. In fact, the troopers have no idle moments.

A club for men in the Navy is to be opened at 81 and 83 Sands Street, Brooklyn, by the New York Branch of the Woman's Section of the Navy League. It will be under the general supervision of Mrs. William P. Hamilton, Chairman of the Recreation Committee, and Mrs. Maude Canfield, Chairman of the Brooklyn Committee of the Woman's Section of the Navy League.

A committee of business men, co-operating with The Evening World, has completed arrangements for a dinner to all the troops at Van Cortlandt Park, Pelham Bay Park, Mineola, and at several armories, on Wednesday, Aug. 29. The provisions representing voluntary gifts of the wholesale merchants of the city. Forty thousand pounds of turkey have been contributed through the Supply Committee. The Lambs have arranged what is to be known as a "little gambol" for each encampment and armory. A formal dinner will be served at the Biltmore on the same evening to Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan and the officers of his staff and other invited guests.

FIRE AT AMERICAN CAMP.

Troops in France Confine Blaze to Stable for Mules.

By The Associated Press.

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, Aug. 23.—There was great excitement late last night in a small French village, where a contingent of American troops is billeted, when a fire started in the army mule stables and threatened to spread through the place. The soldiers formed a brigade with buckets and an ancient hand-pump fire engine, with which they confined the blaze to the stables. Seven Missouri mules perished.

So many troopers gathered on the top of a house adjoining the stables that the roof gave way, but all the men escaped serious injury.

LANE SAYS WE FIGHT TO SAVE AMERICA

Brochure by Cabinet Member Gives Administration's Views of Why We Are at War.

FORCED ON US BY GERMANY

Declares Neutrality Made Us Apologists for Things That Outraged Humanity.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—A brochure issued tonight by the Committee on Public Information contains a statement by Franklin K. Lane, the Secretary of the Interior, in explanation of the objects sought by the United States in its war against Germany.

Secretary Lane's statement is entitled: "Why We are Fighting Germany," and voices the views of the Administration.

"Ours is a war of self-defense," asserts Secretary Lane. "We did not wish to fight Germany. She made the attack upon us; not on our shores, but on our ships, our lives, our rights, our future. For two years and more we held to a neutrality that made us apologists for things which outraged man's common sense of fair play and humanity. At each new offense—the invasion of Belgium, the killing of civilian Belgians, the attacks on Scarborough, and other defenseless towns, the laying of mines in neutral waters, the fencing off of the seas— and on and on through the months we said: 'This is war; archaic, uncivilized war, but war! All rules have been thrown away, all nobility; man has come down to the primitive brute. And while we cannot justify we will not intervene. It is not our war.'

"Then why are we in? Because we could not keep out. The invasion of Belgium, which opened the war, led to the invasion of the United States by slow, steady, logical steps. Our sympathies evolved into a conviction of self-interest. Our love of fair play ripened into alarm at our own peril.

"We talked in the language and in the spirit of good faith and sincerity, as honest men should talk, until we discovered that our talk was construed as cowardice. And Mexico was called upon to invade us. We talked as men would talk who cared alone for peace and the advancement of their own material interests, until we discovered that we were thought to be a nation of mere money makers, devoid of all character—until, indeed, we were told that we could not walk the highways of the world without permission of a Prussian soldier; that our ships might not sail without wearing a striped uniform of humiliation upon a narrow path of national subservience. We talked as men talk who hope for honest agreement, not for war, until we found that the treaty torn to pieces at Liége was but the symbol of a policy that made agreements worthless against a purpose that knew no word but success.

War to Save America.

"And so we came into this war for ourselves. It is a war to save America—to preserve self-respect, to justify our right to live as we have lived, not as some one else wishes us to live. In the name of freedom we challenge with ships and men, money, and an undaunted spirit that word 'verboten' which Germany has written upon the sea and upon the land.

"For America is not the name of so much territory, it is a living spirit, born in travail, grown in the rough school of bitter experiences, a living spirit which has purpose and pride and conscience; knows why it wishes to live and to what end, knows how it comes to be respected of the world, and hopes to retain that respect by living on with the light of Lincoln's love of man as its Old and New Testament. It is more precious that this America should live than that we Americans should live. And this America, as we now see, has been challenged from the first of this war by the strong arm of a power that has no sympathy with our purpose and will not hesitate to destroy us if the law that we respect, the rights that are to us sacred, or the spirit that we have, stand across her set will to make this world bow before her policies, backed by her organized and scientific military system. The world of Christ—a neglected but not a rejected Christ—has come again face to face with the world of Mahomet, who willed to win by force."

The statement then enumerates the outrages against Belgium and France; the Lusitania sinking and the attack on the Sussex; speaks of the terror Germany spread upon the seas, and continues:

"We believed Germany's promise that she would respect the neutral flag and the rights of neutrals, and we held our anger and outrage in check. But now we see that she was holding us off with fair promises until she could build her huge fleet of submarines. For when Spring came she blew her promise into the air, just as at the beginning she had torn up that 'scrap of paper.' Then we saw clearly that there was but one law for Germany—her will to rule.

Filled Cities with Spies.

"We are fighting Germany because she violated our confidence; paid German spies filled our cities. Officials of her Government, received as the guests of this nation, lived with us to bribe and terrorize, defying our law and the law of nations.

"We are fighting Germany because while we were yet her friends—the only great power that still held hands off—she sent the Zimmermann note, calling to her aid Mexico, our southern neighbor, and hoping to lure Japan, our Western neighbor, into war against this nation of peace.

"The nation that would do these things proclaims the gospel that Government has no conscience. And this doctrine cannot live, or else democracy must die. For the nations of the world must keep faith. There can be no living for us in a world where the state has no conscience, no reverence for the things of the spirit, no respect for international law, no mercy for those who fall before its force. What an unordered world! Anarchy! The anarchy of rival wolf packs!

"We are fighting Germany because in this war feudalism is making its last stand against oncoming democracy. We see it now. This is a war against an old spirit, an ancient, outworn spirit."

position on the part of Mayor Mitchel's friends to raise this issue, let me dispose of it, so far as I am concerned, with this very definite statement, and I cannot make it too emphatic:

"I have not found that any man has a monopoly on patriotism. I would be ashamed to try to make political capital out of my loyalty, but if any man questions it he will not find it a healthy pastime. Our citizens, with few exceptions, are loyal to the United States. I do not want the support of any man who does not hold the interest of America to be the supreme consideration. Let us not obscure the real issues of the campaign. One of them is the record of the Mitchel administration. Has it been honest, non-partisan, uncontrolled and business like? On that issue there certainly is ground for debate."

Judson G. Wall for Controller.

It was announced yesterday that Judson G. Wall, head of Judson G. Wall & Sons, investment bankers of 10 Wall Street, would be the candidate for Controller in the Republican primary on the ticket headed by ex-Senator William M. Bennett. He was substituted yesterday for William H. Douglass, who was slated for Controller on the original Cropsey ticket.

Hearst Confined to His Room.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—William R. Hearst has been confined to his hotel for two weeks with what is said by his secretary to be a cold. He was up and out for a few minutes today, and is expected to be fully recovered in a few days. His physicians have ordered complete rest and freedom from business. No statement can be had from him on his plans for the New York Mayoralty nomination.

SULLIVANS TURN FROM TAMMANY TO MITCHEL

"Big Tim's" Organization Denounces Murphy and His Methods, and Declares for Fusion.

The revolt of the Sullivan clan against Tammany Hall was proclaimed last night at a meeting of the Sullivan Club at Arlington Hall, in East Eighth Street. About 200 members of the club were present, and heard fiery speeches denouncing Charles F. Murphy and Tammany methods. Resolutions were adopted by acclamation denouncing Murphy and the methods of his inner cabinet. Abner Greenberg, the present Tammany Assemblyman from the Tenth District, presided, and predicted, amid cheers, the downfall of Tammany Hall. He was loud applause at every mention of the name of Mayor Mitchel. The resolutions, offered by Patrick H. Sullivan, President of the club, were, in part, as follows:

Whereas, Tammany Hall today is run by Charles F. Murphy and his "insiders" in the interests only of this selfish group and the corporations they favor instead of the loyal Tammany workers; and

Whereas, this little coterie of greedy men, being utterly out of touch with the progressive principles of democracy as expressed by President Wilson, so dominates the Democratic Party in New York City as to openly order "the knife" for President Wilson and decent Democrats who ran for office; and

Whereas, Mr. Murphy and his select Cabinet now attempt to create the bunco issue of the rich against the poor, and this despite the fact that Mr. Murphy spends his time on his fine country estate at Good Ground or in gilded private dining rooms at Delmonico's, where your shoe sinks two inches into velvet carpets and cigars don't come two for five; and

Whereas, in spite of the wicked class-hatred issues of rich against poor raised by the obscene tool picked by Murphy and McCooey to handle the affairs of the wealthiest city in the world, Murphy went right over to Fifth Avenue to get his candidate for Sheriff in the person of David H. Knott, who lives at 43 Fifth Avenue, and thereby threw aside the earnest Tammany leaders whose rewards in the past have been selections for offices like Shrievalty; and

Whereas, Murphy and McCooey with their paper and faking "leagues" and "committees" now try to pull the wool over the people on the issue of New York's poor, notwithstanding the fact that Mayor Mitchel has been the poor man's friend, for example in providing places on newsstands for the blind, crippled, and invalids, that these may not become public charges; and

Whereas, Murphy and McCooey brazenly picked a ticket of unknowns in Delmonico's just as they did four years ago, although Murphy and McCooey rigged up a fraudulent "fusion" crowd who never belonged to Tammany to deceive honest Tammany Democrats into the belief that such men as Hylan, Knott, and Craig, &c., are "the people's choice," in spite of the fact that every one knows that Murphy is working for himself all the time and wants only four years of good pickings in the City Government before he "retires," and

Whereas, Everybody knows Mayor Mitchel has been honest, sincere, fearless, and capable in giving a non-partisan government which all the big men of New York admit is the "best New York has ever had;" therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Sullivan Club, in meeting assembled, does hereby withdraw from Tammany Hall and pledges its efforts and its votes to a man to re-elect the ticket headed by Mayor Mitchel.

Assemblyman Greenberg, in denouncing the rule of Murphy, said that the action of the Sullivan Club was the beginning of an organized movement to wipe Tammany Hall off the political map. The men in the movement, he said, stood for equal opportunity in politics and wanted to sit in the councils of the party as a matter of right and not by favor of Charles F. Murphy. He said he was refused a renomination because he refused to take orders from the Assembly minority leader when he thought the minority leader was wrong. The county ticket which has just been chosen he characterized as a disgrace which no decent Democrat could discuss without apologizing for.

The Sullivans have been identified with Tammany Hall for thirty-eight years, from the time that "Big Tim" first became the leader of the old Third District. This district is now the Eighth. A few years ago Patrick H. Sullivan tried to wrest the leadership from a Murphy man and a historic fight followed. Johnny White, who led the Murphy forces, won, and Samuel Goldenkranz was made leader. Sullivan then broke away from the organization and established the Sullivan Club to keep up a fight on the regular Tammany organization in the district.

MICHAELIS TELLS OF ALLIES' PLANS

ist and Conservative organ, is much opposed to the Reichstag having any word in regard to the reply to the Pope.

Reventlow Blames Britain.

Count zu Reventlow, in the Deutsche Tageszeitung, says he believe sthe British representative in Rome was responsible for the note and that Herr Erzberger was also involved in the plot. "We can hardly doubt," he adds, "that Erzberger and the so-called Reichstag majority in smug, self-contented spirit endeavored to save their peace phrases." Reventlow concludes with the statement that the note cannot be considered friendly and hopes this will soon be recognized by the German people, "the sooner the better, so that no harm may be done."

It is evident that Erzberger played an important rôle in the proceedings. According to the Weser Zeitung, he spoke strongly for the Reichstag peace resolution, expressing his full approval of the Papal note.

The Berliner Neueste Nachrichten, an annexationist organ, puts the whole blame on Erzberger, exonerating Michaelis.

Demands Chancellor's Fall.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 23.—A large section of the Berlin papers profess keen disappointment over the Chancellor's speech. The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung even goes so far as to proclaim the necessity of the Chancellor's overthrow, adding:

"Only a man with definite plans can in these times conclude peace and create a new order in affairs."

This viewpoint is shared by the Vossische Zeitung.

The Lokal-Anzeiger says that the Reichstag session leaves a painful impression, adding: "A majority of the Reichstag seems to consider the peace resolution as a sort of creed which must be subscribed to word for word by the Government."

Vorwärts blames the Pan Germans for not permitting the conflict, which was temporarily solved by a change in the Chancellorship, to rest, and says that they would not hesitate to plunge the empire, amid a most terrible war, into anarchy.

Aims at Compromise Peace.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Dr. Georg Michaelis, the German Chancellor, is reported in a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam to have said to the Reichstag Main Committee that the German reply to the Papal peace note would be based on aiming at peace by compromise agreements, in line with the peace resolution adopted by the Reichstag.

What purports to be a verbatim report of the speech of the Chancellor, received by the British Admiralty per Wireless Press and through Reuter's Hague correspondent, is made public here. It reads:

"As regards our enemies, their number has increased since the adjournment of the Reichstag by three, namely, Siam, Liberia, and China. These countries have no convincing reason for enmity against us. They acted solely under pressure of the Entente and the United States, the latter having great influence over Liberia and China. We have made it clear to these countries that we shall bring them to account for the damage done under international law to German interests."

After referring to the solidarity of Germany and her allies, the Chancellor read a telegram from Field Marshal von Hindenburg saying that the military situation was more favorable for Germany than ever. The Chancellor added:

"Our success on land corresponds with our success on the sea. In the month of July, according to the latest reports received, 811,000 tons of shipping were sunk. When we take into consideration our results on the one hand and the failures of our enemies on the other, it appears to be incomprehensible that our enemies show no disposition to prepare the way for consideration of terms of peace, not to mention peace which includes renunciation.

"I was able to show recently by information regarding a Franco-Russian secret treaty what far-reaching war aims France had and how England supported French desires for German land. Only recently a member of the British Cabinet declared that there would be no peace until the German armies had been thrown across the Rhine. I am now able to show that further arrangements were made by the enemy regarding their war aims, some of the details of which were already made known to the Committee on an earlier occasion. I proceed in chronological order:

"On September 7, 1914, the enemy coalition decided only to conclude a joint peace. On March 4, 1915, Russia made the following peace demands, of which England approved by note on March 12 and France by note of the same date, namely: Russia to receive Constantinople, with the European shore of the straits; the southern part of Thrace as far as the Enos-midia line; the islands in the Sea of Marmora, the Islands of Imbros and Tenedos and on the Asia Minor side, the peninsula between the Black Sea, the Bosporus, and the Gulf of Ismalia as far as the River Sakaria in the east.

"This basis was laid down, and the negotiations continued their course in 1915-16. In the course of them Russia obtained the promise of the Armenian vilayets of Trebizond and Kurdistan, and Messina and the Hinterland, extending northward as far as Sivas and Kharput. England's share was to be Mesopotamia, and the rest of Turkey in Asia was to be divided into English and French spheres of interest.

"Palestine was to be internationalized, and the other districts inhabited by the Turks and Arabs, including Arabia proper and the holy places of Islam, were to be formed into a special federation of State under British superiority.

"When Italy entered the war she demanded her share of the booty. Fresh negotiations were opened, which in nowise pointed at renunciations. I think we shall have further details about them, which will be published later.

"With such far-reaching enemy war aims it is understood why Mr. Balfour lately stated that he did not consider it advisable to make a detailed statement on the war policy of the Government. Those are the bottom facts as they appear to us at the present moment, when we visage the possibility of concluding peace."

An Amsterdam dispatch says that the disclosure by the Chancellor of the alleged Entente war aims causes the Cologne Gazette to "foam at the mouth." This paper, in commenting, says:

"Here stand revealed the true aims of the Entente's vast anti-German encircling conspiracy. Here is a huge robber scheme, the like of which never was seen before. Yet they talk of German lust of conquest and dominion.

"The mask is now completely torn off. Naked stand the Entente criminals, whose every word in alleged defense of the rights of humanity turns against them and convicts them. With such robber schemers one cannot treat. We know why they rejected the Pope's offer; they wanted more. But peace is unattainable unless and until they definitely give up their robber schemes."

The Vienna Neue Freie Presse learns in well informed quarters that Count Czernin, Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, will answer the Pope's peace note in the next few days, perhaps today. The paper says the note has created a favorable impression in leading circles in Austria-Hungary.

LAST YEAR OF WAR, KUEHLMANN THINKS

Deplores Policy of Might Alone —Admits Grave Internal Difficulties.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 23.—"A policy based on might alone, and not on right, is doomed to failure from the beginning," was the interesting admission made by Dr. Richard von Kühlmann, German Imperial Foreign Secretary, in his maiden speech to the Main Committee of the Reichstag yesterday. The new Secretary, according to a telegram from Berlin, dwelt on the tremendous responsibility in assuming office "when the country is beset by the mightiest of enemies without and grave difficulties within." He also expressed the belief that the last year of the war was beginning.

Dr. von Kühlmann laid down the following program: The maintenance of cordial relations, first with the allies of Germany, and, second, with the neutrals, "whose rights and necessary conditions of existence we shall be most careful to respect, as far as is compatible with enemy trickery and our own military needs."

"To arrest further defection of important neutrals is an extremely serious and important task confronting us," said Dr. Kühlmann. "We can only solve it successfully by observinig the principle that in politics might counts, but also right, and that only if we base our conduct on both can we hope to achieve lasting results."

"We have finally to consider our relations with our enemies. Although direct diplomatic relations have been broken, public opinion is not bound by frontiers made by our guns and trenches. Our newspapers reach enemy countries and we study enemy journals. Every official remark, even though uttered in confidential conversation, reaches our enemies in some form or other or goes as an echo.

"It is our important duty to study the psychology of our enemies, to follow their intrigues and the changing currents of public opinion, so that our hand may not be proffered when the spirit of our enemies is hard and unbending, and also so that sharp words may not be said when the ice on the other side is melting and conciliatory feeling is beginning to be shown.

"There is also the factor of relations between the German Federal States and the Reichstag. I ask the Reighstag to give me its confidence.

"Now, when we probably are beginning the last year of the war—and I say it after mature consideration—we desire, as far as my department is concerned, to begin with the firm intention of holding out until a satisfactory end has been reached, trusting in our incomparable army and its great commanders, in our young and brilliant fleet, and in the sound sense of the German people. I hope for a peace which will guarantee Germany in future against a recurrence of the sufferings of these times."

QUERY ON FREEDOM OF SEAS.

Pope Indorses Wilson View, He Tells Britain and Belgium.

ROME, Wednesday, Aug. 22.—The British and Belgian Ministers accredited to the Vatican were received separately by Pope Benedict today, and inquired as to the meaning of the reference to the freedom of the seas in the Pope's peace proposal. The Pontiff replied he intended to give to this condition the same meaning as that of President Wilson in his message, while leaving ample liberty to the belligerents to agree on future discussion as to details.

Germany today acknowledged receipt of the peace note, promising to examine it with benevolent interest and care and to give an answer after reaching an agreement with her allies.

PAPAL LEGATE NOT DIPLOMAT.

Function in Washington Is That of Ecclesiastical Judge.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The status of the Papal Legation at Washington has been the subject of many inquiries since the dispatch of the Pope's peace proposal. The Papal delegate here did not deliver the note, which was transmitted through the London Foreign Office.

The Papal delegate has no diplomatic status, although for convenience of administration he is attached to the Vatican Foreign Office. He is an appeal judge in matters of canon law and discipline for the entire Catholic ecclesiastical body of this country. The question whether the Papal delegate might make diplomatic representations was raised during the Spanish-American war and was settled by the delegate himself, who stated he had no diplomatic standing and could not make such representations.

It was not international politics but the need of a religious court of appeal in America that led to the establishment of a Papal legation in Washington. The legation has never asked recognition by the State Department.

DIDN'T EXPECT EARLY PEACE.

Pope Hoped Only to Start Movement, Says Mgr. Bonzano.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 23.—Pope Benedict did not expect early peace to result from his proposal to the belligerent nations, according to a statement by Mgr. Giovanni Bonzano, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, who came here today to attend the convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies, which begins next Sunday.

"I can say authoritatively that the Holy Father believed there was no prospect of the warring nations arranging terms soon," said Mgr. Bonzano, "but he believed that he could impartially offer a proposal that might bring the leaders of the warring nations to a normal sense of thought and to try to arrange terms."

MAYOR DEFINES LAW GOVERNING SEDITION

Tells Jeremiah O'Leary the Police Will Arrest Speakers Who Overstep the Mark.

QUOTES ESPIONAGE ACT

Says to Blackguard an Ally of the United States Is an Insult to Our Flag.

Mayor Mitchel took a hand yesterday in the agitation over the soapbox orators who have been accused of disorderly conduct and making seditious speeches. In a letter to Jeremiah A. O'Leary, President of the American Truth Society, the Mayor defined at length the laws governing public utterances of a treasonable, seditious or disorderly character, and said the police could be depended upon to take proper action. He told Mr. O'Leary that his letters "with their disingenuous inquiries sufficiently indicate your own well-known attitude toward your country and your Government."

In a letter to Police Commissioner Woods the Mayor said he knew the people could depend upon the entire police force to continue to do everything in their power to enforce the laws against sedition and disloyalty.

Mr. O'Leary is the man who sent President Wilson a telegram last September accusing him of favoring England and saying he had failed to obtain compliance with American rights. In reply the President sent this telegram: "Your telegram received. I would feel deeply mortified to have you or anybody like you vote for me. Since you have access to many disloyal Americans and I have not, I will ask you to convey this message to them."

Mr. O'Leary injected himself into the present controversy regarding street oratory by writing a letter to Magistrate Fuchs denouncing the arrest of W. J. Robinson at Thirty-seventh Street and Broadway on the night of Aug. 14, and another letter to the Mayor demanding to know the administration's policy toward street corner speakers.

In his reply to Mr. O'Leary the Mayor said, in part:

Sir—I have your letter of Aug. 15, addressed to me, and the inclosed copy of a letter addressed by you to Magistrate Emil Fuchs. These letters, with their disingenuous inquiries, sufficiently indicate your own well-known attitude toward your country and your Government. Nevertheless, I will gladly state to you the position of the city administration in the matter of public seditious utterance, in order that you and your associates may be amply warned.

The Constitution of our country guarantees to all citizens the right of free speech, and it will be the concern, as it is the duty, of the City Government to conserve this right and to protect every citizen in its legitimate exercise. Free speech, however, does not include the preachment of treason or sedition, incitement to violence, or utterances tending to create a breach of the peace. The action of the City Government through the police force will be governed by the statute law. It is as follows:

The Constitution of the United States defines treason to include "adhering to their (the United States) enemies, giving them aid and comfort."

This country is at war with Germany. Public denunciation of the action of the United States Government in co-operating with other Governments in fighting a common enemy is calculated to give aid and comfort to that enemy.

I also call your attention to the act of Congress enacted June 15, 1917, known as the Espionage act.

Whoever willfully makes false statements, with intent to interfere with the military or naval forces of the United States or attempts to cause resistance to the obligation of citizens to bear arms in the defense of this country, is guilty under this statute. To urge men against service which involves co-operation with the allies of the United States is clearly attempting to obstruct the recruiting and enlistment service of the United States.

Observe that conspiracy to cause resistance to the Federal Draft act or to any Federal laws governing the operations of United States troops in this war, or to any action of the Government directing the operation of those troops, becomes a crime under Section 6 of the Criminal Code of the United States.

Whenever acts are perpetrated which are within the provisions of the above United States statutes, the police of this city will make arrests and turn the prisoners over to the Federal authorities for proper action. We also have State laws that deal with this matter.

To denounce or blackguard publicly an ally of the United States in connection with this war or to insult the flag of our country, or our army or our navy, while our country is engaged in war, seriously disturbs and endangers the public peace and is clearly an outrage upon public decency. For such utterances the police will make arrests.

Section 1458 of the Consolidation act, now incorporated in the charter by provision of law, provides as follows:

"Every person who shall use any threatening, abusive, or insulting behavior with intent to provoke a breach of the peace or whereby a breach of the peace may be occasioned" is guilty of disorderly conduct tending to a breach of the peace.

In time of war, when patriotic feeling runs high among loyal Americans, abusive and insulting language directed against our Government, its officers, and its allies, obviously tends to a serious breach of the peace. It will be the duty of the police to arrest those using such language publicly.

William Robinson the Friends of Irish Freedom speaker who was arrested on Aug. 14 on a charge of disorderly conduct, it being alleged that at a meeting at Thirty-seventh Street and Broadway he said that any man who advocated sending American soldiers to France was a traitor, was found guilty by Magistrate Ten Eyck in Jefferson Market Court, but was released on suspended sentence.

The American Defense Vigilantes were trying to find out yesterday who sent to the theatres of the city a demand that they cease advertising in German papers and signed it "New York Order of Vigilantes." Because of the nature of the letter, the Vigilantes believe it was the work of their enemies.

Inclosed in the letter were the names of business houses advertising in German papers and attacking them as unpatriotic.

Lucien Sanial, veteran of the Paris Commune, 86 years old, and known as the "Nestor of the American Socialist Party," has resigned from the party because he feels its attitude favors the Teutonic cause. In a letter to the Bronx local, made public yesterday, he condemned the anti-American propaganda to which many of the high officials of the party are lending themselves.

It was announced yesterday by the People's Council that James Maurer, the Socialistic President of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor, would be the temporary chairman at the opening of their peace convention in Minneapolis on Sept. 1. The Council's statement said:

"Sentiment among delegates, it was said, favors the selection of ex-United States Senator John D. Works for permanent chairman."

Because the pacifists could not get a hall in Minneapolis, their meeting will be held in a tent at Minnehaha Falls, just outside of Minneapolis.

A long list of speakers, containing the names of many Socialists and radicals, has been made public. Morris Hillquit will speak.

John Hehir of 358 West Forty-eighth Street, who was arrested on Wednesday night on a charge of tearing from a woman's hands a British flag during a meeting of the Friends of Irish Freedom at Broadway and Thirty-seventh Street, was found guilty by Magistrate Simms in the Men's Night Court last night and fined $15, despite the somewhat noisy protests of his attorney, Jeremiah A. O'Leary, and 200 or more advocates of the anti-British campaign who crowded the courtroom.

BACKS PEOPLE'S COUNCIL.

Socialist Mayor of Minneapolis Says It Will Have Free Rein.

Special to The New York Times.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 23.—Thomas Van Lear, Socialist Mayor of Minneapolis, today not only promised police protection to the People's Council, but openly aligned himself with the peace-at-any-price organization. The Mayor said that the regular policemen and special policemen would be used to maintain order. In a long statement he said that the People's Council represented the "common people" and that he would uphold the Constitution in giving them the right of free speech, free press, free assemblage, and the right to petition Congress.

Copies of the Mayor's statement, upholding the aims of the council, were telegraphed to President Wilson, the Secretary of War, both branches of Congress, and all branches of the People's Congress. The People's Council bore the expense of telegraphing the statement.

PRESIDENT FIXES ANTHRACITE PRICE

may indicate at a later date the profit which is believed to be a fair one for the retailer.

May Form a Coal Corporation.

There will, however, be no tendency on the part of the coal administrator to overlook any of the powers conferred in the Food Control bill if circumstances seem to warrant their use. In this connection it is entirely possible that, within a very short time steps will be taken to organize a corporation along the lines of the new $50,000,000 grain corporation, with power to purchase the output of any recalcitrant operator and resell it, or, if thought wise, take over the entire output of the coal fields. It is not contemplated at the present time to go to that extreme, but it will be done if there is a halt in the plan for lower prices.

How the anthracite decree will affect the New York retail market is a matter of conjecture. It is held here in some quarters that, striking an average price of $4.50 for coal at the mine, 20 cents for the jobber, $1.60 for freight, and 20 cents for barge transportation, coal should be delivered in New York City for approximately $6.50 a ton from the Pennsylvania fields. To this must be added a legitimate margin for overhead charges of the retailer, and a fair profit.

Every effort will be made under the new administration to reduce the expenses of the retail dealers in order to cut down overhead charges and thus bring a further reduction in the price to the consumer. One method to be adopted in this direction will be the use of powers under the priority legislation, and Dr. Garfield will work in close co-operation with Robert S. Lovett, who is in Chicago for this end of the Government machinery. It is believed that a system can be worked out by which the retailers will be assured of the coal needed at stated periods and thus obviate the necessity for storing large quantities to meet contracts. A map of the country and its needs will be prepared for this purpose.

Text of the Executive Order.

The President's order is as follows:

The following regulations shall apply to the intrastate, interstate, and foreign commerce of the United States, and the prices and margins referred to herein shall be in force pending further investigation or determination thereof by the President:

JOBBERS' MARGINS.

1. A coal jobber is defined as a person (or rather agency) who purchases and resells coal to coal dealers or to consumers without physically handling it on, over, or through his own vehicle, dock, trestle, or yard.

2. For the buying and selling of bituminous coal a jobber shall not add to his purchase price a gross margin in excess of 15 cents per ton of 2,000 pounds; nor shall the combined gross margins of any number of jobbers who buy and sell a given shipment or shipments of bituminous coal exceed 15 cents per ton of 2,000 pounds.

3. For buying and selling anthracite coal a jobber shall not add to his purchase price a gross margin in excess of 20 cents per ton of 2,240 pounds when delivery of such coal is to be effected at or east of Buffalo. For buying and selling anthracite coal for delivery west of Buffalo, a jobber shall not add to his purchase price a gross margin in excess of 30 cents per ton of 2,240 pounds. The combined gross margins of any number of jobbers who buy and sell a given shipment or shipments of anthracite coal for delivery at or east of Buffalo shall not exceed 20 cents per ton of 2,240 pounds; nor shall such combined margins exceed 30 cents per ton of 2,240 pounds for the delivery of anthracite coal west of Buffalo. Provided, anthracite coal may be increased by not more than 5 cents per ton of 2,240 pounds when the jobber incurs the expense of rescreening it at Atlantic or lake ports for transshipment by water.

ANTHRACITE PRICES.

4. Effective Sept. 1, 1917, the maximum prices per ton of 2,240 pounds on board cars at the mines for the grades and sizes of anthracite coal hereinafter specified shall not exceed the prices indicated in Paragraph 5 when such coal is produced and sold by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company, Hudson Coal Company, Delaware and Hudson Company, Scranton Coal Company, Lehigh Valley Coal Company, Coxe Brothers & Co., Pennsylvania Coal Company, Hillside Coal and Iron Company, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company, Delaware,, Lackawanna and Western Coal Company, Susquehanna Coal Company, Susquehanna Collieries Company, Lytle Coal Company, or the M. A. Hanna Coal Company.

5. The grades and sizes for which the maximum prices are specified are as follows: White ash anthracite coal of the grade that between Jan. 1, 1915, and Jan. 1, 1917, was uniformly sold and recognized in the coal trade as coal of white ash grade; red ash anthracite coal of the grade that between Jan. 1, 1915, and Jan. 1, 1917, was uniformly sold and recognized in the trade as coal of red ash grade, and Lykens Valley anthracite coal that is mixed exclusively from the Lykens Valley seams and of the grade that between Jan. 1, 1915, and Jan. 1, 1917, was uniformly sold and recognized in the coal trade as coal of Lykens Valley grade:

WHITE ASH GRADE.

Broken	$4.55	Chestnut	$4.80
Egg	4.45	Pea	4.00
Stove	4.70

RED ASH GRADE.

Broken	$4.75	Chestnut	$4.90
Egg	4.65	Pea	4.10
Stove	4.90

LYKENS VALLEY GRADE.

Broken	$5.00	Chestnut	$5.30
Egg	4.90	Pea	4.85
Stove	5.30

6. Producers of anthracite coal who are not specified in Paragraph 4 shall not sell the various grades and sizes of anthracite coal at prices that exceed by more than 75 cents per ton of 2,240 pounds free on board cars at the mines the prices enumerated in Paragraph 5. Provided, that any producer of anthracite coal who incurs the expense of rescreening it at Atlantic or lake ports for shipment by water may increase the price thereof by not more than 5 cents per ton of 2,240 pounds.

7. Producers of anthracite coal specified in Paragraph 4 of these regulations shall not sell anthracite coal to producers of anthracite coal not specified in Paragraph 4.

8. Dealers and selling agents shall not sell coal produced by the producers included in Paragraph 4 on the basis of the prices fixed at the mine for coal produced by the producers not specified in said paragraph.

WOODROW WILSON.
The White House, Aug. 23, 1917.

Further Price Fixing.

Price fixing in connection with other commodities than coal was the subject of long conferences today, and there was every evidence that President Wilson had pretty thoroughly mapped out his plan and was endeavoring to get the full machinery in operation with as little delay as possible. It is probable that steel and copper will be the next essentials tackled.

SAY NEW COAL PRICES MEAN NO REDUCTION

New York Consumers of Anthracite Can Reap No Benefit, According to Operators.

William H. Truesdale, President of the Lackawanna Railroad, said last night that the prices for anthracite coal fixed at Washington were about what the leading operators were charging now.

"I do not think the situation will be greatly altered," he said. "Some of the smaller companies may have been charging a little more than the Washington scale; but there will be no radical readjustments. I am speaking very largely from memory in comparing the Washington figures with the present prices, but it seems to me the general average is the present basis for the leading companies.

"Some weeks ago the Federal Trade Commission fixed the prices to be charged by the coal companies. The prices permitted to be charged by the smaller operators were a little higher than those permitted for the others, and it was agreed that the companies should advance the price 10 cents a month from April until September. The September price was to mark the high level, and to remain throughout the Winter."

Michael F. Burns, President of Burns Brothers, also said that there seemed to be very little change from prevailing prices.

"If you will add $1.45 a ton for railroad transportation from the mines to the city," he said, "and then from $1.75 to $2 a ton for the cost of handling and delivering in the city, you will see that the Washington figures will not change present prices much for the New York consumer."

"THE CONSCRIPTION OF WEALTH."

The emotionalists at Washington and elsewhere, especially those who are opposed to the war, have had a great deal to say about "taxing wealth," and "the conscription of wealth." Every tax is a tax on wealth or income. Every tax is a conscription of wealth or income. Taxation is not a subject for rhetoric, fine frenzies or phrases. The expenses of the Government being greatly increased by the war, taxation must be greatly increased. During the civil war, after 1862, and for some three years after its close, the internal revenue receipts were greater than the customs receipts. These are the two main sources of Government revenue. The case was the same in the Spanish war. Normally the customs receipts have exceeded the internal revenue receipts, though in the last few years the conditions have been reversed on account of the inheritance tax and the income tax. The latter, urged by many of its advocates as an "emergency tax," was imposed before the emergency arose. Now, when there is supreme emergency, it is right that the tax should be increased. It is right that the taxes on large incomes should be increased.

It is the prevailing theory of taxation that every person's payment to the Government should correspond with his resources. Increased income taxes are sound economically to the extent that they will furnish a great revenue. If they are increased to such an extent that trade and industry, the productive sources of income, are injured, they are unsound and pernicious.

These are sober truisms to be kept in mind in judging the Senate's action on Wednesday in overturning the Senate Finance Committee's income tax schedule except as to incomes under $60,000, and providing an ascending graduated scale from 13.75 per cent. on incomes between $60,000 and $80,000 to 50 per cent. on $1,000,000 or over. Since the amendment of Senator GERRY, providing a supertax of 35 per cent. on incomes from $500,000 to $750,000, of 45 per cent. on those from $750,000 to $1,000,000, of 50 per cent. on those above that sum, was passed by a vote of 74 to 0, it is to be concluded that the Senate has no compunctions as to the amount of "conscription" to which great incomes should be subject. In one day the Senate voted to add $75,000,000 to the income taxes, which, as laid in the Senate scheme at present, are expected to reach the enormous sum of $850,000,000. The Senate gave up the other day the $12,000,000 it was proposed to raise on stamp and parcel post taxes, easily borne and widely distributed. A small "conscription," but a just one, the Congressional objection to which is unfathomable.

On large incomes the tax seems to be laid on the principle "of all the traffic will bear." Senator LODGE'S caution against too swift imposition of rigorous income taxes was eminently wise. We are but just beginning what may be a long struggle. We should be careful not to exhaust the sources of revenue. We must not rely on taxation too largely for war expenses, or make taxes so high that they cannot be made higher at need later.

There is a necessary social effect to this taxation of great incomes. It diminishes or dries up the springs of philanthropic eleemosynary and educational life. The foreign calls on charity and benevolence since the war began have reduced contributions to American educational and humane works. The Presidents of the colleges, whose incomes from tuition and dormitory fees will be notably lessened by the war service of so many collegians, so many "rich men's sons," and sons of the well-to-do, are in grave perplexity. A rich man can spend only so much on himself and his family. Out of his surplus come his regular gifts for public purposes. This is a consideration to be regarded in income tax legislation. Not that in the common defense much or all property and life may not be required of a citizen. Only in laying income or any other kind of taxation let prejudice and passion be put aside. As a matter of economics and finance, is a particular amount of tax desirable and necessary?

Rich men are doing, and willing to do, their part in this war. They are ready to pay, some of them have already paid, their children's lives to the defense of democracy; and they should be taxed, and are willing to be taxed, high. They ought not to be maligned in addition. The few men at Washington who habitually insult wealth and "the rich" are trying to divide a country in which all patriots should be united. It will not escape attention that the bitterest plutophobes are usually opponents of the war or seekers of a dishonest and fatal peace.

LOYAL NAVY YARD MEN.

The disloyal attempt to delay war preparations through a shipbuilding strike has failed. The address of the men employed in the League Island Navy Yard to the Secretary of the Navy is a manifesto of true patriotism:

> We desire by our example to stimulate all others to the fullest performance of their duty to the country at this time. We promise to stand by you shoulder to shoulder in carrying out measures for the development of our navy. * * * We promise to notify our superiors of any indication of disloyalty on the part of any employé working for the Government. * * * With the fullest confidence that our country is in the right in this war, and relying on the wisdom of President WILSON, we earnestly pray for a speedy success for our cause and we pledge you by our work to do our full share toward the victory which will ultimately be ours.

So every honest citizen feels. The men in the navy yards are doing work of as great value to our cause as the soldiers can do. So are the men in all the shipyards. So is every mechanical worker whose services in his trade exempt him from the military draft. In the Brooklyn Navy Yard there is no indication of a strike. There may be shipyard strikes here and there, but it is not conceivable that any of the men employed by the Government will stop their work. The man with a German name who advised the shipyard men to "pull the navy yard" will find that his influence is just what it ought to be. Wages for war work should be just. But in the nation's hour of peril the unions must be prepared to make concessions.

GERMANY AND HER ALLIES.

While the Pope's peace proposals are unacceptable to the Allies, they have accomplished something for peace by causing an obvious rift in the sentiment of the Central Powers. There is only one way to peace. It cannot be reached by inducing everybody to stop fighting and sit down to a game of finesse called a peace conference. It can be reached only when the Central Powers recognize the fact that they have got to give up their aim of encompassing the world, or when, failing to recognize that fact, they are forced to their knees. The obstacle to this recognition has always been that, feeding their people on falsehoods, they have presented a united front to their real enemy, the truth.

When they begin to discuss peace among themselves, not the peace of conquest, but a peace short of that, they are a long way from discussing the only kind of peace the world will listen to, but the advantage is that the falsity of their position is bound to raise divergent views. Evidently that is happening. Austria is obviously strongly in favor of the kind of peace the Pope proposes, but German sentiment is divided. Bulgaria is perturbed and alarmed. For the first time, apparently, the idea has dawned on Bulgaria that to save themselves her allies are capable of throwing her interests into the scale; that she may be remorselessly deserted.

All Bulgaria is fighting for is for her conquests. The Pope proposes that everything Bulgaria has won shall be submitted to the peace conference. If it is, then Bulgaria's only hope of retaining her conquests is that Germany will be not only faithful and honorable to her, but also self-sacrificing; and Bulgaria has no more illusions than the rest of the world about Germany's altruism. If in the open bartering and secret trickery which have always characterized such congresses in the past Germany saw a chance to save her colonies at the expense of Bulgaria's conquests, Bulgaria would be not only optimistic, but half-witted, if she counted on Germany's foregoing it. Austria's eagerness to accept the peace conference idea bodes ill to her. She wants to save Trentino and Istria, and what she can of Serbia. If she can save them at the expense of Bulgaria, will she be too high-minded? Bulgaria is suddenly confronted with a situation in which she strongly suspects that she is to be made the sacrifice. As for Turkey, she does not count; all she hopes for is some way to escape utter ruin, and she is in no position to give voice to the uneasiness which is manifestly disturbing Bulgaria.

If Germany wishes to accept the Pope's proposals, she evidently intends to let Austria break the ice while she stays in the background, for she has a divided sentiment to reckon with, and Austria seemingly has not. If there are in Germany men who have discovered that world conquest is no longer possible, there are others slow to learn that fact. But putting Austria forward is dangerous business, for it may not be easy for her to stop when she has begun to make advances. The hope of peace dangled before a nation that is hungry for peace cannot be withdrawn at an imperial gesture, and Austria is such a nation.

A SENATOR'S FRANK.

The most elastic charity could account for the continuous heat and fury of Senator REED against the Food Control bill and Mr. HOOVER only by the theory of an obsession, a fixed idea. Assume that Mr. HOOVER is Mr. REED'S King CHARLES'S head, and you explain, in the most flattering manner it can be explained, the Missouri Senator's proceeding.

The most elastic charity snaps at last. Mr. REED is disseminating under his frank, at the expense of the United States, his speech denouncing Mr. HOOVER and the Food Control bill, now a law.

Yes, the United States is paying for the distribution of a speech in which that law of the United States is described as "a crime against liberty."

Mr. REED accompanies his deadhead attack upon Food Administrator HOOVER and the food control law with a letter in which he speaks of "the seriously jeopardized" interests of the farmer, whose "market has been destroyed" and who "is at the mercy of one man." "Is it not the business "of all men and newspapers interested in the farmer's welfare," he asks, "to give attention to the present situation?"

Possibly some attention is due to a Senator engaged, at the cost of the Federal Government, in vilifying and seeking to nullify a Federal law.

PRICES AND PRODUCTION.

Mr. HOOVER'S control of food prices starts so auspiciously that there is some danger that the difficulty of his task may not be appreciated. Also there is some danger of thinking that, because he starts so easily, the regulation of other prices will take the same course. But there is a difference between the two tasks, even admitting equality of talent in performance. Mr. HOOVER'S task is distribution of a crop already grown. The next crop is another story, and Congress has fixed his price for him as well as for the farmers.

But respecting other commodities there is a double task—first to produce and next to distribute. Production of manufactures is a continuous process, and responds to price regulation more closely than crop production. It is simplicity itself to name a price by authority, and to enforce it by taking over the mine or factory. But that is the beginning of the task, not the end. When the Government has taken the source of production, it will be necessary to operate it, and that cannot be done in the same manner. Labor cannot be commandeered, not even so well as capital. And it is even less desirable that Government should confront labor than that capital should do so. It follows that the prices of commodities must be fixed with reference to production, rather than to profits or wages.

CO-OPERATING WITH THE RAILWAYS.

There never was such a volume of railway business moved as is moving now. There never was such a low average rate charged for the business done, in the face of rising costs surpassing all comparisons. The railways' profit is not the smallest ever known, for there have been times when railways went into receiverships by the billion dollars, but the profit is moderate compared with other profits. And still there is another link which can be let out in the railways' service of the public. The Chairman of the Railway War Board says that the mobilization of the army will be accomplished without much disturbance of the public comfort. Merely to move one army of 80,000 men requires 366 trains, and there are 200,000 men to be moved within four days. This is only part of the task of moving 687,000 Federal recruits and 350,000 National Guardsmen to their training camps. When similar efforts are made by the railways abroad, the railways are closed to the public. In some cases the public has the service of the railways only one day a week. That inconvenience is borne because it must be. Here there is no complaint, because there is no inconvenience which it would not be a reproach to mention, considering the greatness of the cause and the slightness of the disturbance of the normal routine.

Yet the railways are not boasting, or making a virtue of their efforts. On the contrary, the railways officially say:

> Co-operation of patrons and public, in many quarters where there has been indifference or hostility, it must be admitted, is largely responsible for the splendid results thus far attained. A spirit of helpfulness on the part of persons dealing with the railroads, prompted by patriotism in face of actual war, has permitted economy and efficiency in operation previously not attainable.

Accordingly, the railways are keeping a record of this co-operation, and will publish an itemized record of their indebtedness to shippers, passengers, and others whose efforts have enabled more tons to be carried a car, more cars to be hauled by each locomotive, and a greater aggregate of work done with previously inadequate facilities. It will be an interesting record, and as interesting for its omissions as for its inclusions. For example, nothing will be said of the railways' indebtedness to the Governor of New Jersey for his veto of the repeal of the Full Crew bill, compelling the railways to hire men for useless services when they are short of men. There will be no acknowledgment of the services of the Legislature of this State in not passing a similar repealer. It remains to be seen whether there will be any acknowledgment of the services of the Public Utility Commission of New Jersey. It has discretion to suspend the full crew law, and yesterday it began hearings on the subject, with the opposition of the unions already registered. In all, twenty States have laws compelling the useless employment of 20,000 men, but there are no signs of repeal.

The purpose of these remarks is to call attention to the fact that there is general co-operation with the railways, except by the lawmakers and the unions. The lawmakers, State and Federal, show no signs of having outgrown those sentiments of hostility to the railways which the railways say would have prevented their accomplishments if persisted in. The unions, of course, regard the railways' difficulty as their opportunity, and will not waive their advantage for any consideration of the public good. In that the unions of this country are not singular. The cable reports the selection of the present moment to strike for the eight-hour day in England. Nothing could be clearer than the proof by such an act of the supremacy of class consciousness over regard for the public good. The merits of the eight-hour day, whatever they may be, are submerged by the impropriety of attaining it by embarrassment of government in war time.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Realist Judges a Realist.

A notable feature of THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW on Sunday next will be a carefully considered appreciation by WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS of "A Son of the Middle West," a work which is not only the autobiography of HAMLIN GARLAND, but in no small degree a history of a typical American family as it passed through a stage of evolution also typically American.

There is no need to dwell upon the fact that in analyzing and commenting upon this book of a friend whose literary achievements not less than his personal character long since won the sympathy and admiration of Mr. HOWELLS, the latter has displayed all the charm of his style and all the wealth of his knowledge. That was inevitable. He declares the book to stand in safe comparison among the world's greatest autobiographies, and to be unique in presenting in uncompromising fullness and veracity life as it was lived by no inconsiderable number of Americans of the old stock in the days when Wisconsin, Iowa, and the nearby States were not far from the Western frontier. Of that life Mr. HOWELLS knows something from early experiences and more by study of his fellow-citizens, and he has been able in the same way to follow with a comprehending attention the vicissitudes and the triumphs of Mr. GARLAND'S career after he broke the bonds of boyhood environment and became a man of letters in the East with which Mr. HOWELLS is also so familiar.

A critic more competent to review this particular book could not possibly have been found, nor could that critic have found a task that he could perform with more of satisfaction in the doing. There can therefore fairly be claimed for this article a truly special interest in that, dealing with an autobiography, it is in itself in some sense and no small measure itself autobiographical. It is the reaction of one realist to the realism of another realist of his own school—not, by the way, the school of the literary photographer, scornful of selection and under the delusion that anything true is worth telling.

A Debt Which We Should Not Forget.

In receiving the Japanese Mission yesterday President WILSON, welcomed the representatives of an ally to whom we owe more in this war than it has been common to recognize. Our debt to her, in fact, began before she became, our ally. Viscount ISHII himself has indicated it, without calling it a debt, in his first statement on arriving in the United States. He then said, speaking of our country and his own:

> It is for us together to continue to enforce respect for law and humanity upon the Pacific, from which the German menace was removed at the commencement of the war. Had this not been so, had the barbarian of Europe not been rooted from his Oriental bases, the shuddering horrors of the Atlantic and the Mediterranean would today be a grim reality on the Pacific. In the protection of our seagoing merchandise and men, in safeguarding the pleasures of intercourse, you may count on us, as we must count on you.

It was polite of Viscount ISHII to include us, but the truth is that our safety is due to Japan. We have taken as a matter of course the fact that we can sail the Pacific in safety; we send our missions to Europe by that route because it is safe, and our travelers in private life use it free from fear. Japan announced at the beginning of the war that she entered it to keep the peace of Asia, and she has performed her task to the letter. We do not forget the services rendered by British and colonial vessels, or STURDEE'S destruction of VON SPEE'S squadron. But that the continent of Asia was not made a base from which death should be launched upon our travelers and destruction upon our seagoing property, as it has been in other waters, is due to the efficient work of Japan, which has kept that continent and those waters free. We owe many lives and much property to Japan; we owe it to her that the western sea, unlike the eastern, was not turned into a shambles.

Playing Cards for Soldiers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"What becomes of all the playing cards that are discarded after having been used for an afternoon or a night in the thousands of American clubs?" asked Percy G. Williams, the well-known theatrical man, of the writer a few days ago. Inability to answer the question led Mr. Williams to the suggestion that if these packs of cards could be collected and sent to our troops abroad this act would add very much to the pleasure of the American soldiers who are and will be on the French front.

Permit me to present this matter to the attention of the readers of THE TIMES in the hope that some of them will interest themselves in the idea. If packs of playing cards to be donated for this purpose are sent to Miss Virginia Norden, Brightwaters, L. I., N. Y., she will see that they are sent abroad. I bespeak the kindly interest of well-disposed persons throughout the country.

REPUDIATES LA FOLLETTE.

Wisconsin University Professor Says State Is Loyal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a resident of Wisconsin and a member of the Faculty of the State University, I wish to express complete disapprobation of the attitude of Senator La Follette toward the Administration's conduct of the war.

Last November, under conditions very different from those that now obtain, Mr. La Follette was re-elected to the Senate by an overwhelming majority. This by no means indicates that his State is behind him today. If it were, his course would still be objectionable.

I am sure that the mass of Wisconsin people are just as loyal and patriotic as any in the country; and there is plenty of evidence that they know what the war is for and why peace proposals at this stage are dangerous, even if their senior Senator does not.

Are Shoes Made for Feet?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is it not possible for the New York shops of Fifth Avenue and cross streets to put on the market a walking shoe in some way allied to the shape of the human foot, and to be at once sane and beautiful? It is too far a cry as now shown from the deadly common sense last to the ordinary dress shoe.

The writer, feminine, and duly fond of good-looking foot-gear, thinks that such footwear as is exploited in the shops is neither sane nor beautiful for street wear. It is a regrettable fact that a fairly rounded toe in combination with a rational heel in a shoe, pretty and chic, is not to be found in the peculiar selections offered.

Nature expressed a very sound idea of beauty and utility in the human foot and our high civilization, as represented by the shoe craft, is doing its best to make it the ugliest portion of the anatomy, to say nothing of the risk of actual injury. It would seem as if the foot of the American woman was a bit too important now to be so played with.

Would Keep Chocolate for Allies.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Following is a copy of a letter I have sent to Herbert C. Hoover:

South American republics which have broken with our enemy are not expected to do active service. They can aid economically.

Cocoa is raised exclusively in this hemisphere, and exported almost exclusively in allied bottoms.

By restricting the destination of the cocoa bean to allied countries we can be sure of providing for our armies of the future and at the same time prevent the leakage of chocolate into Germany—mainly through Switzerland. Swiss milk, greatly concentrated with the cocoa bean and sugar, is feeding many thousands of German soldiers daily. We can stop this.

An opportunity is thus offered to us to feed our own armies with that which we have taken from the enemy.

Ambulance Men's Mail Delayed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you permit me to call the attention of the proper authorities to the delay in mail sent to our boys in the ambulance service in France?

My son has been at the front thirteen weeks and has received only two letters from home out of thirty that have been written to him. I know they have to be censored, and some, I suppose, go to the bottom, but there must be something radically wrong somewhere.

This seems so unfair when our boys are thousands of miles away trying to save the lives of the men in battle and risking their own lives.

Wants City Hall Cupola Restored.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is there any specific reason for delaying the reconstruction of the cupola and clock on our City Hall, which were destroyed by fire some months ago?

Surely its present charred condition is not a pleasing sight to the eye, nor does it speak well for the maintenance of our public buildings before the representative allied missions that are being received at our City Hall.

Can something not be done to hasten the repair of this unsightly cupola and restore the clock we habitually look for but fail to see?

Suggests Buying the Congo State.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Belgium will find a billion dollars very convenient after the war for the rehabilitation of her shattered land. Why could we not pay her a billion dollars for the Congo State, then offer each of our colored fellow-citizens a free homestead as an inducement to emigrate? We would thus accomplish several desirable objects at the same time—the rehabilitation of Belgium, the solution of the vexing "race problem," and give the colored man an opportunity to form a free State of his own under an American protectorate.

AUGUST NIGHT—EAST SIDE.

Devotees of the great god Heat
Prostrate themselves on the temple floor—
The burning bricks of the city street!
Here is life that was hidden, before,
In cellars and basements below our feet—
Life that is ugly and gross,
Spawned by the city in darkness,
Kept, as a rule, most conveniently close,
Lest Justice should spy it, and call it by name.

But now—only look!
Every cranny and nook
Is seething and wriggling and writhing with life,
As when water, that smiled
Like a dimpled child,
Is sucked by the Drouth,
With its avid mouth,
Till the mud shows its face,
With larvae infested, defiled—
Squirming and writhing in dire disgrace!

And listen! the Cheated Ones seem to say:
"The great god Heat gives us holiday,
But soon we shall shrink from your sight away.
Stooping shoulder and stunted limb,
Hectic color and eyesight dim,
Back to their hiding place will go,
Soon as the winds of Autumn blow;
Stitch by stitch we shall earn our bread;
Life is short, and we'll long be dead.
Eyes that stare at a grimy wall,
Minds made stolid that mouths be fed—
This is their annual festival!
Leisure whispers that life is sweet;
Hail, all hail to the great god Heat!"

STANDARD PATTERNS FOR RED CROSS WORK

Complete Directions for Making All Articles Needed in Europe Prepared.

H. P. DAVISON DEFINES PLAN

Head of War Council Says Organization Seeks to Encourage Work of All Relief Bodies.

The American Red Cross, which on September 1 will succeed the War Relief Clearing House for France and her allies as the general shipping agent of relief supplies, announced yesterday some of the regulations that will govern the acceptance of articles for shipment. The announcement was sent to 2,300 Red Cross Chapters in the United States by Harvey D. Gibson, the General Manager of the Red Cross, but was intended also, for the guidance of such independent war relief charities as may elect to become auxiliaries of the Red Cross under the new arrangement. It was accompanied by a statement by Henry P. Davison, Chairman of the War Council, expressing the hope that as many of the independent charities as possible would decide to work with the Red Cross.

Mr. Gibson notified the Red Cross Chapters that bulletins would be issued naming the classes of articles needed in Europe and the amounts required, as well as what each chapter and organization would be expected to produce, and the time in which it was desired such articles should be made and delivered to the Red Cross.

"After expert study and consultation with physicians, surgeons and other relief societies," Mr. Gibson's announcement explained, "complete standardized directions for making the articles mentioned have been prepared. Standard patterns have been adopted for all hospital garments required, and all pattern companies will issue identical patterns, which will be known as Red Cross Patterns. Any garments made according to these patterns will be acceptable to the Red Cross.

"Until these new directions and patterns are in the hands of Red Cross chapters, any of the above articles made by other societies will be accepted by Red Cross chapters, if offered to them, handled on the same basis as Red Cross articles, and without expense to such contributing society delivered to the nearest Red Cross supply station."

Mr. Davison in his statement, explaining the general policy of the Red Cross on the subject of co-operation, shipping, &c., said:

"The Red Cross seeks to encourage the efforts of all relief organizations. It is hoped that all such organizations which are manufacturing materials for hospital or other relief work among our allies in Europe, may become auxiliaries of the Red Cross, thus avoiding duplication. Such auxiliaries will retain their name and identity, the Red Cross will assist them in making their work effective, and with such affiliation the Red Cross will transport their materials to Europe free of charge, and see to it that such materials are properly distributed.

"Many war relief organizations have solicited contributions in kind. Some of the articles solicited have been necessary; others, while given in a spirit of a fine generosity, have not necessarily been of great benefit. Yet other articles have been sent to Europe which were not needed at all.

"Pressure upon shipping space has become very intense, and it is absolutely necessary that for the present nothing be shipped abroad which is not imperatively needed. Ocean shipping difficulties become greater each day the submarine warfare is continued. The Red Cross cannot provide shipping arrangements for articles other than those which its investigations in Europe show to be required there.

"It is the hope that organizations which have devoted themselves merely to collecting funds will, after having used their present funds according to the designation of the donors, divert their efforts to soliciting funds which may be utilized along lines for which experience abroad shows a paramount need to exist.

"The Red Cross has assumed administration of the War Relief Clearing House in France, and will continue its functions. By reason of the great pressure on the French railways, it will be impossible for the War Relief Clearing House to arrange free transportation after September 1 for articles other than those which may be designated as essential in the present emergency.

"In the meantime, the American Red Cross has been co-operating successfully with the War Relief Clearing House in the United States in assisting the various relief organizations to obtain the utmost possible space for shipping to Europe from American ports. Everything offered thus far has been shipped abroad.

"It should be understood, however, that the situation as to relief organizations which prevails now as compared with that before the declaration of war by the United States, is wholly different. Prior to that time the American Red Cross had to be neutral, whereas the various relief organizations were under no such obligation. With our entry into the war, the Red Cross became free to exert itself in any way which, within the scope of its general activities, might aid our allies and allied peoples.

"We earnestly hope that no one will feel that the Red Cross desires to do anything but help. The Red Cross is an American institution, chartered by the United States Government, and the President of the United States is its President. The organization belongs to the American people, and seeks in this great world emergency to do nothing more and nothing less than to co-ordinate the generosity and the effort of our people toward achieving a supreme aim."

PUT EMBARGO ON SULPHUR.

Canadian Pulp Mills Supplying U. S. May Be Seriously Affected.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—An embargo has been placed on exports of sulphur to Canada in order that the supply for war needs of the United States may not be unduly depleted. Canadian wood-pulp mills furnishing supplies for about three-fourths of the newsprint paper used in the United States will be seriously affected.

Sulphur, classified with explosives, is included in the list of commodities for which export licenses are required. No shipments will be licensed, officials said today, until Canada has presented complete estimates of the requirements of Dominion newsprint makers and of the needs of explosives factories.

The impression was given by officials today that, while there is every desire that the newspaper industry shall suffer no embarrassment, war needs will receive first consideration, and it was suggested that sulphur may be permitted to go to Canada in limited quantities only, even after the issuing of licenses is resumed.

JAPANESE BACK FROM ROME.

Deny That Economic Conference Had a Political Cast.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Japanese officials here were questioned today regarding a report in The San Francisco Examiner that Viscount Okouchi and Mr. Kawai had arrived there on their way to Tokio from Rome, where, it was said, they had attended a secret conference of the Allies just before the announcement of the Pope's peace plea. They were represented as having said that the Pope and a high American official had invited Japan to send delegates to the conference.

It was explained that Viscount Okouchi is a member of the Japanese House of Peers and Mr. Kawai is Secretary of the House. They have been in Rome as delegates to the International Economic Conference, held there some months ago. The conference was held at the invitation of the Italian Government. Political matters were not to be discussed nor had the conference anything to do with diplomatic questions. The United States was not represented.

SENATORS HEAR REICHMANN

Army Colonel Denies Charges of Disloyalty Before Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Colonel Carl Reichmann, United States Army Inspector General of Militia of the Central Division, at Chicago, appeared before the sub-committee of the Senate Military Affairs Committee today to answer allegations that he had voiced disloyal utterances on the conduct of the war and expressed sympathy with Germany. Upon the outcome of the hearing, which is being conducted in executive session, depends the action of the Senate upon the President's nomination of Colonel Reichmann to be a Brigadier General to command a division going to France.

Colonel Reichmann took the stand and denied the charges against him. He will finish his evidence tomorrow. He sat for two hours before taking the stand, listening to the allegations and to testimony of witnesses in his favor.

The chief allegation against Colonel Reichmann was embraced in a letter written by Mrs. James Anderson, wife of a Canadian Colonel, to Senator Poindexter. This was read to the committee. In the letter Mrs. Anderson wrote that at a tea at the home of Colonel S. L. Faison at Chicago, on Aug. 1, Colonel Reichmann, during a discussion over the war, said that the United States was wrong in sending its soldiers to fight in France. The Colonel also said, she wrote, that Germany's submarine campaign and its Zeppelin attacks on English cities were entirely justified.

Another letter received this week by Senator Pomerene was read to the committee. It was written by some one whose identity was not given, and referred to the conduct of Colonel Reichmann during the Boer war when he served as Military Observer for the United States Army with the British forces. At that time the Colonel was alleged to have revealed information to the Germans that is said to have led to the ambush of British forces at Bushman's Kop. The writer of the letter spoke of this incident as tending to show pro-German bias on the part of Colonel Reichmann.

After the letters had been read, Mrs. Faison took the stand and testified in Colonel Reichmann's behalf. She said she believed that the remark made by Colonel Reichmann had been misconstrued by Mrs. Anderson. Colonel Faison gave testimony to substantiate that of his wife.

Colonel Reichmann then took the stand and vehemently denied that he had made any criticism of the Administration that could be construed as disloyal, or that he had expressed himself as being in sympathy with Germany.

PERU'S PORTS OPEN TO US.

President of Republic Commends Stand Taken by Wilson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Peru has lined up behind Uruguay and Argentina in supporting morally the United States in its war against Germany, and in opening its ports to American warships during the war. Secretary Lansing received and made public today the text of an address which President Pardo of Peru recently delivered before the Congress of his nation, in which he said, in part:

"President Wilson, in his message read before the American Congress on the 2d of last April, set forth the motives of intervention of his country in the European war and the plans pursued to save the principles of peace and justice in the world, declaring that the United States would be satisfied only when they have consolidated the faith in liberty which the nations can give, adding that they will fight for the triumph of democratic rights, for the liberty of those who are living under oppression and have no voice before their Governments, for the rights and liberties of the small nations, for the universal dominion of justice, and because the concert of all the people carry and assure peace and humanity, and may make the entire world positively free.

"Peru, which in all its acts of international life has endeavored to incorporate these principles of justice in the judicial and political relations of the American people; Peru, which in a war not far back sacrificed for these ideals the blood of its sons, the richness of its treasuries, and the hope of its future, cannot be indifferent to the words of President Wilson, and adheres once more to such noble purposes."

SOMERS HEADS G. A. R.

Indianian Elected Commander in Chief—Gen. Clem Honored.

BOSTON, Aug. 23.—Orlando A. Somers of Kokomo, Ind., was elected Commander in Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic at the closing session of the annual encampment today. There were no other candidates and the election was by acclamation.

Brigadier General John L. Clem, U. S. A., retired, of Washington, who enlisted in the Twenty-second Michigan Infantry as a drummer boy at the age of 11, was elected Senior Vice Commander in Chief. He was the only candidate nominated. Speakers called attention to the fact that he was a Sergeant in the Union Army a year after he went to the front.

John A. Vernin of Chicago was elected Junior Vice Commander in Chief.

John M. Adams of Cincinnati was elected Surgeon General and the Rev. C. H. Prady of Helena, Mont., Chaplain in Chief.

The appointment of Robert W. McBride of Indianapolis as Adjutant General was announced by Commander in Chief Somers.

The convention formally ratified the selection of Portland, Ore., as the encampment city for next year.

SOLVING EXPORTS PROBLEM

Washington Already Arranging a Plan to Ration Neutrals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The Exports Council has practically all the information that is necessary to assist in formulating a policy of rationing neutral countries contiguous to Germany upon principles declared by President Wilson. Temporary agreements are being negotiated with the neutrals, the terms of which are being kept secret, but it is known that the quantities of supplies permitted to be exported by them are comparatively small, and that some use, connected with the war, will be made of part of the neutral shipping. This use is believed to be for relief work at the present time, as the agreements cover only specified amounts of grain and other food and foodstuffs.

The neutrals are not yet permitted to export from this country materials which are needed for the manufacture of war supplies, such as steel; and the amount of coal they may purchase here for shipping and for fuel is extremely limited.

CONFER ON SWEDEN'S FOOD.

King and Minister Morris Discuss American Embargo.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 23.—In a speech yesterday dealing with the position of neutrals, Admiral Lindman, the Foreign Minister, expressed the hope that the people of America, as well as those who direct America's policy, would take a broad and humanitarian point of view, and that the American nation, with which Sweden had had such close relations, would not be willing to cause this country serious difficulties.

Referring to measures adopted by the United States to limit food exportation, the Minister gave an account of imports of grain into Sweden and of exports of provisions. He said there had been, virtually no shipping of grain from the country during the war, and that the quantity of pork and other meat exported by no means reached the extent sometimes rumored.

Ira N. Morris, the American Minister, had an audience of half an hour with the King today, discussing the relations of Sweden and the United States and the requirements of this country. An improvement in conditions is expected on the return of Herman Lagercrantz, who was sent to Washington by the Government to explain the needs of Sweden.

WILSON WELCOMES JAPANESE MISSION

Receives Letter from Emperor Felicitating America on Our Entry Into War.

FIGHT FOR LIBERTY PLEDGED

"Indignant Humanity," Says the President, Is Struggling for the Rights of Nations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—Viscount Ishii, Special Ambassador and head of Japan's Mission to the United States, presented his credentials to President Wilson this afternoon, and with them an autograph letter from the Japanese Emperor congratulating the President and the people of the United States upon their decision to enter the war against Germany.

Viscount Ishii said:

"Mr. President: On this occasion I have the good fortune to be the bearer of a special message of welcome and deep appreciation from His Imperial Majesty, the Emperor of Japan, to the President and sovereign people of the United States of America, on their momentous decision to co-operate in the great war now raging.

"His Majesty, interpreting the unanimous sentiment of Japan, congratulates your great country on this determination. It has been arrived at not lightly and in a moment of passion, but after the exercise of a noble patience and in a spirit of unselfish chivalry which have excited the admiration of the whole world. That America is now fighting on the side of Japan is a source of pride to His Majesty and to every Japanese.

Recalls Co-operation in China.

"It is not the first time, I may be allowed to remind you, Mr. President, that this has happened. In 1900 I had the privilege of seeing with my own eyes the American and Japanese colors waiving together, when the allied troops, in the face of terrible difficulties, triumphantly relieved the besieged legations at Peking. I well remember the skill and courage with which the American civilians and soldiers co-operated in the defense. The resourceful bravery which those few Americans showed then American legions will show now.

"The unselfish co-operation of the United States of America and Japan in the tremendous task of restoring the reign of mutual confidence and goodwill among the nations of the earth cannot but draw us closer together. Our common efforts are directed to attain an enduring peace based on respect for the independence of the smallest and weakest States; on contempt of the arrogance of materialistic force; on reverence for the pledged word. In the service of these common ideals, our two countries must surely realize a far nearer friendship than before.

"This is no ordinary war. It is an issue between common morality and an inhuman system of calculated aggression which would render all friendly intercourse impossible. The welcome fact that the United States stands side by side with the allied powers is a guarantee of early victory, and so his Imperial Majesty hails it as such with deep gratification."

New Ties in War, Says Wilson.

The President said in reply:

"Mr. Ambassador: It is with a sense of deep satisfaction that I receive from your hand the letters whereby you are accredited as the Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of Japan on special mission to the United States. It is a pleasure to accept through you from your imperial sovereign congratulations on the entrance of

PREPARING TO CRUSH CANADIAN SEDITION

Home Troops Held in Readiness for Enforcement of the Conscription Act.

SALE OF ARMS IS CHECKED

Quebec Street Orators to be Silenced as Soon as the Law Is Proclaimed.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—While the conscription bill has not yet been proclaimed law, the Government is going ahead steadily with preparations for its enforcement. The Minister of Justice has so stated in the House and there is ample evidence that the preparations are for all possible emergencies.

The Federal authorities issued an order today calling upon all hardware merchants in Quebec who sell revolvers, rifles, and ammunition to report immediately the number of firearms and the quantity of ammunition they have in stock. This is in keeping with the occision of the Government to reduce the available supply of firearms to a minimum in order that hotheaded persons may be saved from follies which they might commit were firearms available.

Enforcement of the conscription bill is in the hands of the military authorities, a fact which few seem to realize. As the proclamation of the act will automatically make everybody within the prescribed age limits a soldier, the civil authorities have no concern with the bill in any form.

Already there has been considerable co-operation between English hardware firms here and the Federal authorities. One firm handling firearms has refused to execute more than $100,000 worth of orders for revolvers, rifles, and ammunition, all from French Canadians within the province. It is feared that already a large number of irresponsible youths have procured firearms.

A prominent headquarters staff officer here makes the statement that so far as the Montreal military district is concerned everything is now in readiness for the enforcement of the conscription act as soon as the Government has completed its civil machinery of tribunals and record offices. It is significant in this connection that three Scottish regiments which came here on their way overseas have had their orders to sail cancelled, and other regiments at Ottawa and Valcartier camps which were also slated to sail for Europe some days ago have been ordered to remain.

Recent advices from England state that cruisers have been dispatched to these waters with considerable forces of marines, and it is indicated that in the event of any organized effort to interfere with the execution of the conscription act the Government will call upon outside forces for help if the necessity arises.

As soon as the bill is proclaimed the flood of violent counsel which street orators have been pouring forth will be dried up. The bill provides stiff penalties for this sort of agitation, and it is the Government's determination to lose no time in enforcing the prohibition of all seditious utterances against the prosecution of the war.

The reference made by Sir Lomer Gouin in his speech last Monday to the need and the probability of another Cromwell arising here has not been overlooked. The Provincial Premier's utterance, after his long silence, is regarded as proof that he has no intention of aiding the Federal authorities in the enforcement of conscription before an election. With the growing improvement in the prospects for a Union Government the chances of postponing an election until after the war are again being weighed, though there seems little real prospect of this being achieved.

The next three weeks will see the conscription act well on the way to enforcement here unless untoward developments cause the Government to change its plans.

MEAT OF REINDEER POPULAR ON COAST

Government Railroad to Alaska Promises to Open New Distributing Centres.

HERDS ARE INCREASING

Animals Easy to Raise and the Flesh Is Said to be as Good as Beef or Mutton.

Reindeer meat is finding its way into the market on the Pacific Coast, and is certain to become an important part of the meat supply of this country when the Government railroad to Alaska provides the means of shipping to distributing centres in this country, according to Clio Mamer, writing in The Catholic World.

There were 70,243 reindeer in Alaska, according to the Government report on the subject in 1915, nearly all descendants of herds totaling 1,200 which were imported from Russia to stock the country between 1902 and 1906, and the herds today are increasing at a remarkable rate. Until 1914, the raising of reindeer was confined to natives and Eskimos, but since then the Government has permitted others to enter the business. Beginning in the Fall of 1914, shipments of reindeer meat to Seattle and other Pacific Coast cities have been allowed. Mr. Mamer says that reindeer steak is as palatable as beefsteak, and that it has been selling at many of the best hotels in California, Washington, and Oregon for from one-quarter to one-half the price of beefsteak. He continues:

"There are many things to be said in favor of using reindeer meat on our tables, aside from a desire to cut the high cost of living. The reindeer is not only easy and cheap to raise, but its flesh is pleasing to the taste and it is fully as nutritious as beef or mutton. Moreover, practically every part of the animal can be utilized for human consumption, and it is one of the easiest meats to keep from spoiling.

"Last Winter marked the entrance of the reindeer upon the scene as a possible economic factor in the great world war. The Swedish Government sold to German agents 43,500 carcasses of reindeers, which, it was estimated, provided 3,480 metric tons of venison for the German soldiers. This meat was purchased at a price which would make it the equivalent of 28 cents a pound in our money.

"When the United States Government took over its newly purchased land from Russia and enacted laws for the protection of the seal, the Indians and the Eskimos were reduced to a state of starvation. With the coming of the white man the wild game and whale upon which the natives had relied for their food supply had been driven into the inaccessible north lands, and now the seal, the one animal which remained for them to live upon, was taken from them. Scores of these people were wiped out of existence by disease and hunger before the Government awoke to the fact that it was its duty to preserve the lives of these unfortunate wretches. It was Captain M. A. Healey of the United States revenue cutter Bear who was responsible for the suggestion which finally led to the introduction of the reindeer from Alaska."

Twelve hundred reindeer were brought over from Russia between 1902 and 1906, but in the latter year Russia forbade further exportations of the animal. The herds already imported were placed under the care of Laplanders brought over for the express purpose of teaching how to breed and care for the animals. Eskimo and Indian boys are now taught how to raise reindeer at Government experimental stations in Alaska. They are trained in this industry and taught reading, writing, arithmetic, and sanitation for five years at Government expense, after which they receive from six to ten reindeer with which to start a herd of their own. Many of these boys have become wealthy.

"Nearly every portion of a reindeer's flesh can be used, and one cut is practically as good as another," says Mr. Mamer. "It would seem as if this industry ought to appeal strongly to those of our young agricultural students who are particularly interested in stock raising, for it undoubtedly has an element of adventure about it which they, more than any other class of farmers, would appreciate. Reindeer can be raised for the market much more cheaply than cattle, for they find their own feed both in Winter and Summer, and they can live in barren wastes which would support no other kind of animal. It has been estimated that there is in Alaska close to 300,000 square miles of this land which would afford pasturage for millions of deer. These domesticated descendants of the caribou which still roam wild in certain parts of Alaska and British Columbia, besides being easy to feed, are not difficult to raise, as they are exceptionally healthy and suffer from no disease."

TEXAS HOUSE VOTES TO IMPEACH GOVERNOR

Orders Committee to Draw Bill of Charges, and Executive May Leave Office Today.

WINSTON, Aug. 23.—The House in Committee of the Whole tonight reported a recommendation that a bill of impeachment against Governor James E. Ferguson be presented to the Senate. The vote was 81 to 52.

A committee of nine was appointed to draw up articles of impeachment and report to the House as the first business tomorrow. The action was taken as a result of the investigation of thirteen charges filed by Speaker Fuller against the Governor, alleging illegal acts in office.

The articles of impeachment to be drawn first must be passed on by the House before they can go to the Senate. Legislative leaders expressed the belief that the articles will be adopted quickly. Should they be signed tomorrow, Governor Ferguson would be automatically suspended from office, and his place taken by Lieutenant Governor Hobby, pending Senate action.

Much of the stir which caused the investigation resulted from the Governor's attitude in vetoing bills for university appropriations. Other charges against the Governor were that he failed to pay back to the State, as promised, funds appropriated for incidentals at the Mansion, but spent it for groceries, meats, vegetables, and automobile accessories; that he violated the banking laws by taking large loans from the Temple State Bank, in which he was a stockholder; that he deposited State funds in the Temple bank for his own benefit; that he misappropriated State funds to pay personal obligations; that Abilene was incorrectly chosen as the site for the West Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College, and that he sought to influence Speaker Fuller by extending him a long time loan.

GIVES PRESIDENT A PULL.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 23.—President and Mrs. Wilson had an unpleasant experience a few days ago while motoring on the Belair Road. Accompanied by Secret Service men, they were enjoying the trip, when, in turning, their limousine backed off the highway into a mire covered with grass, into which the wheels of the machine sank almost out of sight.

The chauffeur and Secret Service men called a farmer with a mule team, but the mules were unable to budge the car. Afterward a Baltimore man, driving a five-ton truck, came along, and in a short time the powerful motor pulled out the President's car. The Secret Service men offered to pay the owner of the truck, but he declined to accept any money.

"It is enough reward to be able to get President Wilson out of a hole," remarked the Baltimorean as he returned to his truck.

NATIONAL CHAMPION BEATEN AT TENNIS

RAIN BOTHERS PLAYERS

Contest Concluded in Steady Downpour, with Bostonian Victorious at 6—2, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3.

The greatest reversal in the national tennis tournament at Forest Hills came yesterday afternoon when Richard Norris Williams 2d, holder of the national singles championship, was defeated in the semi-final round of the event by Nathaniel W. Niles of Boston in a four-set match with the score, 6—2, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3. Although the result was foreshadowed somewhat by Williams's lack of practice and erratic play in the earlier rounds, the victory was none the less amazing when it was indelibly recorded among the achievements of the tournament.

Niles deserves credit for a great victory which should be one of the brightest memories of his tennis career, yet for all it was not convincing of his superiority to the same extent had the title been at stake in the present event. He attained heights of tennis which showed him at his best, probably stronger than at any time in the last two years, but Williams was far from being at his best. The skill which carried Williams to victories over Maurice E. McLoughlin in the championship of 1914 and William M. Johnston in the championship of a year ago, showed itself only in fleeting glimpses. The Williams of old was on the court for only about one-fifth of the match, for the rest of the time there was a player of lesser skill.

Seldom has a champion gone down to defeat amid more sombre surroundings than did Williams. The match was held up by a shower, and before the players had been on the courts more than a few minutes a drizzle set in that abated only momentarily as the contest proceeded. At times there was a heavy shower of rain, and when the fourth set was under way it poured.

Niles Plays Steady Tennis.

Niles at all times showed a well-balanced game of tennis, with the generalship and craft engendered by long experience at his call in the critical moments. There was hardly a period when steadiness was not at his command, with here and there a flash of brilliancy. He played largely a baseline type of game, and there were many long rallies on deep driving, each player seeking the opportunity to advance to the barrier to finish off the point. At the net Niles was accurate and severe, playing the ball close to the lines, but seldom playing to the forbidden territory outside. Also, he made few nets in comparison with those which came from Williams's racquet.

In the first set Williams tried to come to the forecourt with a rush but he was met by such well-placed passing strokes on the part of Niles that he learned greater respect for the hazard, and when Niles interpolated drives to the champion's feet as the latter came to the forecourt Williams retired to the base line in an effort to outdrive his opponent. The champion's strokes were uncertain. The half volley failed him repeatedly in the opening clash, and it did not begin to show its effectiveness until the second set was well under way. It was shots of this character which roused the dripping gallery to shouts of applause as the match wore on.

Williams's difficulty was that he could not maintain his game at a high standard for any length of time. After making a wonderful cross court shot or a fine volley he would miss simple shots, and frequently when that point was needed to round out a game.

The first set had not progressed far before it became apparent that Williams was doomed. Some had even predicted it beforehand, remembering the uncertain play of Williams against both Leonard Beekman and Harold Throckmorton. The champion played nonchalantly, never appearing worried by the attack of Niles, even though he was having difficulty in making returns. The same air was true as game after game turned against him, and he seemed no different when the final point of the match had been scored.

Lack of Practice Injurious.

As a matter of fact Williams is rather surprised that he did so well in the tournament. Having been at Plattsburg all Summer, he has had small opportunity for tennis, and some eight or ten matches are all that he has played this season. When this is taken into consideration it is really remarkable that he did so well.

Niles never let up one whit in his attack. He took nothing for granted, for perhaps he felt, as did many of Williams's firm supporters, that the title holder would recover his best play before the match was out of his grasp. The record of how Niles won is well shown in the stroke analysis of the match. Williams was a heavy offender on errors, some of them forced by the careful play of Niles, but many of them nets and outs, to which Williams at his best would have been a stranger. Williams netted fifty-one times as opposed to thirty-two of this species of errors by Niles. A difference not quite so large is shown in the total outs of the match. Niles made only thirty-three, while Williams put the ball out of court on forty-six occasions. In the matter of placements Williams led at thirty-eight to thirty-two.

The first set, which went to Niles at 6—2, shows conclusively how well he profited by the errors of his opponent in eight games Niles had only three placements, nets and outs of his opponent deciding the games which he won.

As he played in this set, Williams looked anything but a champion. He had hardly a redeeming point in the entire set, bar two placements in the second game, which were neatly volleyed off at the net with the backhand overhead sweep which is characteristic of his style. This backhand stroke was his most dependable weapon in an assortment of strokes that persisted in going wrong.

Carelessness Costs Set.

Williams had many opportunities to show to advantage, but most of them he turned aside without serious thought. His carelessness really lost the third set. Niles was in the lead at 5—4, but Williams had not as yet been broken through, and it was expected that he would establish his own service and make it deuce. He led at 40—30 in the next game, only to lob short and have Niles make a kill for the point that made the game deuce. Another placement off service let Niles take the vantag point, and Williams handed the set over to his rival when he double faulted.

Niles started service in the first set and took a love game on his opponent's errors. The next game went to Williams mainly on the strength of his service and placements. Niles was sending his service with speed and placing it well and he took another love game from Williams. The fourth game saw Williams broken through, but here his nets were a factor of major importance. From this lead Niles made the set 4—1 in his favor. Williams established his service in a love game, making it 2—4, but Niles, after almost double-faulting away the seventh game, succeeded in pulling it out on Williams' continued tendency to net easy shots, and in the eighth game Williams was again broken through, this time for the set.

The second set started as if it would also be in Niles's favor. He won his own service and broke through Williams's in a love game, two wonderful placements clinching the game. From then to the close of this set Williams rose to heights of tennis which were far superior to anything that Niles could supply in his efforts to stay the attack. Williams won his way through the third game by bringing off sizzling placements down the lines and across the court that roused the gallery to applause despite the rain.

This breaking through against Niles's service seemed to spur Williams to renewed efforts. Spirited rallies followed in the succeeding game, but, with Williams playing perfectly, Niles was helpless. Beginning with the third game, Niles secured only six points in the next four games and was twice broken through. Niles succeeded in taking the seventh game on service, but Williams won the next at love. The ninth game was brilliantly fought, Niles winning after deuce twice had been called. Niles led at 40—30 in the tenth game, but Williams made it deuce with a pretty cross-court backhand volley that skipped away from Niles's reach, and when Niles twice netted off service Williams made the sets 1—all.

As in the other two sets, Niles began service, but was pressed to a 9—7 score before the honors rested with him. Each player twice had the vantage point, and then errors, a net, and an out which were inexcusable lost the game for Williams. The champion took the next game at love, and then followed another long deuce game on Niles's service. Williams drove out three times to start the game, and then, with as much ease, made three exceptional placements to bring the game to deuce. The fortunes wavered, as they had in the first game, but, finally, Williams's errors came two at a time, and Niles led at 2 to 1. Service was accountable for the next six games, and then Williams was broken through for the match, his double fault ending things.

The first three games of the fourth set followed service. In the fourth game Williams was broken through, and thereafter he was never able to retrieve. The set went to 3—1 and 30—15 in the next game, when the rain became so heavy that the players were called from the court. When they resumed, a little later, Niles took the fifth game, making the score 4—1 in his favor. From then on it was apparent that Williams was doomed to defeat. He could not rally his game, and, although he took two more games before the decision was reached, he never seriously threatened Niles.

The other semi-final round match between Robert Lindley Murray and John R. Strachan was postponed because of the rain, and will be played this afternoon. The winner of this meets Niles in the final round tomorrow.

In anticipation of a big gathering of spectators for the matches this afternoon and tomorrow, extra seats will be erected. Charles Ebbets has given the West Side Tennis Club the use of the temporary bleachers which were used at the Brooklyn ball park during the last world's series.

GIANTS AND CUBS IN SCORELESS TIE

Rain Stops Pitching Duel Between Schupp and Vaughn in Fifth Inning.

The Giants were neatly left-handing their way toward the pennant against the Cubs at the Polo Grounds yesterday when barrels of rain began to fall at the end of the fifth inning, and the soirée resulted in a no-score tie. After a half hour's wait, Umpire Rigler sallied forth to the diamond to see if he could get his feet wet. His feet having absorbed sufficient moisture to convince Rigler that it had been raining, he called off the game.

Ferdie Schupp and Jim Vaughn faced each other, and, as far as the contest went, there was every indication of a hard, close duel of the fork-armed flingers. The Giants had made two hits off Vaughn, while the Cubs made only one off Schupp. Both pitchers were being supported with flattering aid.

Larry Doyle was laid off for the day and Rollie Zeider was covering second. In the third inning Rariden hopped a roller down through second and Rollie made a marvelous stop and a more marvelous throw to first and brought about Bill's demise. Zeider has been playing around here for a long time, but he never made as slick a play as that one.

Heinie Zim also favored with an exceptionally brilliant bit of fielding when, in the third, Pete Kilduff jammed a hit over the bag at third which was blazing its way for a two-bagger. Zim nipped it off the bag and pegged Pete out at first—a play which just bubbled over with talent.

Fletcher got one of the Giants' hits in the second and Burns got the other in the fourth. The only Cub to reach Schupp was Leslie Mann, who hit a single to left in the fourth. Burns was playing the game under difficulties, for during the practice he was hit in the face with the ball and received a bad cut under the left eye. Georgie insisted on playing because he does not want to break his record for consecutive games played. Burns hasn't missed a game with the Giants for so long now that he forgets how many he has played.

Of course, there isn't a certainty that the Giants would have won the game if the rain hadn't edged in, but judging from the way Schupp was pitching, the Bruins had a hard job ahead of them.

Today is Larry Doyle day at the Polo Grounds, and the former Giant captain is going to be presented with some trinket or other by his admirers. The reason Larry didn't play yesterday was to get a good rest for the ordeal. Two games are scheduled.

PATCHED-UP ROBINS LOSE.

Cardinals Take Advantage of Weakened Brooklyn Team.

Miller Huggins's Cardinals made a successful invasion of Ebbets Field yesterday and walked away with the honors of the initial struggle with the Robins, by the score of 7 to 5. Accidents have so affected the Brooklyn team that it now bears little resemblance to the champion outfit of a year ago.

Manager Robinson had Casey Stengel in centre and Jeff Pfeffer, the pitcher, in right; the last named spot was weak. Jeff gave his utmost to emulate Stengel, but fell down when the opportunity came. Jeff's failure, however, did not stand out as the principal feature in St. Louis's victory, as the visitors pounded the offerings of Sherrod Smith hard, and were aided by O'Rourke's error in the first.

Pfeffer's chance came in the fifth inning with the score 4-all. With two down Long belted a double to the left field fence and scored on a passed ball. After Betzel had singled to Pfeffer's territory, Miller smashed a hard hit ball in the same direction which the slow-footed Jeff missed after a hard run, the ball rolling to the fence while Betzel scored and Miller pulled up at third. Miller scored on Hornsby's infield hit.

Rain threatened to halt the game in fact the major portion of the first inning was played in a drizzle, but after a half hour of twenty-five minutes the Robins went to bat and took revenge on bespectacled Lee Meadows. With an imposing four-run lead chalked up for St. Louis in the first inning, the Robins came back in their next two turns at bat and sent Lee Meadows to the showers.

In the first with passes to Daubert and Stengel, a wild pitch and a single by Hickman, gave the Robins two runs. Pfeffer's single and Krueger's triple, scoring Jeff, spelled the undoing of Meadows in the second, and Krueger scored on Olson's out after Gene Packard had replaced Meadows.

A triple by Long, an error by O'Rourke, and singles by Hornsby, Paulette, and Baird gave the Cards their four-run lead. In the seventh Brooklyn's last run trickled across the plate on Smith's triple to centre and Daubert's sacrifice fly.

LUCKLESS YANKEES BEATEN BY INDIANS

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 23.—Errorless fielding and hitting that was cleaner than that of the Indians could not save the Yankees this afternoon and the opening game of a short series with Lee Fohl's team went as so many others have gone during the past three weeks. Cleveland got the verdict over Bill Donovan's luckless outfit by the score of 4 to 2.

The hit total of the home team does Ray Caldwell an injustice as a little spry work by his supporting cast in the first and fifth innings would have held the Indians scoreless. Four of the Cleveland hits were handled by Yankee fielders and three of these played a part in the Indians' scoring. It was in the two frames which found the Yankee fielders off color, though out of range of errors, that the damage was done.

Donovan made another of the daily changes which now mark the New York batting order and it worked better than for some time. Joe Gedeon replaced Maisel at second and he showed up well both at bat and afield. He handled five chances faultlessly and at bat he collected two clean hits and missed two more through spectacular stops by Evans and Chapman.

Caldwell started gaily. Garney popped a short hit into centre and stretched it into a double when Hendryx fell as he dove for the ball. Gilhooley recovered it but his hurried throw to second was wide. Chapman followed with a clean drive to right and Graney romped home. After Speaker and Smith had been retired Harris hit a fly to left. High ran in and seemed to have caught the ball but it dropped to the ground and went for a hit, Chapman scoring.

The Yanks got their first run in the second inning. With one out Gedeon lined a single to centre and advanced on Baker's infield out. Hendryx's double chased Gedeon home.

In the fifth the Indians got their last two runs. Graney and Chapman had been retired when Speaker hit a bounder toward Peck. The latter ran in to make a quick play and the ball hit his arm, bounding away for a single. Smith's double scored Speaker. Harris followed with a drive to centre and Smith

'CHEER UP' SHOW AT THE HIPPODROME

An Early Wartime Play Full of Khaki, Flags, and Marching.

DIVING GIRLS AND HORSES

Ice Skating Gives Way to Luna Park and a Water Frolic.

CHEER UP.—A musical revue in three parts, conceived by R. H. Burnside, lyrics by John L. Golden, music by Raymond Hubbell. At the Hippodrome. The Principals—John Hendricks, Nat M. Wills, Sophye Barnard, Guadalupe Melendez, Eddie Russell, Charles Ravel, Frances Roeder, Henry Taylor, Rhea Norton, Fred Walton, Claire Rochester, J. P. Coombs, Nellie Doner, Harry Ward, Mirano Brothers, the Soltis, Tozart, the Brightons, Dippy Diers, the Roganny Troupe, the Ladella Comiques, the Amaranths, Malila, Bart, Mallia, Helen Gladings, the Elm City Four.

With reference, perhaps, to the fact that the worst is yet to come, the new show at the Hippodrome calls upon its patrons to cheer up. Worst, that is, as regards our participation in the war. As for the Hippodrome, as every one knows, it yearly grows bigger and brighter and in every way better.

The earlier part of the evening is largely addressed to those whose minds are upon war, and whose hearts are upon warriors. There is a great display of allied bunting, and of the costumes of all nations—or almost all; and two of the many scenes are directly topical—the good ship Recruit in Union Square, and an army transport, crowded with soldiers, (of both sexes,) which sails away backward up the river while gray warships go down to the sea.

For the rest, Nat Wills is there with his usual store of new quips, and, better yet, a new side partner, Fred Walton, who reveals resources in artistic clowning which equal anything that has been seen since Marceline. His colloquy with two dummy soldiers is a masterpiece of eloquent pantomime. And Bud Snyder and company must not be forgotten. The "company"—if by that the clowns are meant—give a performance far broader than Walton's, and very funny.

There is a novel act in which a trapeze is whirled dangerously about by the force of an airplane—driven by an actual propeller—the whole being held aloft upon an ironclad motor car. A real locomotive comes on with a trainload of hoboes; and a cornfield is suddenly resolved into a pyramid of human popples. But enumeration is vain. In one word, as we all grow younger and more impressionable the Hippodrome becomes more impressing.

The feature of the evening, is, as usual, in the tank. The ice upon which for two years Charlotte and her troupe disported has passed, and we have the old pool again. The ladies of the chorus dive and disappear as of yore, not even a bubble marking their evanishment. The new stunt is a troupe of high-diving principals, clad in suits which are union forever, who exhaust the repertory of aquatic gambols with consummate ease and grace—and with an air peculiarly tantalizing to an audience sweltering in the midsummer until almost midnight.

With the best of will, it cannot be said that the horses were a crowning success. They were beautiful cream-white creatures, sensitive and high-spirited, and they were obviously very reluctant to take the plunge. Considerable urging was necessary, and the result was what, in the crude world of juvenility, is called a belly whooper. Perhaps they were suffering from stage fright and will improve with experience, but last night the effect was far from inspiring.

So let us return in closing to the diving ladies, who were almost as beautiful as the Arab steeds, and who frolicked like a troupe of sea lions. Youth, health, animal spirits—with apologies to the horses; the most hilarious clowning, the brightest of lights and costumes—that is the Hippodrome. And if there are those who, in spite of advancing youth, find much of it just a trifle crude artistically, they can still cheer up, for, as Manager Dillingham revises the well-worn motto, the Century Show is still to come.

DISLOYAL SOLDIER TO DIE.

Frenchman Resisted Suppression of Revolutionary Cries.

PARIS, Aug. 22, (delayed.)—The severity of the French military laws is indicated by the action of a court-martial sitting at Nantes, which has just sentenced to death a soldier named Jean Legouale.

The sentence was imposed for striking an officer and gendarmes with a leather strap when they attempted to prevent the soldier from shouting revolutionary cries as his train passed through a railroad station.

EXPECT PRESENTMENT SOON

Grand Jury Investigating Bullock Charges May Act Today.

Several witnesses were heard by the Grand Jury yesterday that is investigating charges made by William Bullock concerning the purchase by the city of the Dreamland and Rockaway Park properties. Certain papers and books in possession of the witnesses were also put before the Grand Jury. The investigation has reached a point where it is believed a presentment may be forthcoming today.

Among the witnesses who apeared yesterday were Frank Bailey, Vice President of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company; W. M. Greve, W. S. Cogswell, J. O. Kearney, a representative of the Corporation Counsel's office, and Secretary McLaughlin of the County Clerk's office in Queens.

It was said that ex-Senator William H. Reynolds would not be called to give any further statement to the District Attorney regarding any interest he had in the property before the sale.

SAYS SOUTH ABUSES NEGRO.

Democratic Party Blamed for Exodus to North and West.

Speaking last night before 200 negroes in the Salem Methodist Episcopal Church, 104 West 133d Street, Joseph C. Manning, former member of the Alabama Legislature, predicted that within three months one-half of the 8,000,000 negroes in the South would have migrated into the North and West.

"There is no real Democracy in Alabama," he said. "The trouble is the attitude of the South toward the negro, and this is a condition that had its origin in politics. The negro is being treated as he was before the war. The dominating political element in the South has lynched the Constitution of the United States the same as it had lynched colored men in Alabama. This with the barbarous practice of intimidating the negro is responsible for the exodus. It began when Wilson was reelected and the Democratic Party came into power again."

$1,134,000,000 FOR SHIPS.

Board Needs This Further Amount to Carry Program to Next June.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—With its plans for commandeering and construction practically completed, the Shipping Board submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury today estimates showing that $1,134,000,000 more would be needed to carry on the work, until June 1, 1918.

Of this amount $265,000,000 is needed to complete the commandeering program; $719,000,000 for fabricating yards and the construction of new tonnage and $150,000,000 to transfer 120 ships with a tonnage of 350,000 tons from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. Of these ships seventy-seven must be cut in two pieces to get them through the Welland Canal.

This estimate shows that the Shipping Board in construction and other activities has already used up the appropriation of $400,000,000 voted some months ago. It has about $250,000,000 which, with the $265,000,000 asked in the new estimate, will be used for commandeering ships on the stocks and on the seas.

It became known today that in order to prevent a disorganization of the industry, the board had refused permission for the construction of a number of ships for private interests, most of them French and Italian, which were willing to pay a higher price per ton than the United States Government. Several of the firms which wished to accept these contracts have been put aside by the Shipping Board, either because they failed to establish their ability to construct the vessels or because they refused to consider Government estimates.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"This Way Out," a new comedy by Frank Craven, will be acted here for the first time next Thursday night at the Cohan Theatre. The play is based on a story by Octavius Roy Cohen and J. U. Giesey and has been produced by J. Fred Zimmerman, Jr. The author will play one of the principal roles.

In order to avoid conflicting with other openings announced for the night of Labor Day Arthur Hammerstein has decided to postpone the first performance of "De Luxe Annie" at the Booth to Tuesday night, Sept. 4.

Mary Kennedy has been engaged for one of the leading roles in "Lucky O'Shea," the Irish comedy in which Allen Doone will be seen at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre, beginning Labor Day.

Margaret Wycherley has returned to the city from her Summer vacation and next Monday night will resume her original role in "The Thirteenth Chair" at the Fulton.

$1,000,000 TO SAVE WOMEN.

Move to Endow National Body Known as Grace Humiston League.

This statement was issued last night from the office of Mrs. Grace Humiston at 50 East Forty-second Street:

"A founders' campaign will be launched within three weeks in this city to raise $1,000,000 for the purpose of endowing a nation-wide organization for the protection of womanhood. It will be known as the Grace Humiston League. Several prominent officials at Washington were in New York in conference this evening with Mrs. Humiston to prevail upon her to take the initiative. One of New York's best-known citizens, who attended the meeting, said he would personally contribute $50,000.

"With the influences and power that are already behind this movement, there is no question but that by Sept. 20 a million dollars will be at the disposal of a board of trustees for the use of Mrs. Humiston and her organization. The plan of the Washington officials is to make at the present time New York the nucleus and to establish such a movement in every large city of the United States."

It was through the efforts of Mrs. Humiston that the body of Ruth Cruger was discovered in the cellar of the shop where Alfredo Cocchi had murdered her.

SECOND CAMP OPENS AT PLATTSBURG

1,600 of the Candidates for Commissions Arrive and Are Assigned to Their Companies.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The second training camp for reserve officers opened here this morning when 1,600 men from the New York and New England contingents arrived. Special trains, boats and automobiles brought in the candidates for commissions, who by noon were assigned to their proper companies and clothed and equipped. The rest of the students will arrive tomorrow and Saturday.

At present the officers in charge of the camp are concerned over the shortage of clothing. While all the candidates who arrived today are outfitted completely, there are not enough shoes, coats, hats and hat cords to equip the rest of the 5,000 students who will be in camp. An officer said today that a requisition for supplies was sent to Washington six weeks ago, but as yet no shipment had arrived.

Another point in the clothing shortage is the fact that the shortage is chiefly in the larger sizes, and the members of the camp are mostly large sized men.

The regular army officers assigned to this camp, who will be aided by fifty-two reserve officers who won their commissions at the last camp, are:

Wolf, Col. Paul A., commanding.
Baer, Capt. Joseph A., 2d Cav. Adjutant.
De Loffre, Maj. S. M., M.C., Surgeon.
Long, Maj. F. S., C.A.C., Quartermaster.
Goodrich, Capt. G. S., 20th Inf., Instructor.
Shaw, Capt. G. C., 30th Inf., Instructor.
Hammond, Capt. J. S., F.A., Instructor.
Wildrick, Capt. E. W., C.A.C., Instructor.
Walling, Capt. J. M., Q.M.C., Mess Officer.
Ware, Capt. F., 33d Inf., Instructor.
Ewell, Capt. G. W., 3d Inf., Instructor.
Fleet, Capt. H. W., Inf., 100 L., Instructor.
Van Horn, Capt. J. H., 22d Inf., Instructor.
Lang, Capt. J. W., 33d Inf., Instructor.
Erck, Capt. H., 5th Inf., Instructor.
Miller, Capt. L. W., Engrs., Instructor.
Groninger, Capt. H. M., 5th Cav., Instructor.
Waterman, Capt. J. J., 19th Cav., Camp Exchange Officer.
Lord, Capt. K. F., Cav., 100 L., Asst. Adjutant.
Lawes, Capt. H. J., 59th Inf., Asst. Adjutant.
Griffith, Capt. C. C., C.A.C., Instructor.
Bull, Capt. H. R., 50th Inf., Asst. to Adjutant.
Pritchett, Capt. H. H., Inf., Instructor.
Barton, Capt. Raymond O., Inf., Instructor.
Lough, Capt. M. L., Inf., Instructor.
Murphy, First Lt. J. J., Inf., Instructor.
McCarty, 1st Lt. K., 17th Cav., Police Officer.
Brady, 1st Lt. G. F., Inf., rid., Asst. Q.M.
Sherrill, 2d Lt. S. H., 17th Cav., I., Troop 2.

Captains Goodrich and Shaw will be the senior instructors. There will be few changes in the routine of the new camp, but candidates for artillery and infantry drill will be separated at once instead of the whole camp having to go through five weeks of infantry squad drill and the manual of arms.

There will be no cavalry, no engineer, and no aviation assignments from this camp. Candidates will have an opportunity on Monday to express their preference as regards infantry, light or heavy artillery. Those who choose the latter will be sent to Fortress Monroe and elsewhere, while the light artillery men and infantry men will drill at Plattsburg, each studying only the tactics and strategy of his own branch of the service.

It was said tonight by officers of the camp that fewer commissions in proportion to the number of men enrolled would be given at this camp. It is said that not more than a third at the most will be rewarded.

GENERAL O'RYAN'S STATUS.

Rated as a Reserve Officer on National Guard Rolls of the State.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, who recently received a commission in the United States Army, now holds the position of a supernumary officer of the New York National Guard and has been withdrawn from active service in the militia and placed on the reserve list, according to an opinion given today by Attorney General Merton E. Lewis to Governor Whitman The status of Major Gen. O'Ryan was made because of many inquiries as to his exact standing in the State.

The Attorney General held that the draft into the United States Army of all the active members of the National Guard had in effect disbanded the organization of which Major Gen. O'Ryan was in command. Neither the Constitution nor anything in the statutes, the Attorney General also ruled, makes it necessary for the Governor to appoint a successor to Major Gen. O'Ryan.

Cheap Handkerchiefs May Go.

Unless there is a very material decrease in the prices of cotton and linen goods, the popular-priced handkerchiefs for men and women, especially those retailing at 5 or 10 cents, will disappear from the market about Jan. 1, according to a local wholesaler. "Next year's business," he said yesterday, "will be contracted for at this year's prices, as is the custom in the handkerchief trade, and it may be years before the low-priced handkerchief can be worked back into the market again."

Quilt Orders Not Needed.

One of the largest quilt manufacturing concerns in the country reported yesterday that it is more interested just now in filling the orders it already has on its books than in going out for more business. It has orders enough on hand now to carry it well over into next year, working at full capacity. Prices range, on an average, about 20 per cent. over last year. The independence of the mill hands, however, and their ever-increasing demands are causing some uncertainty and are eating into profits to a considerable extent.

Trimmed Dress Hats Good.

Reports from the local wholesale millinery trade tell of a nice business on large velvet dress hats, trimmed with ostrich quills, appliqued flowers, &c., in dark garnet, purple, taupe, navy, and seal brown. They are shown with both soft and stiff brims and soft crowns, the Bishop's crown effect being especially in favor in the higher-grade lines. Ready-to-wear hats of Lyons and panne velvets are having a good sale in the popular-priced lines in most of the colors given above. They are shown with soft brims and soft, high crowns. Untrimmed hats of the same type are also proving acceptable to the buyers.

New American Color Card Out.

The Textile Color Card Association has brought out for the trade its new shades for the 1918 Spring season. The new card contains forty-two colors, of which ten are of a pronounced military tone. In spite of the pessimistic talk that has been heard in some quarters, concerning the need of more sombre hues in the future, as a result of the entry of this country into the war, most of the shades on the new card are of a decidedly cheerful tone. One of the features of the card is the cable numbers it contains, something that has been made necessary by the increasing export trade with South America.

Gray Goods Trading Fair.

A pretty fair business was done in the local gray goods market yesterday, in which printcloths figured to quite a large extent. Both spot and contract sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were reported from first hands at 10 cents, while first-hand business also was reported on 39-inch 68-72s at 11¼ cents for contract shipment. For spot and nearby delivery first hands also sold 38½-inch 60-48s and 60-52s at 8¾ and 9 cents, respectively. In the sheeting end of the market there was further buying of 5.50s at 8¾ cents for shipment during the next several months. Printcloth prices, which were a bit irregular, averaged about this way at the close:

39-inch, 72-76s	13c	38½-inch, 64-56s	10c
39-inch, 68-72s	11½c	38½-inch, 60-52s	9c
38-inch, 56-44s	8¼c	38½-inch, 60-48s	8¾c
38½-inch, 64-64s	10½c	27-inch 64-60s	7⅞c

Japanese Raw Silks Easier.

The Yokohama raw silk market has been dull of late, with the result that prices have suffered a decline. Tram stocks, especially, have been hurt by the lack of trading. With more liberal arrivals from the interior, visible stocks have increased somewhat. At Canton the reelers steadily refuse to make concessions, in spite of the constant advance in exchange. At Shanghai the rise in exchange has been so sharp that the lay-down costs have been advanced fully 80 cents a pound in the last week. Milan shows no change, according to H. L. Gwalter & Co. The local market is quiet, with manufacturers for the most part confining their purchases to actual needs.

Bay Rum May Go Up Also.

An interesting situation is noted in the drug and chemical trade in relation to certain articles in which alcohol forms a component part. One of these is imported bay rum. The present wholesale price of alcohol is about $4.25 a gallon, and as imported bay rum contains at least 50 per cent. alcohol, it is evident that the alcohol alone contained in a gallon of bay rum is worth at least $2.12. The present market quotation for bay rum at $2.50 a gallon is, in trade opinion, manifestly out of proportion, especially in view of the proposed increase in the revenue tax on spirits. An authority in the trade predicts a sharp advance in the price of imported bay rum as soon as these conditions are realized.

Spirits Imports End Sept. 9.

Importers of distilled spirits are devoting every effort to getting in their supplies from abroad before midnight on Sept. 9, when the provisions of the Food Control law become effective against the entry of whiskies, champagnes, and other beverages of this kind. The law also ends for the period of the war all imports of foods, fruits, food materials or feeds used in the production of distilled spirits. Beginning on Monday, Sept. 10, customs officials will seize all spirituous beverages reaching American ports and refer such cases to the United States District Attorney. It was assumed at the Custom House yesterday that the Government would pay regular market prices for distilled spirits arriving after the date in question, provided it was shown that there was no attempt on the part of shippers, or their connections here, to circumvent the law.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Most Stocks Decline Again in an Active Session—New Tax Possibilities.

It is rare that the stock market opens under the influence of so many unfavorable factors as confronted it yesterday after a reading of the news from Washington. The income tax is not only to be increased to heights that would shock the English Treasury authorities after three years of war, but excess profits taxes are to be made more burdensome. At the same time care is to be taken that neither individuals nor corporations shall profit much by war business through drastic price-cutting, and as if that were not enough for one day's discouragement, disquieting stories of the instability of the new Russian Government administration awoke fresh fears as to the possibility that Russia may, after all, effect a separate peace as the lesser of two evils. The stock market had experienced a premonition of these developments and prices had been lowered to meet them, so that the break in the first hour yesterday, while a wide one for some issues, did not extend as far as some of the short sellers would have liked to see it go.

As a matter of fact, the financial community has begun to take a philosophical view of the efforts of the La Follette school in Congress to conscript wealth without any exemption. Some of the wealthiest men in the financial district, who might be expected to show the greatest perturbation over the latest increase in taxes, say that they are willing to see 100 per cent. of their income taken by the Government if such action is for the best interests of the country. Congress has broken away from the conservative leaders in piling on increase after increase in the taxes in order to placate sentiment "back home." The cost of the war has already grown to appalling proportions and the country is beginning to call upon its representatives to know where all the money is to come from and where it is to be used. There still persists in many sections the foolish belief that the war was engineered by the capitalist class, and is benefiting them now at the expense of the great majority. It is certain that no man with an income of a million dollars a year is going to suffer personal discomfort when that is reduced to $500,000 net, but the question of how far the Government can go in taking away the income of individuals and corporations without prejudicing the success of future bond offerings is at least one which should be considered.

Dealings on the Stock Exchange yesterday were again much more active than those of recent sessions prior to Wednesday, and nearly all issues closed with additional losses, though these losses were reduced in some instances by the partial recovery in the afternoon. The steel and copper stocks are still showing the effect of the uncertainty which remains as to the prices the President will approve, and the rails made but feeble response to the argument that they will be greatly benefited by the assurance of lower prices for fuel.

LONDON MARKET IS STRONG.

Money Is Quiet and Discount Rates Are Steady.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The stock market was strong with increased activity today. The provinces bought home industrials, and oil shares were buoyant, especially Mexican and Egyptian descriptions. Mexican rails and mines were in demand and Brazilian Railway Company securities hardened on the announcement of a reorganization scheme.

Peruvian rails gained and Russian bonds and industrials received more attention and advanced to higher levels. Gold mines were more active, while rubber stocks were quietly firm.

Money was quieter and discount rates steady.

55,000 ACCOUNTS UNCLAIMED IN BANKS

Banking Department Publishes the First List of This Kind in Thirty-seven Years.

TOTAL REACHES THOUSANDS

Claimants for These Deposits Must Submit Their Proof to Bank Superintendent at Albany.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 23.—During the last few days the State Banking Department published a list of the dormant accounts held by State banks, trust companies, savings banks, and private and individual bankers. It comprises about 55,000 names, and shows all of the unclaimed accounts that the various institutions have been carrying for thirty-seven years. The last previous publication of this sort was in 1880.

Included in the list are the names of the depositors in institutions which have been liquidated or are in process of liquidation by the Banking Department. As no totals have been made by the institutions or by the department, the amount of money involved can only be estimated. Officials of the Banking Department say it is well up in the thousands, but that it probably would not reach $1,000,000.

After an account has been in a savings bank for twenty years, no interest is paid on it, and if the legal owner should turn up, the money is paid over on presentation of the passbook or the legal proof that the claimant is entitled to the money.

The publication by the Superintendent of Banks shows more names in old corporations than in liquidated institutions. Many of the amounts are small, but the department, as a matter of policy, does not print these, because this might bring on claimants who are not entitled to the money. The banks are not required to report amounts smaller than $10.

In the case of a bank that has gone into liquidation, the Superintendent of Banks becomes the trustee of the dormant accounts, and he is required to keep an index of the names of all persons for whom he holds in trust any unclaimed deposites, dividends, or interest, and of the names of all persons reported to him by any corporation or private or individual banker, as entitled to any such unclaimed deposits, dividends, or interest held by such corporation or banker. Whenever any person shall show by evidence satisfactory to the Superintendent that he is lawfully entitled to receive such money, the Superintendent shall indicate to him the corporation or banker by which it is held, or, if the Superintendent holds such money in trust, he may pay it over to such person. In case of doubt or conflicting claims, he may require of the claimant an order of the Supreme Court authorizing and directing the payment thereof, but for any payment made by him in good faith, by check or order payable to the creditor, depositor, or stockholder or shareholder appearing from the records in his office to be entitled thereto, he shall be held harmless and shall not be liable to any subsequent claimant.

In 1916 there was paid back in dormant claims the sum of $7,431.30; in 1915, the various institutions holding such money turned back $12.87; in 1914, $32.63, and in 1913, $76.06, indicating that in the majority of cases the amounts held in these dormant accounts are small.

Plans for New Financing of Bethlehem Steel Near Completion.

Plans for the new financing of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation are gradually nearing completion after several weeks of conferences between the company's representatives and New York bankers. There will be a meeting of the Directors of the corporation on Monday, at which time final details will be determined upon and an official announcement made concerning the arrangement.

It is understood that the proposed plan calls for the issuance of $30,000,000 of 8 per cent. preferred stock, convertible into B stock at 115. It is said to be the present intention to offer this new stock to holders of A and B shares at par. The new issue will probably be underwritten by a syndicate headed by the Guaranty Trust Company, the Bankers Trust Company, and J. & W. Seligman & Co.

It is said that the corporation does not need new funds for its current business, but that the additional financing has been undertaken to provide capital to handle the huge orders that the company expects to receive from hte United States Government.

Following the adoption of the plan by the Directors, it will be necessary to obtain the consent of the stockholders to the new issue of capital stock.

Hudson Tubes' Revenue Increases.

The Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company reports net operating revenue for the month of July of $252,316, compared with $245,324 the same month last year. The balance of net income for the month was $34,961 as against $31,026 a year ago. In July, the Hudson tubes carried 5,464,184 passengers, an increase of more than 604,000 compared with July, 1916.

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

WHEAT.

Further liquidation of outstanding contracts revealed irregularity in wheat yesterday, but on the whole the market was steady, and closed 1c net higher. In conservative circles it was expected that both Winter and Spring wheat total yields would run considerably ahead of the Government figures. Some export inquiry was noted, but actual figures were not available. Locally No. 2 red was quoted at 2.25 and No. 2 hard 2.27, both cost, insurance, and freight, New York, export.

CORN.

The trend of corn prices, after an opening decline, due to rains in the Eastern belt, was generally higher, and in the afternoon the market displayed positive strength, advancing 2c over the low point, and at the close showing ½ to 1c net rise. Cash corn was firmer, with a somewhat better demand from other quarters, and locally closed strong, with No. 2 yellow quoted at 1.98½ and No. 2 mixed 1.95½, both cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

Prices advanced on a stronger cash situation and better demand, with farm offerings light and rain east of the Mississippi causing further delay with farm work. Covering advanced futures about 1c per bushel, and the close was ½c to ⅝c net higher. Locally the cash market shared the Western strength and closed as follows: Standard, 69c; No. 2 white, 69½c; No. 3 white, 68c; No. 4 white, 67c; fancy clipped white, 71@73c; ordinary clipped white, 69@71c, all nominal.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was rather weak early in sympathy with hogs, but turned stronger after mid-day advancing on purchases by large packers and covering on the strength in coarse grains. Receipts continued light, Chicago getting only 11,000 hogs, with 11,000 expected on Friday and only 50,000 at all Western points. Kansas City receipts were 5,000 hogs and Omaha 8,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market showed early weakness in sympathy with lower hog prices and on the census report, but was stronger after midday, recovering most of the loss on a demand from shorts inspired by the sharp upturn in lard. Final prices were 10 points lower to 8 higher, late positions showing the most firmness. Total sales were 30,200 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

Early irregularity was followed by declines in the market for coffee futures yesterday. Reports that freight room was offering a little more freely in Brazil and of easier cost and freight markets probably promoted the selling, and after opening net 2 points lower to 2 points higher the market closed at a net decline of 2 to 4 points. Sales, including the exchanges, were 54,500 bags. The local spot market remained quiet, with quotations on the basis of 9½c for Rio 7s and 10½c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

Business in refined sugar was very light, as buyers are anticipating some adjustment in values and are therefore not inclined to make new purchases. Prices are unchanged at 8.40 to 9.00c for fine granulated. Raw sugar was steady at the decline to 6½c, cost and freight, for the spot position, but there was weakness noted in September shipment, that position being held at 6¼c, cost and freight, with bids of 1-16c less solicited. Arbuckle bought 30,000 bags prompt shipment Cubas at 6⅝c, cost and freight, and another local refiner bought 10,000 bags Cubas, prompt, at the same price. Expecting a readjustment in prices refiners fail to show any buying interest in forward positions. Spot prices follow: Centrifugal, 7.40c; molasses, 6.52c; cost and freight, 6¾c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKETS.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,516 packages. Buying interest was more in evidence at the opening, and the market soon developed very great strength. Prices advanced fully a half cent on top qualities and even more on the medium grades, which were particularly active. An army order for 240,000 pounds of butter added strength to the position. EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 15,278 cases. There is a good demand for nearly all grades of eggs at proportionate prices. The higher qualities are scarce, and are wanted rather beyond the supply, leading to a firmer market. Storage eggs are in good demand and firmer. Nearby white eggs are in light supply. Undergraded are in regular and selling at a wide range. THE COTTON MARKET

Early Irregularity Followed by Sharp Break—Net Decline of 7-27 Points.

Early irregularity was followed by another sharp break in the cotton market yesterday. Several months made new low ground for the movement including October, which sold off to 23.13, or 52 points from the high level of the morning and 27 points under Wednesday's closing figures. Final prices were within a few points of the lowest on the general list, with the tone irregular at a net decline of 7 to 27 points on September and later deliveries.

The market showed reactionary tendencies during the earlier trading. The opening was 9 to 14 points lower under over-night selling orders attracted by the weakness of Wednesday. The market soon steadied, however, and covering became more active after receipt of advices that a Southern authority reported a deterioration of 1.2 per cent. in crop prospects. There was also some bullish comment on the Western belt forecast for generally clear weather and the market sold some 25 to 28 points net higher during the morning. This made a rally of about 35 to 45 points from the low level, which seemed to reflect the covering of the more nervous shorts. At any rate demand slackened and the market broke in the late trading under renewed reports of an easing spot basis in the South. There were also reports that scattered Southern selling here was more active than previously which suggested increased pressure of hedges.

There seemed to be some confusion with reference to the private condition figures published during the morning. The report was that a prominent Southern authority made the condition 70.3, indicating deterioration of 1.2 per cent. for the month. This seemed out of line with the report of the previous month, however, and while the talk of deterioration was a disappointment to some recent sellers the condition actually mentioned was compared favorably with the official ten year average of 70.9. The government's report on condition is expected on Friday of next week and a good deal of the scattered buying yesterday morning was attributed to a desire to even up commitments before the private reports begin to come in to foreshadow its showing.

Exports for the day were 15,448 bales, making 241,716 so far this season. Following are yesterday's quotations:

BARUCH QUITS 'CHANGE; WAR TAKES FULL TIME

Sells Seat to Francis H. Welch—Other Wall St. Men Giving All Energy to Patriotic Work.

Bernard M. Baruch, one of the most picturesque figures on the New York Stock Exchange, has sold his seat to Francis W. Welch for $58,000. That is about one-eighth of the profit Baruch made in a few days, according to his testimony before the Congress Committee which sought to find the German peace note leak in the December break in stocks.

Mr. Baruch wound up his business and announced that he would not buy or sell another share of stock when he was called to Washington to become a member of the Advisory Council of National Defense. He would have sold his Exchange membership at that time, he said but did not want to appear that he had been influenced to take such action by his examination before the Henry Committee. He has since become so closely identified with the work of getting supplies for the Government that he has become convinced that it will be a long time before he is again free to speculate in stocks, even if he decides to return to Wall Street. His responsibilities in connection with the mobilization of raw materials and the regulation of prices and his duties as a member of the War Industries Board put it out of the question for him to deal in securities of companies concerned with Government orders.

Mr. Baruch is but one of a considerable number of prominent Wall Street men who have dropped practically all of their old activities to give their energies to the Government while the war lasts. Eugene Meyer, Jr., a close business associate of Mr. Baruch, is liquidating his Stock Exchange firm because of his work in Washington. Henry P. Davison, although retaining membership in J. P. Morgan & Co., devotes all his time to the Red Cross. Judge R. S. Lovett, Chairman of the Union Pacific, obtained leave of absence to work with Mr. Davison on the Red Cross, but has since taken charge of the distribution of coal. Martin Egan of the Morgan firm is living in Washington and working for the Red Cross. G. M. P. Murphy, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, and James H. Perkins, Vice President of the National City Bank, are both in France for the Red Cross. S. R. Bertron was a member of the Root mission to Russia and Harvey D. Gibson, President of the Liberty National Bank, is serving under Mr. Davison. Many other men are giving up a substantial part of their time to the Liberty Loan and other Government interests.

The new Board of Directors of the General Motors Corporation, elected at the annual meeting of stockholders on Wednesday, has met and organized. Pierre S. du Pont is the new Chairman of the Board; W. C. Durant continues as President; A. G. Bishop, W. P. Chrysler, R. H. Collins, W. L. Day, C. S. Mott, E. Ver Linden and F. W. Warner are Vice Presidents; T. S. Merrill, Secretary, H. H. Rice, Treasurer and W. L. Prensky, Controller. L. G. Kaufman, Pierre S. du Pont, W. C. Durant, J. H. McClement, and J. J. Raskob are the Finance Committee.

The new board consists of A. G. Bishop, W. P. Chrysler, R. H. Collins, W. L. Day, Pierre S. du Pont, W. C. Durant, J. H. Haskell, L. G. Kaufman, J. H. McClement, C. S. Mott, J. J. Raskob, E. Ver Linden and F. W. Warner. Of the entire board, only Mr. McClement is a holdover from the former organization, although Mr. Durant took office before the election, succeeding Benoni Lockwood as President of the corporation. It was announced at the Directors' meeting that arrangements had been completed for the dissolution, on an early date of the General Motors Company, all of whose stock is now in the hands of the General Motors Corporation.

ANCIENT JERUSALEM A MODERN FORTRESS

SAFE FROM FRONT ATTACK

Returned Missionaries Doubt If the Place Can Be Taken Except by Flanking.

Jerusalem, one of the objectives of the British campaign in Palestine, is now a strongly fortified city, protected by modern armament, and its Turkish defenders, officered by Germans of high command, have prepared a defense which, to be overcome, will require an effort on a parity with the trench campaign in Flanders, according to members of a party of missionaries which arrived here this week from Turkey and surrounding mission fields.

A spokesman for the party, who for several years was in charge of the work of a foreign mission board at a city in Palestine, asserted that, in his opinion, Jerusalem could never be taken by a frontal attack, and could only be conquered by extensive flanking operations. This defense of the Turks, he said, had been prepared with every ingenuity of the German military mind, and it had been under way since January.

"In December, or even in January," he declared, "the city could have been taken with ease by a single army corps."

The Turks, however, as well as their German allies to the north of the city, are not being allowed to rest in peace, he added, but are being continually subjected to air raids from the British camp.

"Reports that have gone forth from German sources that the British are destroying sacred relics on Mount Olivet are inspired propaganda," he continued.

"The historic mountain has been subjected to aerial bomb attack, but nothing of value to Christianity has been destroyed, for the reason that there is nothing there of that nature, aside from the mountain, to destroy.

"The only structure of any consequence on the mount is a German school —and that has been taken over by the Turkish military authorities and is used as headquarters by Djemal Pasha and his staff."

The missionaries said there was both plenty and starvation in Turkey—the army officers have the former and the people have the latter—but such is the hold the military authorities have that the people dare not rebel.

"As regards the war, the Turkish forces seem to be well established and able to hold their own for a considerable time to come," the spokesman continued. "The Turkish Army has constantly been underestimated, and, as a consequence, failures have resulted to the Allies. The fact that the people of the country are starving will not make the slightest difference to the Government in prosecuting the war.

"Would Turkey be willing to conclude a separate peace? She is in the condition of a man holding a live wire—she would like to let go, but she can't. In spite of effusive journalistic declarations, Germany is undoubtedly the least loved country in Turkey.

"There are still remaining in Turkey about 150 Americans. There is no cause for alarm on the part of their friends, for, while they are surrounded with very trying conditions, they have the means of keeping themselves from want, and the attitude of the Government officials is, on the whole, friendly to Americans. The people of the country consider America their best friend."

The missionaries said that with the breaking of diplomatic relations with Turkey the centres through which they received help from relief societies and friends have been closed to them. In th interior mission work has largely ceased, owing to internal conditions and the seizing of buildings for military purposes. In Constantinople, Smyrna, and Beirut, however, the educational institutions have remained open, and apparently enjoy special favors from the Turkish Government.

There were fifty-seven persons in the party that reached here, including representatives of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, the American Board, Christian Alliance, Roberts College, and the International College. They came from Constantinople, Smyrna, the interior of Asia Minor, Syria, and Jerusalem. They received permission to return home in May, but had to wait until July 27 or the American Government to visé their passports. Then they got a special train, which carried them to Switzerland, from which country they made their way to a French port.

FIRE STOPS 5TH AV. TRAFFIC

Fully ten thousand people watched a fire which started about 7 o'clock last night on the eighth floor of a building at 2 West Thirty-fifth Street, one side of which faces on Fifth Avenue. Traffic was jammed for blocks in every direction, hundreds of automobiles bearing theatre-goers being held up.

Miss Helen Steiner was attending a patron of her beauty parlor on the eighth floor of the building when she smelled smoke. Going into the hall, she saw that it was coming from the offices of the International Millinery Company, on the same floor. She turned in a fire alarm. Notifying her patron, Miss Steiner, carrying her parrot, started downstairs. When she reached the sixth floor, she relinquished the parrot, which had not been heard from up to a late hour last night.

A passer-by turned in another alarm and in a few moments firemen were carrying hose to the eighth floor. Fireman Decey, who broke open the door of the millinery establishment, was knocked down by a back-draft, but in a few moments the fire was out. The damage was estimated at $20,000, all sustained by the millinery concern. There was no one in the office when the fire started.

R. J. Pierce Declared Incompetent.

Following a hearing in the Supreme Court yesterday, Justice Erlanger ordered that Robert J. Pierce, a dealer in druggists' supplies, be committed to the care of Jacob S. Ruskin, a personal friend, and to Clifford A. Pierce, his son, as mentally incompetent. Dr. Menas S. Gregory, Chief Alienist of Bellevue Hospital, testified as to the mental illness of Mr. Pierce. Mr. Pierce is 55 years old and gave Bloomfield, N. J., as his home.

PORT CHESTER, Aug. 23.—A report of Transfer Tax Appraiser W. C. Clark of Westchester County completed today, to be filed with Surrogate William Sawyer of Port Chester, values the estate of the late Mary Lewin Smith of Yonkers at $225,000. Over one-half of it, $118,000, which was distributed for charitable or philanthropic purposes, is exempt from taxation. The estate of the testatrix, who was the second wife of the late Alexander Smith, who founded the big carpet works in Yonkers, will yield an inheritance tax of $3,500 to the State. Smith died leaving several millions.

EXPLORER MACMILLAN EXPECTED HOME SOON

Museum Receives Wireless From the Neptune Saying All Are Well —Coming by Way of St. John's.

Donald B. MacMillan, the explorer, who has been in the polar country since 1913, when the expedition headed by him found that Crocker Land, thought to have been discovered by Robert E. Peary, did not exist, is on his way back to the United States. A wireless message from him received yesterday at the Museum of Natural History said he and the members of his party "probably will proceed to St. John's, N. F." It is supposed that they will make the return trip on the steamer Neptune, which left for the polar regions on July 10, last, as the third relief ship sent out to assist MacMillan and his party to return to this country. The explorer's message was addressed to Henry Fairfield Osborn, President of the Museum, and was sent from Etah, Greenland. It follows:

S.S. Neptune, via Nakkovich and Fogo,
Aug. 22, 1917.

Henry Fairfield Osborn, President American Museum of Natural History, New York City:

All well. Every one and everything on board. Hovey left Disco by Hans Egede in July. Ice very heavy Belleville Bay. Captain Bartlett did fine work. Probably proceed to St. John's, N. F.

MacMILLAN.

The "Hovey" mentioned in the message is Dr. Edmund Otis Hovey, Curator of Geology at the American Museum of Natural History, who is expected to arrive in New York City in a few days.

The Hans Egede mentioned in the message is the steamship in which Dr. Hovey started his return voyage. The Captain Bartlett of the message is Captain Robert Bartlett, who commanded the ship in which Peary made the trip in 1906 when he reported the discovery of Crocker Land.

The return of the MacMillan party will end an expedition that was filled with hardships. The two expeditions that went to the relief of the MacMillan party before the Neptune both failed to reach the explorer's camp, and the party was compelled for a time to live on the fare of the Eskimos.

Although the nonexistence of Crocker Land prevented the main expedition from obtaining the information it had hoped to get, it collected a great deal of valuable data, made maps of unexplored parts of the coast, and is bringing back many records of great value to scientists.

Dean Keppel Stays In War Work.

Announcement was made at Columbia University yesterday of the granting of leave of absence to Frederick P. Keppel, Dean of Columbia College, for the next academic year, so he may continue the work which he is now doing in the War Department. Professor Herbert E. Hawkes, of the Department of Mathematics, has been appointed Acting Dean of the college during Dean Keppel's absence.

Building Committee Meets.

The committee recently organized, representative of building and other allied interests, held a preliminary meeting yesterday in the rooms of the Building National Exchange in the Woolworth Building. Another meeting will be held next week, when arrangements will be made for a mass meeting in the City Hall, at which delegates from all building material trades, property owners' associations, and other bodies will be invited to discuss the question of the high cost of building in an effort to relieve existing conditions. Word was received by the committee that the Federal Trades Commission has sent two men to this city to investigate building conditions. The members of the committee are C. J. Curtin, Chairman; Elliott Smith, Allen E. Beale, Walter C. Schultz, and George A. Molitor.

NAVY YARD WORKERS OPPOSED TO STRIKE

Officials of Machinists' Local Advise Men Not to Join Walkout.

ONLY A FEW WANT TO QUIT

Engineers' Union Also Against Interrupting Government Shipbuilding.

The attempt of striking shipyard workers to call the machinists of the Brooklyn Navy Yard out received a check last night at a closed meeting of Local 556, International Association of Machinists, composed of navy yard employes, at Labor Lyceum, Willoughby and Myrtle Avenues, Brooklyn. The officials of the local union advised against a walkout and the 250 men attending refused to take any action looking toward a strike.

After the meeting, which lasted from 8 o'clock until nearly midnight, it was learned that the only step taken by the local union on the subject was to vote to send an uninstructed delegate to the convention of the National Metal Trades Association in Washington next week. President John F. Morrison of the local union, who is said to be opposed to a strike in the navy yard, refused to discuss anything that had occurred at the meeting. Only a few, it was said, talked in favor of quitting work on ships and materials of the United States Navy, and these agreed that the subject should be delayed until employes in other trades in the navy yard should decide their position. Several members of the International Association of Machinists, which is directing the shipyards strike, were present at the meeting, but were said to have taken only a passive part in the proceedings.

An indication that sentiment among workmen in the Brooklyn Navy Yard is strongly opposed to a strike was given at a meeting of forty navy yard employes belonging to Local No. 610 of the Steam and Operating Engineers' Union, who gathered in the same hall and expressed themselves against any interruption of Government work.

Strike leaders refused to be seen yesterday afternoon at their headquarters at 300 Broadway regarding reports that many strikers were returning to work and that the larger shipyards in this vicinity had now almost normal forces.

PORTSMOUTH MEN LOYAL.

Navy Yard Workers Promise to Stick to Their Jobs.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 23.—Several hundred employes of the navy yard here, following the example of workers in the Philadelphia yard, sent a message today to Secretary Daniels pledging their loyal co-operation in all the Government's plans for the war. The message was signed by the Portsmouth Navy Yard Improvement Association, which has among its members a majority of the 2,300 civilian employes in the yard.

The memorial from the 7,000 workers at Philadelphia which was presented to Secretary Daniels yesterday and the testimonial telegraphed from here today follow closely rumors of strike threats in the New York Navy Yard.

Quality—After All, the Thing That Counts

To compare prices only, to say we have Hart Schaffner & Marx Suits at $17 that were $40 or $35 or $25, tells but little about this sale.

You must consider the quality, the phenomenal value you get for what you pay, the higher prices that must prevail in the immediate future, to appreciate the opportunity you now have to practise real economy.

Just think—at a time like this, with everything costing more and with all sorts of cheap materials masquerading around—we offer you the safety, the protection, the certainty of

"MODERATION SERIES" NO. 6

The white hot sun of the desert kills every living thing

YET a little moisture would make it blossom in plenitude, so that a whole race might thrive upon its products. Thus it is with almost everything known to man. Moderation is the big word, as all men of wisdom know.

For 60 years Anheuser-Busch have been the brewers of Honest Old BUDWEISER—a brew of Barley-Malt and Saazer Hops—whose sales (because of its distinctive flavor) exceed all other brews by millions of bottles. When BUDWEISER is used with common sanity it quickens the spark of human geniality and friendship. BUDWEISER'S name and fame cover the civilized world.

Visitors to St. Louis are courteously invited to inspect our plant—covers 142 acres
